

Number of American Soldiers Taking British Wives Continues to Increase

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press Correspondent
London —(U.P.)— A man can make himself pretty unpopular by going around American bases and asking why so many American servicemen insist on marrying British girls. It's a subject few GIs want to be quoted on because some day they will have

Cures Loneliness
After having had someone to rely on for companionship for many years, a person is bound to be seriously affected when he or she is suddenly left alone. However, no one need be lonesome. "I lost my husband a year ago and I am out shopping for another. I have joined the Golden Age club in our community and we have over 200 members, both men and women. I must say, I have not met a finer crowd of people in a long time. It has been years since I enjoyed myself as much as I have since becoming one of the bunch. After the summer is over, I'll join other

First Major Break In Copper Dispute

Denver—(U.P.)—The first major break in a strike that has crippled the nation's non-ferrous metals industry came today with settlement of the Independent International Union of Mine-Mill and Smelter Workers' walk-out against Phelps-Dodge Corp., one of the country's big four copper producers.

The agreement, expected to set a pattern for wage settlements by more than a dozen other companies involved in the month-long strike, was announced in Douglas, Ariz., by Federal Conciliator W. P. Halloran, after 10 hours of continuous negotiations that ended at 6 a.m.

Halloran said terms of the agreement called for pay increases ranging from 11 1/2 to 17 1/2 cents an hour through 12 grade levels.

to go back and live surrounded by American women. But the fact cannot be ignored that the number of American men taking British wives keeps going up steadily. It was 200 a month about a year ago, now it is 250 a month. This means 3,000 eligible Americans are being taken out of circulation in clubs of this sort. Tell those people who write to you about being lonely to join a club and they won't be lonely any more. This is just what I have been saying for years. Only companionship of the right kind can cure loneliness. It is like any physical pain. You must get at the cause of the trouble and cure it, or it will remain and grow.

The lonely person craves not just any companionship but companionship with a congenial person. That is why widows and widowers often remain lonely even after they get to live with a married son and daughter. The age difference plus the fear that they may be imposing keeps them from finding real companionship even when they are surrounded by a family.

While not every community is fortunate enough to have a "Golden Age club" with such a large membership, there are few communities that do not have some club where older people meet. This is the real answer to the lonely person's problem.

While the clubs may not meet often, the important thing is that they give people of similar age and interests a chance to meet and get to know each other. From the group, it should be possible for anyone to select several who would make congenial friends. Often it is through such clubs that lonely widows and widowers find new mates, and this solves permanently the problem of their loneliness.

Phoenix Council Gets Driver Training Plan

Phoenix—The Phoenix city council has under advisement a request from School Superintendent Ernest R. James asking that Police Chief Claude Manker conduct driver training classes at Phoenix high school next school year.

Manker has been instructor for the class the past two years. The classes run two hours each day.

Mayor Dan Adams said residents may appear before the council to express opinions as to whether or not Manker should conduct the class. He said some residents have objected to it, while others favor the proposal.

Hotel Manager Disappointed by Guest

New Orleans —(U.P.)—Seymour Weiss, manager of the Roosevelt hotel, rolled out the red carpet Sunday when he heard President Eisenhower's son was about to check in but got a disappointment when the guest showed up.

"It happens so often I've lost count," Maj. Adam John Eisenhower said. "Sometimes when I see how happy they are to meet me and when there's no special treatment involved, I don't say anything. They feel so hurt when I disillusion them."

Magazine Writer Tells Why Husbands Get Ulcers Early

New York —(Special)— The early death of so many American men from ulcers and high blood pressure is caused by wives who set out to remake them the moment after the marriage ceremony, says John Fischer, editor-in-chief of Harper's Magazine.

The true American bride regards her husband as "175 pounds of raw material," Fischer says, adding: "She knows it is her duty to make something out of the sorry clod, if she has to wear her tongue down to the roots."

Fischer, writing in the August issue, continues: "This undaunted approach may, perhaps, have something to do with the divorce rate, axe murders, and the number of morose characters nursing a shot glass late at night in men's bars. Nevertheless, it has made American civilization the envy of the world; or, anyhow, the feminine half of it. Never before in history has any nation devoted so large a share of its brains and resources to the sole purpose of keeping its women greased, deodorized, corrected, enshrined in chrome convertibles, curled, slenderized, rejuvenated, and relieved of all physical labor."

In other countries, Fischer says, women are still deluded into thinking that "they ought to make life a little pleasanter and easier for their breadwinners; only here is the Ideal Male one who dedicates his life to the pampering of women."

The American woman's campaign to reform her husband is producing a Nation of Walter Mittys, he says.

"Again, never in history has any country contained such a high proportion of cowed males, drilled with Prussian thoroughness to shun all household sins," Fischer writes. "Never, but never, do they drop cigar ashes in the icebox, prop their feet on a coffee table, leave an unwashed dish in the sink, kick a baby, or stuff a sofa cushion into the mouth of a babbling guest. They endure their married lives in mute docility, and die mercifully early from ulcers and high blood pressure."

The automotive industry tests steel by sending sound waves through the material and observing the markings which appear on a television-type screen.
