Giammalva Seeded In Tournament

Newport, R. I. — (U.P.) — Dark horse Sam Giammalva of Houston, Texas, winner of Sunday's Eastern Grass Court championships, will be third-seeded today in the opening match of the seven-day Newport Casino invitation tennis tourney.

Giammalva, who scored his third straight upset victory by beating Gil Shea of Los Angeles, took the final round by defeating Shea 6-2, 3-6, 11-9, 9-7 in a match marked by aggressive net play by both players.

Giammalva rocketed into the limelight when he beat the Davis Cup star and second-seeded player, Vic Seixas of Philadelphia in the quarter-final round. Next, he went on to down Kurt Nielsen of Denmark the top seeded foreign netster, in the semi-final round.

Shea has been second-seeded in today's go-round at the Casino, and Seixas will not enter the competition. Seixas would have been paired up with Tony Trabert, a power tennis shot from Cincinnati, but the 24-year-old Ohioan's physician advised him to remain out of play until his pulled shoulder muscle mends.

New York — (U.P.) — Virgil Atkins of St. Louis, fifth-ranking welterweight contender, is favored at 2-1 to snap the winning streak of Cuban Isaac Logart tonight in their TV 10-rounder at St. Nicholas arena.

Climate is Problem At Air Force Academy

Kansas City, Mo. — (U.P.) — Most big schools just grow up with the vagaries of climate being no problem. But it's different in the construction of the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The football coach wants one thing. The track coach wants a tailwind, and the baseball coach wants his field laid out so the wind will blow toward the left field fence when the Air Force is at bat.

The problems belong to Capt. Richard C. Burriss. He is supposed to provide the climatological information and advice for the project.

"The only thing that's dependable," Burriss told the American Meteorological society, "is the sun. We can forecast it." But the wind is something else."

Burriss suggested morning graduations at the academy.

door commencement at 11 a.m. wouldn't get rained out more than once in 100 at Colorado Springs," he said. "But in the afternoon, it probably would get rained out every other year."

Patent Office Issues Worms Trade-Mark

Washington — (U.P.) — The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service reports the case of the Louisianaan who prized the fish-worms he raised for anglers so highly that he got the government to give them a registered trademark.

The man wrote to the U. S. Patent Office and said his worms were very special and needed a special name. He asked if he could register them as "Louisiana Pinkies" and restrain any other worm raiser from using that name.

After a conference with Fish and Wildlife officials, the Patent Office decided to accept the application so now fishermen can bait their hooks with trademarked worms.

Firemen Answer Week End Alarms

Firemen investigating a report of smoke at the Jackson hotel yesterday morning found that an air conditioning motor had short circuited, causing the smoke. There was no other damage. A pumper and aerial ladder responded to the alarm.

At 1 p.m. Sunday a pump truck was called to the Monarch Seed and Feed warehouse, 305 South Fir st., to extinguish a fire in stored hay. Firemen said it was caused by four small boys playing there. Damage was listed as minor.

About an acre of grass to the rear of the Pierce Auto Freight lines building on South Riverside ave., was burned over yesterday afternoon, firemen said. It apparently started from the sparks blown from an incinerator.

Firemen flushed away 12 gasoline spills on down town streets, and Fire Marshal Truman Nelson inspected six business occupancies, a hotel, and one complaint in a residential area over the week end. Nelson issued five orders for the correction of hazardous conditions.

Dream Switch Works; Man Presented Award

Pittsburgh — (U.P.) — Ray A. Hammerstrom, a roller at the Pittsburgh Works of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. here, had a dream worth $15,000.

Evens leading up to his happy dream began in the summer of 1953, when a new 10-inch bar mill was installed at the works. The mill worked fine, except for a switch that controlled the delivery of straight bars to the cooling beds.

Company engineers altered the switch 11 times, but it still wasn't right. Hammerstrom thought a lot about the problem and even made some rough sketches of a new design. But he had no success until one afternoon when he lay down for a nap.

He dreamed about the switch and, in the dream, it worked perfectly. When he awoke, he sketched his dream design.

When company engineers tested it they found it worked like a dream. His visionary cat-nap won Hammerstrom a check for $15,000, the largest award the firm ever made to an employee for an idea.

The new supreme court building in Washington is said to contain more marble than is to be found in any other government building here.
