Beaver Ball Park Bought

Portland — (U.P.) — Option to buy Portland's old Vaughn street ball park was acquired yesterday by California Bag and Metal Company which announced plans to replace the stadium with an industrial development costing as much as $3,000,000.

M. J. Rosenfeld and A. Victor Rosenfeld, co-owners of the bag and metal firm here, said $200,000 would be paid for the five-acre site. That would include $1,000 to George W. Norgan, former owner of the Portland Beavers, and $75,000 profit to the locally owned ball club for sale of the option.

Local businessmen acquired an option to buy the site from Norgan and his associates last year.

David Fain, attorney for the Rosenfelds, said the new owners of the option have until Oct. 15 to buy the stadium and 50-lot tract.

The Beavers previously announced their plans to move out of the 54-year-old park and into Multnomah stadium next year.

Training Camp Briefs

Redlands, Calif. — (U.P.) — Bob Waterfield, former Los Angeles Rams star who was one of the National Football League's top passers and kickers during his playing days, returns to the club shortly to help tutor Les Richter. Rams coach Sid Gillman said yesterday he plans to use Waterfield's services in helping Richter become a better field goal and conversion kicker. Last year Waterfield helped Richter in place kicking.

HECKER REJOINS CLUB
 Los Angeles, Calif. — (U.P.) — Halfback Norb Hecker, who left the Washington Redskins to play Canadian football, is expected to rejoin the club here later in the week. Hecker played three seasons with the Los Angeles Rams and after being traded to the "Skins" at the start of the 1954 season, he jumped to Toronto of the Big Four Football Union and later moved to Ottawa before deciding to come back to the N.F.L. He more likely will be used on the defensive platoon.

SIDELINED
 Moraga, Calif. — (U.P.) — Halfback Hugh McElhenny, who is nursing a badly bruised side, will sit it out Sunday when the San Francisco Forty Niners open their exhibition schedule against the Washington Redskins. McElhenny's spot will be filled by Billy Tidwell, former Texas Aggie star. Y. A. Tittle, John Henry Johnson and Joe Perry round out the offensive backfield.

FIND RUNNING BACK
 Salem, Ore. — (U.P.) — The New York Giants, who have been caught short at the offensive halfback post several times the past few seasons appears to have come up with a fine running-back in Jimmy Patton of Mississippi. Patton, the Giants' number eight draft choice last January, was regarded as strictly a defensive halfback but he has impressed coach Jim Lee Howell with his speed on offense. Another newcomer who has shown promise is fullback Bob Ward, a 200-pounder from Whitworth college. He runs hard and also is a powerful punter.

QUARTERBACK TOSSUP
 Westminster, Md. — (U.P.) — It still is a tossup as to who has the lead for the No. 1 quarterback job for the Baltimore Colts. Both Gary Kerkorian and Jack Scarbath have put on the fine performances to date. Coach Webb Ewbank says that "Kerkorian is much better than he was a year ago and Scarbath appears more impressive at every practice."

Ewbank also has Ray Graves of Texas A&M, Don Angels of Illinois and George Shaw of Oregon to pick from. Shaw is in Evanston, Ill. with the College All-Stars.

Eleven Horses Enter Hambletonian Stakes

Goshen, N.Y. — (U.P.) — Eleven of the nation's top three-year-olds shoot for harness racing's greatest prize — the Hambletonian Stakes — today when the trotting classic comes up for its 30th renewal at Good Time park.

Scott Frost, the California invader who has come up with two two-minute mile performances this year and is the first colt ever to come to the Hambletonian with such outstanding credentials, is expected to go off the solid 3-5 choice.

Lined up against the speedy son of Hoot Mon are Leopold Hanover, Colbymite, Butch Hanover, Wayhead, Indian Raider, Childs Hanover, Home Free, Galophone Flemington and Arvilla Hanover. Two heats are necessary for victory in the Hambletonian which this year will gross $86,863 and net the winner $51,075.

The second and third heats will be run at hour intervals, and a fourth heat, if required, will be run with the three previous heat winners competing for the top prize.

Scott Frost first ran a 2:00 mile as a two-year-old at Lexington, Ky., last fall and came back to turn the trick again last week in easily defeating many of his Hambletonian rivals in a prep at Vernon Downs, N. Y. Many of the experts were free-lying predicting that he would better the 2:00 clock set by his sire in the 1947 edition of the classic.

Butch Hanover and Home Free will run as an entry with Scott Frost, while Indian Raider and Wayhead from another entry.

Scott Frost will start from post position No. 5 while Galophone, who with Childs Hanover, is rated a chance for an upset, start from No. 9. Subsequent positions in the following heats will be determined by the order of finish in the preceding heat.

Leopold Hanover, Colbymite, Butch Hanover and Wayhead will start inside of Scott Frost, while Indian Raider, Childs Hanover and Home Free are sandwiched between the favorite and Galophone. Flemington and Arvilla Hanover have the two outside positions.

Chuck Lundgren of Wenatchee and Jack Steinagel of Salem belted mighty home runs in last night's Northwest League play and Lundgren's came in particularly handy.

Lundgren unloaded a 372-foot blast over the center field fence in the seventh with two men aboard to carry Wenatchee to a 4-1 decision over Yakima.

Lundgren's circuit clout ruined a nice pitching effort by Yakima's Chuck Dillard who fanned 14 men and allowed but four hits. Unfortunately for Dillard two walks preceded Lundgren's blast.

Steinagel hit a solo homer 400 feet over the center field barrier as Salem blanked Eugene 5-0 behind five-hit hurling by Marion Cowdell who picked up his sixth victory.

Lewiston closed in on league-leading Eugene with a 6-4 verdict over Spokane. Bill Franks

Beaver Ball Park Bought

Portland — (U.P.) — Option to buy Portland's old Vaughn street ball park was acquired yesterday by California Bag and Metal Company which announced plans to replace the stadium with an industrial development costing as much as $3,000,000.

M. J. Rosenfeld and A. Victor Rosenfeld, co-owners of the bag and metal firm here, said $200,000 would be paid for the five-acre site. That would include $1,000 to George W. Norgan, former owner of the Portland Beavers, and $75,000 profit to the locally owned ball club for sale of the option.

Local businessmen acquired an option to buy the site from Norgan and his associates last year.

David Fain, attorney for the Rosenfelds, said the new owners of the option have until Oct. 15 to buy the stadium and 50-lot tract.

The Beavers previously announced their plans to move out of the 54-year-old park and into Multnomah stadium next year.

Training Camp Briefs

Redlands, Calif. — (U.P.) — Bob Waterfield, former Los Angeles Rams star who was one of the National Football League's top passers and kickers during his playing days, returns to the club shortly to help tutor Les Richter. Rams coach Sid Gillman said yesterday he plans to use Waterfield's services in helping Richter become a better field goal and conversion kicker. Last year Waterfield helped Richter in place kicking.

HECKER REJOINS CLUB
 Los Angeles, Calif. — (U.P.) — Halfback Norb Hecker, who left the Washington Redskins to play Canadian football, is expected to rejoin the club here later in the week. Hecker played three seasons with the Los Angeles Rams and after being traded to the "Skins" at the start of the 1954 season, he jumped to Toronto of the Big Four Football Union and later moved to Ottawa before deciding to come back to the N.F.L. He more likely will be used on the defensive platoon.

SIDELINED
 Moraga, Calif. — (U.P.) — Halfback Hugh McElhenny, who is nursing a badly bruised side, will sit it out Sunday when the San Francisco Forty Niners open their exhibition schedule against the Washington Redskins. McElhenny's spot will be filled by Billy Tidwell, former Texas Aggie star. Y. A. Tittle, John Henry Johnson and Joe Perry round out the offensive backfield.

FIND RUNNING BACK
 Salem, Ore. — (U.P.) — The New York Giants, who have been caught short at the offensive halfback post several times the past few seasons appears to have come up with a fine running-back in Jimmy Patton of Mississippi. Patton, the Giants' number eight draft choice last January, was regarded as strictly a defensive halfback but he has impressed coach Jim Lee Howell with his speed on offense. Another newcomer who has shown promise is fullback Bob Ward, a 200-pounder from Whitworth college. He runs hard and also is a powerful punter.

QUARTERBACK TOSSUP
 Westminster, Md. — (U.P.) — It still is a tossup as to who has the lead for the No. 1 quarterback job for the Baltimore Colts. Both Gary Kerkorian and Jack Scarbath have put on the fine performances to date. Coach Webb Ewbank says that "Kerkorian is much better than he was a year ago and Scarbath appears more impressive at every practice."

Ewbank also has Ray Graves of Texas A&M, Don Angels of Illinois and George Shaw of Oregon to pick from. Shaw is in Evanston, Ill. with the College All-Stars.
