Off-Street Parking Committee To Study Assessments Report

A meeting of the joint city-chamber of commerce off-street parking committee will be held within a few days to consider a report on possible assessments to finance a parking plan, it was reported today.

Jack Crawford, a member of the committee, told the board of directors of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce the city's survey of assessment possibilities is nearly completed.

The committee has proposed a $600,000 plan to build off-street parking lots in the downtown area, to be financed largely by assessments against downtown property, with three zones paying differing amounts calculated on a benefit ratio, and parking meter income.

The over-all plan also includes a revision of the city's business tax to make up for loss of meter revenue to the city's fund.

Chet Hubbard, of the chamber's highway committee, told the directors that his group will request the city again to contact the state highway department regarding construction of curbs and gutters, and a hardtop asphalt surface, for South River street, between Boyd and 13th sts. The city has twice requested the state department to do the work, and has twice been rejected.

Hubbard said the present surface is partly concrete and partly asphalt, and that a uniform street-wide surface is needed.

The highway committee also plans to ask the highway department about progress on hardtopping the Diamond Lake highway. Hubbard said. The work has been planned by the department, but not started, he indicated.

He was a member of the air force ROTC undergoing summer training.

Anyone Lost A Pencil? Maybe This Man Has It

Boston — (U.P.) — How would you like to have 3,000 mechanical pencils around the house?

That's the collection of Ralph Miller, New England commander of the Salvation Army.

It all began 32 years ago when a boys' basketball team which he coached gave him a pen and pencil set.

In Miller's collection is a pencil that looks like a cigar and opens into an American flag, one that weighs mail, one that fires tear gas and one that fires a .32 caliber bullet.

County CD Plans Outlined at Meet By General Hicks

The position of the Jackson county civil defense agency in the event of an attack on the U.S. was outlined Tuesday by Maj. Gen. J. H. Hicks, county CD director. He spoke at a meeting of the Medford American Legion post.

General Hicks illustrated the U.S. position in Europe under the NATO program and told of experiences in France after World War II when he was in charge of a base installation under the NATO program.

General Hicks pointed out that the Communist organization in France is very strong and exerted resistance and sabotage in the establishment of the base.

He outlined some of the needs in the defense program in Jackson county and stressed the need of spotters in the Ground Observation corps, especially on the night shifts. The general explained that two hours a week was all that is required of individuals and asked that anyone who can spare that time get in touch with him in the court-house.

Business transacted at the meeting included a preliminary report of the finance and budget committee. The report showed that if the Legion and community programs were to be accomplished there would be a deficit of $1,000.

The importance of the full program was discussed and the group was of the unanimous opinion that the necessary funds should be raised to offset the deficit. A program is being set up in this respect by the commander, "Bud" Fisher.

Seattle Towboat Sinks in Puget Sound

Port Townsend, Wash. — (U.P.) The 68-foot Seattle towboat Dolly C. sank off Smith island in Puget Sound north of here today but all five men aboard were rescued by a companion tugboat.

The Coast Guard said the tug Titan was towing the Dolly C. and a barge when the Dolly C. started to go down. The Titan's crew quickly dropped the towline and came alongside the sinking craft. Two men jumped from the Dolly C. to the deck of the Titan but three others had to be taken from the water.

None was injured but the three in the water were suffering from exposure.

Closure of Station On Siuslaw Protested

Washington — (U.P.)—Three Oregon lawmakers have protested the Coast Guard plan to close the lifeboat station at the mouth of the Siuslaw river near Florence, Ore.

Rep. Harris Ellsworth (R-Ore.) sent a sharp complaint to Vice Adm. Alfred C. Richmond, Coast Guard commandant, protesting the plan to substitute moorings and seasonal protective service for the lifeboat station.

Ellsworth's protest was quickly followed by similar protests from Democratic Sens. Wayne Morse and Richard L. Neuberger.
