Newcomers to the area are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Walkup who have bought the Clara Thurman ranch on Elk-Creek. The couple have three children, a son and two daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Shafer and daughter, Marsha, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Watson and family, Shady Cove, Monday of last week. Other guests of the Watsons this week have been Capt. and Mrs. Percy Bergerson and sons, Kenny and Billy, San Francisco. Captain Bergerson commands an American President Line freighter and has spent the last 15 months in Korean waters and carrying freight and supplies up and down the Indo-China coast.

St. Martin's Guild of Shady Cove-Trail and St. Martha's Guild of Prospect are jointly sponsoring a "Buckaroo" breakfast to be held at the Upper Rogue Grange hall Sunday, Aug. 14 from 7 to 11 a.m. It is becoming a yearly feature. A successful breakfast was given last year. Ways and means chairmen are Mrs. Dorothy Hume for St. Martin's and Mrs. Margaret Grieve for St. Martha's.

Mrs. Claude Hunt and Mrs. John Stille, both Shady Cove, were co-hostesses for a bridal shower held at the Hunt home Wednesday, Aug. 3, honoring Mrs. Margaret Walker, Shady Cove, whose marriage to Andrew Gjevre of Newburg took place Thursday at the Zion Lutheran church in Medford. The Rev. G. H. Hillerman read the marriage service in the presence of Mrs. Walker's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Vincent and son, Kenny, Shady Cove. The couple left for Newburg where they will make their home only a short distance from Mrs. Walker's son and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Walker. Guests present for the shower were the Mesdames George Pfeifer, Lindquist, Adeline Carl, Ellen Osborne, Dolf Larson and Mrs. Walker's daughter, Mrs. Bob Vincent. Following the opening of the gifts the afternoon was spent in visiting. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Harvey McCarroll and Mrs. Harvey Savage and children, Los Angeles, are visiting with Mrs. McCarroll's sister and Mrs. Savage's aunt and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Goodman, Big Butte Creek, Trail. Shortly after the company arrived Sunday the group were going down to the creek when Mrs. Goodman stepped in a covered hole, injuring her leg. She was taken to Community hospital and spent Sunday there. She is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Waltz, Shady Cove, are leaving Friday for Seattle for a short vacation and visit with his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Watson.

Guests attending were Susie Chubb, Sue Harmon, Pat Goode, Diane Allen, Judy and Janice Waltz, Marilyn and Ed Leaming and Stanley Johnson of Shady Cove, Joan Houston, Trail, and Jerolyn Burroughs, Medford. Gifts were sent by Linda Eccleston and Delberta Spain, Shady Cove, who were unable to attend.

Due to a typographical error, a recent Shady Cove-Trail story said Sheri Watson sang at a Camp White program. Ann Sanford, Shady Cove, sang the two numbers, later leading in group singing.

DEDICATED CHURCH — Father Blanchet, early French missionary, dedicated St. Joseph's Catholic church in Jacksonville Nov. 1, 1858. Father Lawrence OSB, Catholic chaplain at Camp White, will conduct mass at the historic church at 11 a.m. today as part of Jacksonville's eighth annual Gold Rush Jubilee. Father Blanchet directed construction of the church in 1858.

7 Pct. Drop Noted In Farm Receipts

Portland—(U.P.)—The federal crop reporting service here Saturday reported a 7 per cent tumble in farm prices for the period from mid-June to mid-July.

Declines, also reported in Washington, were mostly due to falling grain and potato prices. Surplus summer production sent spud prices down to 83 cents a sack in both states, just half of the price a year ago. Wheat prices sagged 15 cents to $1.99 a bushel due to the administration's "flexible" price support program for new grain. The livestock price index was also down 4 per cent from a year ago.

Slight advances were shown in wool, poultry, eggs and dairy products for the period.

Medford Hottest in State on Friday

Portland—(U.P.)—The weather bureau said Saturday the weather would continue fair throughout the state during the weekend, although there may be some clouds or fog along the coast this morning.

Temperatures were expected to drop slightly from Friday's "scorchers." A high of 102 degrees was recorded in Medford Friday with The Dalles reporting 100. Roseburg had a 95 and Salem 93. It was 87 in Portland.

FBI to Take Custody of Young Girl Who Stowed Away Aboard Canadian Destroyer

Long Beach, Calif. —(U.P.)—The FBI planned Saturday to take into custody a 16-year-old Hawaiian girl, Joycelen Pilapil of Honolulu, who was found aboard a Canadian destroyer due to arrive here Sunday.

FBI agents said they would seize the girl when the ship reaches this port, but stressed that to their knowledge there was no other possible charge against her except that of illegally taking passage aboard a ship.

The skipper of the destroyer Athabaskan, Cmdr. E. E. Richardson, radioed the U.S. Navy, FBI, Coast Guard and the Canadian Consulate here Friday that the girl had been found on his ship. He said his vessel, which left Pearl Harbor earlier this week, was too far to turn back.

The FBI said it entered the case because the girl was an American stowaway in American waters.

In Hilo, Hawaii, Joycelen's mothers, Mrs. Gloria Pilapil, said "she always wanted to join a service — either the women Marines or the WACS—but never the Canadian Navy."

Hard to Handle

She described Joycelen as "quite spirited" and said she was "always the hardest to handle" of her four daughters and two sons.

The mother reported to police a week ago that her daughter was missing, but said "I really didn't have any idea she had 'Wouldn't Put It Past Her'."

"Joycelen may have disguised herself as a sailor," Mrs. Pilapil said. "She had short hair—you know that new fad — and I wouldn't put it past her if she did."

The destroyers Athabaskan and Cayuga called at Hilo during the last week of July and held open house two days. Joycelen apparently hid away on the ship during one of those days.

They will make their home only a short distance from Mrs. Walker's son and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Walker. Guests present for the shower were the Mesdames George Pfeifer, Lindquist, Adeline Carl, Ellen Osborne, Dolf Larson and Mrs. Walker's daughter, Mrs. Bob Vincent. Following the opening of the gifts the afternoon was spent in visiting. Refreshments were served.

Touring 'Y' Group Arrives For Visit After Rough Trip

Fifteen boys and their leaders from the West Suburban YMCA in La Grange, Ill., are getting more than they bargained for on their 8,000-mile tour of 21 states, Canada and Mexico.

The boys were scheduled to set up camp at the LaRue and Earl Morris Hidden Valley ranch north of Central Point Wednesday night for a two-days visit to Rogue Valley.

But the group didn't arrive until about 4 p.m. yesterday, a three-day delay which was unexpected, and which left the Morris wondering what happened because they had received no word of the delay.

Bus Overturns

While on a Dude Ranch near Jackson Hole, Wyo., the boys boarded the special bus for a trip around the ranch. During the trip, the loaded bus turned over, but lucky enough not one of the group was injured. After making what repairs necessary, the boys continued on their way, and Friday night camped at Crater Lake National park, a stop which originally scheduled for Tuesday night.

The boys are under the leadership of Charles Stotz, secretary of "Y" at La Grange.

Sightseeing Trips

The group set up camp at Hidden Valley ranch last night, then started their sightseeing trips of the valley. Included in the schedule is a weiner roast given by Ruth and Cavener Thompson of Gold Hill. They will leave for San Francisco tomorrow morning.

Morris and Stotz were football teammates at the University of Illinois.

Neighbor Saves Tiny Child from Drowning

Portland—(U.P.)—A two-year-old boy found unconscious in a fishpond late Friday was saved from drowning by the quick action of a neighbor.

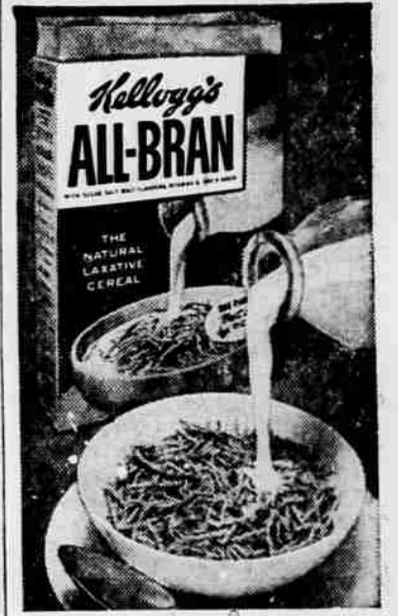

James F. Orrell, 29, discovered two-year-old John Schwab floating face-up in the pond. He immediately applied artificial respiration, and brought the child around. The baby was being treated at a local hospital.

The baby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Schwab, said he apparently tumbled into the pond while playing.

As We Live

"Easy Mark" Tries To Buy Friendship

Being cheerful, cooperative, and willing to help others are all commendable traits, but they can be carried to excess and result in wasting time, energy, and even money of the person who does not know when to say no. Such a person soon gets the reputation of being an "easy mark."

In the office, the man or woman who does not know when to draw a line and say "no more" discovers that he or she is doing others' work. In addition, he is often lending money to others who come to him for help because they are sure of getting it.

In the home it is the same story. Every member of the family will turn to the "easy mark" for help, for money and for special favors. Before he realizes what is happening, he is in so deep that any attempt to call a halt will make the rest of the family accuse him of being selfish and self-centered.

To handle such a problem you must know what is back of it. The person who allows himself to be imposed upon usually feels inadequate. He is unsure of himself, especially of his popularity with others. The one way he has discovered to win and hold friends is to do whatever they ask.

Favor Request Flatters

He is flattered that people turn to him for favors. This bolsters his ego and gives him a feeling of importance. Only after he has agreed to do what people have asked does he realize that their request was motivated not by true friendship but by self-interest.

To avoid being imposed upon, a person must learn to distinguish between real friendship and selfish friendship. He must convince himself that popularity bought at the price of being at others' beck and call is not worth it. And he must learn to say no when he recognizes that saying yes will not bring him real gratitude but only the feeling that he is an easy mark, too weak to say no.

LETTERS FROM READERS

Opinionated: "What makes people opinionated? Don't they realize that other people's opinions can be as good as theirs?"

(A) An opinionated person is on the defensive. He realizes that his opinions may be wrong, but he does not like to admit this even to himself. So, in order to avoid having to admit that his opinions may be wrong, he states them in such an authoritative manner that he hopes no one will question them.

Freedom for Children: "I hate to say constantly to my children, 'Don't do this' or 'Don't do that.' But people tell me I am too easy with them. How much freedom should children have?"

(A) A child should have as much freedom as he can handle successfully — that is, without hurting himself or hurting or inconveniencing others. Children must learn that there are limits to what they can do, just as you have learned this. Instead of saying "Don't" all the time, why not try saying "Do" occasionally? If you suggested what the children could do without hurting themselves or others, you would have to say "Don't" so much.

Widow vs. Divorcee: "Which finds it more difficult to remarry, a widow or a divorcee?"

(A) How difficult it will be for a woman who is widowed or divorced to remarry will depend partly upon the woman and partly upon the community in which she lives. If a woman has been happily married—and this holds true for a divorcee who has been divorced by her husband through no desire on her part to end the marriage, as well as for a widow—she may not want to take a second chance on marriage. This would make it hard for her to find anyone she wanted to marry. There is a strong feeling in some communities against marrying a divorced woman. There are few people, however, who feel this way about a widow.

Around Hollywood

By ALINE MOSBY United Press Correspondent

Editor's note: Aline Mosby is on vacation. Guest Columnist Barbara Stanwyck offers advice to hopefuls who want to act in motion pictures.

By BARBARA STANWYCK

Written for the United Press Hollywood —(U.P.)— Acting is a profession, not a ride on a merry-go-round. Those who sponsor the Cinderella stories are doing starchy-eyed kids a disservice.

Those who hit overnight are, in a sense, too lucky for their own good. Perhaps our inexperienced fledgling will have a director who will lead her gently through each scene, spoon-feeding her every line and inflection, steering her step by step.

She probably won't be so fortunate in her next picture. That director may turn his actors loose with only a suggestion here and there. That's sheer disaster for the inexperienced starlet who can only flounder helplessly.

Plays Suggested

If you really want to be a screen actress, first learn to be an actress. Get yourself on a stage—in school plays, little theaters, amateur groups. Work before different audiences, learn timing, delivery, how to draw the desired reaction from every type of audience. No movie set could intimidate a gal who has run a gamut of thankless roles or a variety of audiences.

On the stage you learn to make each performance your best.

I can't tell you how to get into pictures. I can only tell you what I've learned about learning to be an actress. And I'm still trying to learn.

Acting is a business and your conduct should prove you know it. Skip the phony flights of temperament. Skip the idea that you-know-it-all. The men on any set know their trade. You can learn something from each of them. Ask questions. Keep learning.

Education Needed

Every aspiring actress should get as much education as possible. Though formal schooling is the best method. Libraries, studies through university extension training programs, night schools—there are a dozen ways to achieve education. Success stories about people whose education was limited prove that they did not stop learning when they stopped going to school.

Respect your work and respect yourself. Be professional. The good actress is hard-working.

Just be sure you have the one gift, without which all the enthusiasm and devotion to duty are unavailing. That gift is talent.

You can get around not being a beauty, nor having the figure of a goddess.

But talent, sister, you got to have.
