

Back Stairs: Few Problems at Lowry

By WARREN DUFFEE
United Press Correspondent
DENVER, (U.P.)—Backstairs at the summer White House.

Major Gen. John T. Sprague, commanding general of Lowry Air Force Base, says that having the summer White House at the base presents very few new problems and actually helps with a lot of old ones.

Morale picks up noticeably when President Eisenhower and his staff are on the base, Sprague said. Getting personnel to "tighten up" is no problem, he told a reporter.

As for the extra trouble involved in the White House invasion, there's nothing to it, he said. This is the third summer that Mr. Eisenhower has set up shop here and the base is so familiar with the necessary arrangements that everything goes off smoothly.

But there's one thing Sprague must handle personally—getting himself to the base headquarters entrance before 8 a. m. to greet the President. Mr. Eisenhower is seldom more than a few minutes later than that and sometimes earlier.

The President seems to enjoy every minute of his five-day sojourn in the cool mountains of his vacation ranch near Fraser, Colo., especially the trout fishing in the brisk waters of St. Louis creek.

But there were many signs that he missed another "first love"—his golf.

Although he put in plenty of fishing time at Fraser, the President every day got in a few practice licks with his golf clubs. He worked especially on his iron game—aiming at a six-foot square white target in a meadow 150 yards away and practicing chip shots into two net targets at shorter distances.

However, the chief executive admitted his grandson, David T. needs more practice. "He's gone back some in his golf," the President told newsmen after the boy failed to land a chip shot in the target nets at 20 yards despite 12 tries.

The White House was coy about giving out any details of the comfortable new three-bedroom ramble recently built on the ranch near Fraser by Mr. Eisenhower's host, Aksel Neilson.

But newsmen quickly found the floor plan in the catalogue of a prefabricated home builder and described it in detail.

The house is barely visible from the nearest roads.

But several of the White House press corps, quartered at Arapaho Guest Ranch on a ledge above Fraser, found they had a clear, although distant, view of the house across the valley from their own front porch.

When reporters set up their temporary press room in the tiny wooden railroad station at Fraser, they found the following notice on the wall with no explanation:

"Notice. Effective July 1, 1955, all city ordinances of the town of Fraser will be enforced. C. B. Clayton, Mayor."

Mayor "Chuck" Clayton, who operates the town's leading restaurant, bar, filling station, motor court and what not, explained to visiting reporters that it wasn't aimed at them. Seems folks had been getting careless.

Vehicle Sales Increase in State

Salem, (U.P.)—Sales of new automobiles and trucks and motor vehicle registration is at an all-time high—more than 800,000 in Oregon, according to Secretary of State Earl T. Newberry.

Newberry, under whose office the Motor Vehicle Department now operates, said 41,037 new cars were sold in Oregon from Jan. 1 to June 30 this year, compared with 27,105 in the first six months of 1954.

Commercial vehicle sales also increased with 9961 trucks sold during the six-month period compared to 5845 in the first six months of 1954.

Registration of all types of motor vehicles likewise increased, with a total of 456,660 vehicles registered to bring in fees totaling $6,869,487. Registration in the first six months of 1954 totaled 426,454.

Registration in the first six months this year showed 80,950 passenger cars, 93 exempt cars owned by the state, counties and cities, 1296 buses, 68,840 trucks and 4563 motorcycles.

Driver's licenses now are held by 1,028,787 persons in Oregon. Newberry noted that one out of every seven drivers is past the age of 60.

TOO MANY TONGUES
New Orleans—(U.P.)—Joan Barrios, just returned from a Mexican tour to brush up on her Spanish, was amazed when a department store clerk here called for an interpreter. The mystery was cleared up when Miss Barrios realized she had absent-mindedly used Spanish when asking for lipstick.

about dogs, cattle, etc., roaming around.

The telephone company was all ready to go ahead and install a private phone in the President's guest house at Fraser for his use when he arrived.

But they were called off.

Mr. Eisenhower didn't want one.
