Volkswagon Planning U.S. Assembly Plant

Wolfsburg, Germany — (U.P.)— West Germany's Volkswagen works has bought a Studebaker plant in New Jersey to assemble its rear-engine "people's car" for the growing U.S. market, a company spokesman said Saturday.

The spokesman said the plant was built by Studebaker at New Brunswick but never put into operation. Volkswagen already has assembly plants in Brazil, Belgium, Ireland and South Africa.

The spokesman said 23,000 Americans are driving Volkswagens and the company currently exports 2500 of the four-passenger sedans to the United States monthly.
