SCIENCE AT WORK

New York —(U.P.)—You're going to hear more and more about putting seat belts in automobiles for safety's sake, just as there are seat belts in airliners for the same reason and which everyone uses without question.

Cornell university has started a campaign to bring them into general use in cars, under the slogan: "For safer motoring, fasten seat belts." The idea is that they should be in every car and should be fastened around all passengers any time the car is in motion.

Through its aeronautical laboratory, the university developed scientific proof that a very high percentage of the people killed or injured in automobile accidents, probably wouldn't have been even hurt if they had been buckled into their cars with belts.

The contention of the Cornell experts and other safety engineers is that motorists and their passengers will think no more of fastening a seat belt around themselves than airplane passengers do—once they have them in their cars and once they get accustomed to having them there. Anchored to Chassis

And once this happens, automobile manufacturers will be less skittish on the whole subject of safety devices—as of now, no manufacturer wants to even suggest that his car might not be safe no matter under what conditions. And once all these things come about—when cars are equipped with safety belts in the factories—the automobile accident death and injury rate will drop sharply, the safety scientists contend.

Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory has just published a booklet for popular consumption, "Automobile Seat Belts—A Way of Living." It contains the A-B-

Solon Asks Review Of Satellite Program

Washington —(U.P.)—Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) today called for a congressional review of this country's proposed Earth satellite program, including plans to share its scientific data with Russia.

Jackson, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he personally opposes "any exchange of information in this program" because "the first consideration will be the military application."

He spoke out after Director Alan T. Waterman of the National Science Foundation had predicted members of Congress would back administration plans to share satellite secrets after they know "the facts." Waterman said Russia and the rest of the world would be given only scientific data with little or no direct military value.

Southern Pacific Track Job Nearly Completed

Portland —(U.P.)—Southern Pacific Railroad announced today that its $1,000,000 track realignment project at Park Place is nearly completed.

The project includes a 550-foot steel bridge across the Clackamas river and a mile of new track. SP said the new track eliminates curves between Portland and Oregon City and will speed up travel of passenger trains over the route.

compulsory in all cars. A similar bill is going to be introduced in the New York legislature.

Thus, a head-on collision involving only three "G's" would require a force three times a passenger's weight to prevent him from being smashed inside the car. Hence, both the emphasis on safety belts and on strong, well anchored safety belts.

A bill has been introduced in Congress to make safety belts

Most of Nation In Frying Pan

By UNITED PRESS
Most of the country is baking again in a heat wave . . . and wondering what it's good for.

Midwestern farmers usually say hot weather is good corn-growing weather. But this time it's too hot even for the tall corn of Iowa. Officials estimate that 15 per cent of the state's corn crop has been scorched. A solid week of 100-plus temperatures has led to 24 deaths in Iowa. All told, more than 50 persons have died from the heat in the Midwest.

New England is hoping for some relief. But the rest of the country from the plains to the Atlantic can expect just more of the same high temperatures. All weather forecasters can say is that it must come to an end sometime. But they aren't risking any predictions about a White Christmas.

The south had a tropical storm to battle instead of the heat wave. The storm blew into Eastern Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama yesterday, with winds of more than 60 miles an hour. At least seven persons died, and three men are reported missing on a boat overdue at Pensacola, Fla.

Chicago —(U.P.)—Alumni gave American colleges and universities $20,833,000 last year, according to Chancellor Lawrence A. Kimpton of the University of Chicago.

Uranium Bugs Get 'Don't' as Advice From Professor

Albuquerque, N. M. —(U.P.)—The final word of advice given to novice uranium hunters by the professor of the world's first uranium-prospecting course was "Don't."

John Brady, a University of New Mexico graduate geologist and uranium researcher, told his students that they would be better off to sink any money they had into a savings account rather than a Geiger counter.

But for those who still have the fever, he listed the following basic rules:

1. Get some information about uranium prospecting first.
2. Hunt on your leisure time.

(Some uranium bugs have been known to cast caution aside, quit their jobs and leave home expecting to strike it rich.)

3. Stay close to a town if you're not an experienced outdoorsman.

4. Check up on your state mining laws and be sure you know the procedure to protect your mining claim.

The University of New Mexico started the class after being swamped with calls from prospectors seeking detailed mining information. Among the students were doctors, lawyers, engineers, plumbers, press operators and housewives from all over the state.

Brazil Coffee Lands Hit by Hard Freeze

Rio de Janeiro —(U.P.)—In South America, it's cold weather that's causing havoc . . . cold weather which may eventually have repercussions in the north.

Frost has struck in the coffee land of Brazil. Reports said current frost damage is worse than the 1953 frost attack which killed or damaged 4,000,000 coffee trees and sent coffee prices soaring.

Brazil's agriculture minister is making a check on the reports of damage.

Gulf Coast Storm Dying in Intensity

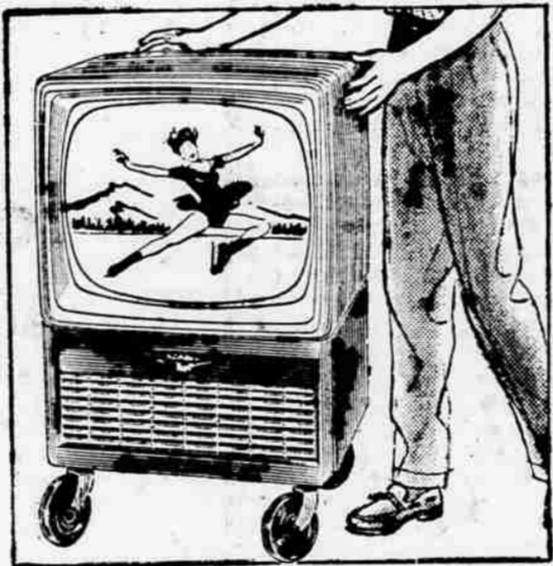

New Orleans, La. —(U.P.)—The tropical storm dubbed "Brenda" is losing its punch as it moves inland through New Orleans. Brenda struck the gulf coast near the Louisiana-Mississippi border with winds up to 75 miles an hour . . . near hurricane force. It spread squalls over 200 miles of the gulf coast. At least seven persons are dead or missing as a result of the tropical blow. The storm lost much of its force as it moved inland last night and the weather bureau said today it will gradually weaken as it swings overland.
