Future Rangers To Stand Lookout Before TV Sets

Waltham, Mass. — (U.P.) — The tall timber may go on television soon, with the most intensely interested audience outside a World Series crowd.

At a recent convention of the Forestry Conservation Communications Association a demonstration was made of the "electronic firewatcher." It is a portable and automatic television station that can be perched atop a lonely fire tower and record the forest scene below.

The equipment, made by the Raytheon Manufacturing Co. here, works without wires or cables. The picture picked up by the slowly revolving camera is relayed to forest headquarters by a microwave beam.

The cameras rotate automatically but can be stopped, started or reversed by a ranger miles away. He will do his fire-watching on a series of television monitors each revealing forest conditions from towers spotted miles apart.

Can Locate Fire

The cameras not only pick up the forests but they also show an azimuth reading so that the distant ranger can tell exactly where the camera is looking. By simple triangulation a fire miles away can be pinned down by matching the azimuth readings from two or more television pictures.

Since the advent of TV the forest service has predicted that the camera's eye would aid the human fire watchers. But the cost of stringing miles of costly coaxial cable from the towers to headquarters has prohibited television's use. There was also the danger of falling trees, storms and forest fires themselves in keeping the wires clear.

But now the development of the microwave link lets the TV picture leap above the forest and the ranger of the future may just sit back at headquarters and enjoy the show.

Trucks Are Becoming Traveling Billboards

Washington — (U.P.) — The trucking industry is planning to use its own vehicles as "traveling billboards" in an effort to counteract anti-truck sentiment among motorists.

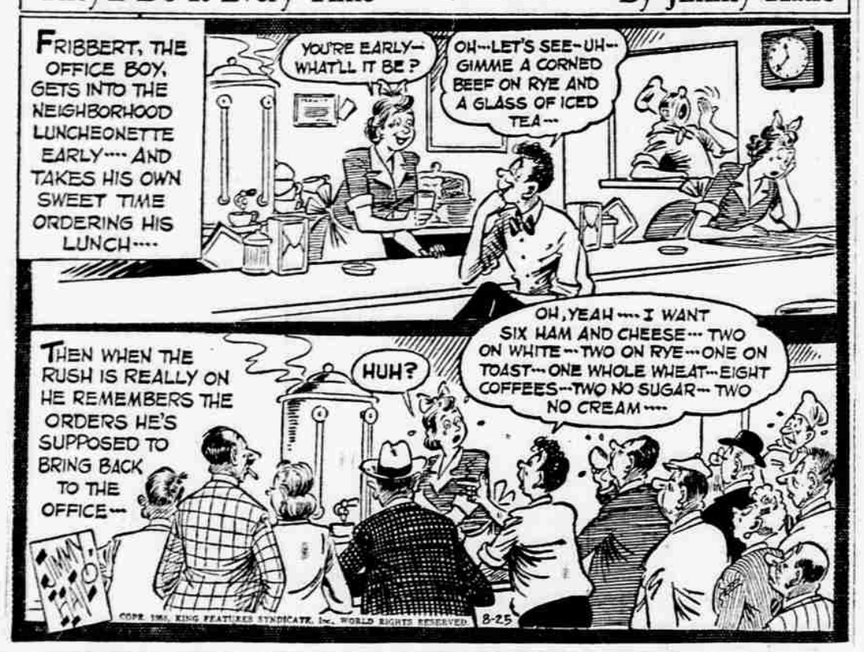
Decals will be placed on trucks and trailers to tell the driver stuck behind a huge truck that the vehicle ahead is essential to the welfare.

The free advertising program was announced jointly by Walter F. Carey, chairman of the American Trucking Associations Foundation, and Christopher F. Hammond, president of Great Dane Trailers.

One of the 12-by-20-inch signs reads: "Another Load of Better Living for You." Another declares: "If You've Got It — a Truck Brought It." Several thousand brochures bearing facsimiles of the decals have been distributed to truck operators by the ATA Foundation, Carey said.

PERSONAL INTEREST

New York — (U.P.) — District Attorney Edward Silver of Brooklyn took a personal interest in the search for a thief who escaped with $11,000 worth of jewelry taken from a Brooklyn home. It was Silver's home.



Around Hollywood

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Correspondent

Hollywood — (U.P.) — A few Hollywood stars make spicy headlines, but some younger thespians of the Plaster City have banded together for a worthy "good deed" club.

Aline Mosby

The movie capital in some ways is like college, and members of this charitable group could be roughly classified as the freshmen and sophomores of Flickerville.

The young thespians, including such fan magazine veterans as Tony Curtis, Janet Leigh, Debbie Reynolds and Gary Crosby, revived an old Hollywood club of the '30s called the "Thalians."

The original club, including Bing Crosby, Carole Lombard and Ginger Rogers, disbanded in 1934. They went in mostly for fun. But although the club namesake, Thalia, is the Greek muse of comedy, their young successors decided to help one cause: Mental health.

250 Members

Freud and Hollywood were officially combined last May by Thalian charter members Gary Crosby, Jack Haley Jr., (son of the comedian), and actresses Jayne Mansfield, Leigh Snowden, Peggy King and Lori Nelson.

"We were discussing mental health at a party and the need for more mental hospitals," explained young Haley. "Brynie Foy, who had been a member of the original group, suggested we re-activate the Thalians and help mental health."

By now the incorporated, nonprofit club totals 250 members, including nightclub star Sammy Davis Jr.; actress Rita Moreno and Dick Contino. Actor Hugh O'Brian is president, Gary Crosby vice-president and Maureen O'Hara secretary. ("She's older than most of us but she wanted to help," a member explained). "Elder" advisers to the board of directors include Frank Sinatra, Jimmy Durante and Danny Thomas. A member must work in the "entertainment industry or allied arts," be between 20 and 30 and have "good reputation and character."

Serious Group

Achievement awards in the name of two late members, Robert Francis and Suzan Ball, will be awarded yearly to the club's hardest workers. The group's first big event is a $12.50-a-ticket dance at Ciro's next Monday. Proceeds go to the National Mental Health Foundation.

At meetings, the young members appear as serious and sincere as college students do at their club gatherings. At one recent conclave, Debbie Reynolds, the co-chairman of the dance ticket committee, reported on how sales were coming along.

Columnist Paul Coates, a guest at the meeting, spoke a few words about the worthiness of the group in supporting mental health.

After he sat down, President O'Brian pumped Coates' hand and earnestly said, "We certainly appreciated getting a point of view from an older person."

Coates', who recently turned 34, appeared stunned.

Johnson To Visit Ranch in Texas

He left it up to his physicians to decide whether his heart condition will permit him to continue as Democratic leader in the second session of the 84th Congress.

"I'm going to get a great big rocking chair and just sit and rock and think," Johnson told newsmen at National Airport.

In December, he said, he plans to go to Atlanta, Ga., and to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., for medical check-ups before the second session begins.

"If the doctor gives me an okay," he said, "I'll be back to work in January. Whatever they decide, that's what I'll follow."

The tall Texan, who will be 47 on Saturday, said he felt good but expects to feel better after two or three months of rest on his ranch near Johnson City, Texas. He said he weighed 183 pounds in contrast to the 200 when he entered Bethesda Naval Hospital after suffering a heart attack on July 2.

THEY MISSED HIM

Collinsville, Conn. — (U.P.) — Mailman Stanley Goembeski, on completing 35 years of service, boasted he had never been bitten by a dog.
