Studs Sweep Series From Coquille Nine By 13-4, 12-11 Scores

Medford Cheney Studs wrapped up their 1955 Southern Oregon League baseball slate in appropriate style in a week-end marred, however, by the biggest rhabarb of the season at the fairgrounds ball diamond.

The Studs in one of their standout performances of the year turned back Coquille 13 to 4 on Saturday night and overtook the Loggers 12 to 11 on Sunday to sweep the SOL finale series.

Saturday night's scramble was interrupted for 40 minutes when Coquille threatened to quit the tussle if umpire Darrell Copeland continued at his post behind the plate. Intercession by League President Don Faber was required to get the contest moving again. The delay made the fourth inning an hour long and the whole scuffle consumed 3 1/2 hours.

Means by which the Studs won the two games contrasted sharply. On Saturday they pushed over five runs, enough to win, in the initial canto and padded out their count with markers in five other frames. Seven-hit hurling by Jim Kelly and good defensive play held down the Loggers, who, nevertheless, did get to Kelly and mass some power in the middle innings.

On Sunday with Bob Selsor in the hero's role the Studs had to surge for four runs in the ninth inning to overcome Coquille. Selsor singled with the bases packed and one man out to drive in Jack Cooney with the winning run.

Medford had to erase a 4 to 11 deficit in the last three innings of the game. Each club pounded out 11 hits in the first six innings of the fust but the Loggers were better able to combine their bingles in that stage of the hassle and they had the help of five walks off Terry Maddox, Medford starting hurler, while the Studs got only one off Skeeter Ellis. Score after six innings was 9 to 4.

But in the last three cantos Medford outhit Coquille 11 to two.

Derald Wooton, who contributed four hits, including a homer and a double, and three runs batted in for the afternoon, was also sufficiently effective as relief moundsman. He put out the Logger fire in the sixth panel, faltered for a walk and two hits for two runs in the seventh but steadied through the eighth and ninth.

The Studs began to close the gap in their part of the seventh frame on a triple by Selsor, double by Bill McLean and single by Maddox for a pair of tallies. Medford got two more runs in the eighth on doubles by Jack Cooney and Selsor and a single by Derald Wooton. That cut the count to 11 to 8.

In the ninth McLean got on base on an error and Maddox doubled. Dave Douglass relieved Ellis on the hill. Ed McCullough tagged him for a fly which dropped in to right field for a single, scoring McLean. Maddox tallied on a passed ball and McCullough went to second. Jack Fassett singled to left and Cooney followed with a blast to right which was bobbed by Outfielder Joe Marchand. But Cooney got credit for driving in McCullough with the tying marker.

Derald Wooton was intentionally walked. Ron Maurer forced Fassett at home and Bill Pilgram came into pitch. Then Selsor came through.

Wooton's homer came with one man on base in the first inning. Three hits gave Medford two runs in the fifth.

Browns Nip GB Packers

The Cleveland Browns, who parlayed a stout defense and the kicking of Lou Groza to nine straight professional football division titles, appeared to have shored up the defensive holes that were so obvious in their recent game with the College All-Stars.

The collegians darilyly bolted through the veteran Cleveland line while former Notre Dame quarterback Ralph Guglielmi, now of the Washington Redskins, completed 10 of 19 passes for 129 yards in a 30-27 upset for the defending National Football league champions.

But it was like old times Saturday night when the Browns rode over the Green Bay Packers, 13-7, on the strength of two field goals by Groza and a brilliant last-ditch goal line stand.

The Browns bottled up the San Francisco Forty-Niners' running game and swept to four touchdowns themselves in a 28-17 victory before 49,000 fans in Seattle, Wash., while the Cardinals downed the Chicago Bears, 21-6, before 20,000 fans in the Gator bowl in Jacksonville, Fla.

when the stanza ended Coquille had three more runs.

Medford got a single tally in the seventh on three walks and a rap by Selsor and padded out its count in the eighth with two runs when Cooney doubled and Derald Wooton tripled.

Kelly, who reported last week that he wished to pitch one more good game before the end of the season, pretty well accomplished his objective. He struck out nine batters and gave free passes to five. In the first three innings he set down all batters in order, fanning six. The middle innings, four, five and six, when he yielded all of his hits and four walks were roughest. He faced only 10 men in the last three frames.

Pilgram for Coquille struck out eight in 6 1/3 innings but he had issued 10 bases on balls when he was replaced by Douglass in the seventh.

Cooney, Derald Wooton and

Copeland as head ump stuck up for his rights. Douglass finally pulled the Loggers off the field. After long argument League President Don Faber went down from the stand and informed the Coquille nine that it had to go ahead and play ball.

Copeland finished the inning behind the plate then switched with Schopf.

Staters, Metro Knot 7-7 in Shrine Fracas

Portland —(U.P.)—A Portland Metropolitan all-star squad broke a four-game losing streak before 16,703 fans Saturday night, holding the State team to a 7-7 deadlock in the eighth annual Shriners' hospital all-star football game.

Shooting for their fifth in a row victory, the State stars wound up instead with the first tie in the history of the series.

Both touchdowns were made in the first quarter. The State team scored early when Neil Scheidel of South Salem intercepted a pass and scored a few plays later from four yards out. Late in the first period the Metro lads came back to tie the ball game. Ted Miller of Milwaukee climaxed an 84-yard drive with a touchdown plunge and then drove to pay dirt for the extra point.

It took quarterback Miller two tries to make the conversion. He made it on the second after the Staters had been penalized for illegal use of hands.

Another penalty scotched the State victory hopes in the fourth quarter. North Salem's Terry Salisbury punched into the end zone from three yards out, but a backfield in motion error nullified the TD. The Metros then tightened up and knocked down two State passes.

Following the stalemated contest, Gene Schutler, 169-pound back from Lake Oswego high school, took the most valuable player award.

Other honors went to Vel West, La Grande, who was voted top State lineman. Neal Scheidel of South Salem was named outstanding State back. For the Metros, Bob Sturgis of Milwaukie was named best lineman and Don Laudenslager of Gresham, best ball carrier.
