Singleton Gets No-No Triumph as Suds Nab Pair; Beavers Divide

By DON THACKERY United Press Sports Writer Elmer Singleton, who will never be rookie of the year in the Metropolitan Opera, was nevertheless on perfect pitch yesterday.

Singleton tossed a near-perfect no-hitter against the frustrated San Diego Padres in the seven inning second game of a Pacific Coast League doubleheader to win 2-0 and increase the lead of first place Seattle to four full games.

The Padres, who couldn't win whether they hit or not, lost the first game 8-7 in spite of 17 hits and a 7-1 lead in the eighth inning.

Everybody else split the Sabbath twin bills. Los Angeles got past San Francisco 3-2 and then the Seals won 3-1. Sacramento won 5-3 from Portland and then the Beavers two-hit the Solons 3-0. And Oakland, a 5-3 victor over Hollywood, was trampled 7-2 in the second game.

Only One Walk

Singleton got his 14th win of the year and his sixth shut-out as he had the Pads biting at their fingernails. Dick Faber walked in the sixth inning and was the only man to dent Singleton's pitching record. He got no farther and the Padres had one man left on base.

In the opening game the Padres got 17 hits and were coasting when Seattle broke out in a huge rally for six runs and a tie in the eighth. Then in the bottom of the ninth extra-major league star Vern Stephens hammered a home run and the league leaders were further out in front.

Jim Brosnan pitched the Los Angeles Angels to the win in the first game in San Francisco with the aid of homers by Hal Rice and Piper Davis. Then in the second game Tony Ponce tossed a six-hitter and won his first game in nearly two months.

In another display of not using the base hits at hand, the Sacramento Solons got 18 hits off Portland pitching and still had to pull out a 5-3 decision in the final innings. Al Heist's two-run homer in the seventh brought the Solons into a tie after nine hits in the first six frames had produced only one run.

In the second game Ed Burtch registered the Solons to two hits in registering a shutout. Portland's pattern was the same in each game—three runs in the first and no more for the rest of the contest. In the first game the three tallies were not enough but in the nightcap they held up fine thanks to Burtch.

Portland Victory

In the second game Ed Burtch registered the Solons to two hits in registering a shutout. Portland's pattern was the same in each game—three runs in the first and no more for the rest of the contest. In the first game the three tallies were not enough but in the nightcap they held up fine thanks to Burtch.

Oakland took advantage of nine hits and broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh to whip Hollywood 5-3 in the long game. The Stars got 12 hits off two Oakland pitchers, but didn't put them together as efficiently as did the Oaks.

In the second game Red Munger hurled a five-hitter and his mates knocked on Duane Plette for three runs in the fourth on Don Ferrarese for four in the sixth to cinch the

Fame Hall Opens Doors To 6 Players

Cooperstown, N. Y. — (U.P.) — Baseball's Hall of Fame officially opens its doors today to admit the six newest members of its galaxy of stars—Joe DiMaggio, Ted Lyons, Dazzy Vance, Gabby Hartnett, John F. (Home Run) Baker, and Ray Schalk.

All six of the diamond greats were expected to take part personally in the colorful ceremonies officially inducting them into the Hall.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies, the Milwaukee Braves and Boston Red Sox were scheduled to clash in the annual major-league exhibition game at Abner Doubleday field, long honored as the site of the founding of the national pastime.

The admission of the six new members swells the membership of the Hall to 79. DiMaggio, Lyons, Vance, and Hartnett were voted into the Hall by the annual balloting of the senior members of the Baseball Writers association. Baker and Schalk were selected by the special committee on veterans.
