

Dick Haymes Unhappy Over Separation From R. Hayworth

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Dick Haymes, crying unashamedly, insisted today he still doesn't know why Rita Hayworth left home but "if she doesn't come back I can't go on."

The much-troubled singer has survived battles with the immigration service, income tax department, creditors, three ex-wives and alimony courts. But today he sat alone and forlorn in the couple's Malibu Beach home and indicated this latest blow has done him in.

"A man is only in love once," Haymes said. "I'm 37. I've been in love with this girl for 18 years. You can't expect that to cool off very fast."

"If she divorces me, I don't know what I'll do. I probably wouldn't hit the bottle of sleeping pills, but I'd feel pretty miserable."

Rita, her eyes swollen from weeping, left her secret hide-away Monday to announce she and Haymes had separated "because I think it's in the best interests of Dick, myself and my children that we think things out."

Her attorney, Samuel Zagon, said there were no immediate plans for divorce.

Zagon appeared in federal court today and was granted a delay in the trial of Miss Hayworth's $150,000 breach of contract suit against Columbia Pictures. He said the actress was ill.

Judge Benjamin Harrison postponed the hearing on the actress' charges until Nov. 15. The judge agreed to the delay. She charges Columbia broke its contract when it failed to start the film, "Joseph and His Brethren," March 8.

The principal topic of Hollywood gossip was why Rita left the curly-haired crooner after sticking by him through two years of troubles. Her friends said the actress "got fed up, and now that's he's working, she decided to pull out."

Others blamed Haymes' "dictatorial attitude and his desire to run her career."

Other friends said Rita and Dick "always appeared happy and they'll probably kiss and make up."

Haymes today moved restlessly around the beach home, furnished in early American style. Dirty pots and pans filled the sink. A child's car seat had been tossed in one corner. A coffee pot was left on the kitchen stove.

The singer picked up a newspaper and gazed sadly at a picture of Rita on the front page.

"Isn't she beautiful? The most beautiful woman in the world," he said.

Californian Leases 18 Mining Claims In Jackson County

Eighteen claims in the Brush Creek Mining district have been leased by Albert A. Robbins, 333 South Glendora ave., West Covina, Calif., according to records filed in the Jackson county recorder's office.

Robbins has leased from George A. Culy and John E. McConochie 12 claims known as Murphy Nos. 1 through 12. He also has leased from Culy, McConochie, Claude Stevens and L. C. Conley six placer mine locations known as Stevens Nos. 1 through 6. All are located in the Brush Creek Mining district.

To start by Jan. 1956.

According to the leases, which are good for 25 years, production is to start by January, 1956. The minimum production was specified at 25 tons of ore daily. In addition to a small consideration at the time leases were signed, Robbins agreed to start paying in four months $100 monthly during the life of the lease plus 10 per cent of the gross value of the ores, concentrates and minerals removed on the claims.

No mineral was specified on the leases.

Secretary of Medford

Back from Conclave

Bob Jones, general secretary of the Medford YMCA, returned Monday after attending the North West Pacific YMCA summer conference at Seabeck, Wash. He was accompanied by Mrs. Jones and their five children.

The conference was attended by 50 YMCA directors and their families. Highlighting the program studies were courses conducted by Dr. John Magee, professor of religion at College of Puget Sound; Al Hummel, general secretary of the Omaha, Neb., YMCA, and Richard Hamilton, of the National Council YMCA, New York.

Indictment Sought Against Ex-Sergeant In Murder of Major

Washington — (U.P.) — The government was reported today to be seeking an indictment against former Sgt. Carl Lodolce in the cloak-and-dagger murder of an Army major behind enemy lines during World War II.

A Grand Jury late yesterday accused Lodolce and former Army Lt. Aldo Icardi of "treacheryously conspiring" to murder and rob Maj. William V. Holohan while working on a vital mission in Nazi-occupied Italy.

But the jury had no power to indict the two for murder since the alleged crime occurred in a foreign nation. Instead, it charged Icardi of Pittsburgh with eight counts of perjury based on his testimony before a House Armed Services subcommittee in 1953.

Thirteen Italian witnesses familiar with the case were on hand today to testify before a federal grand jury at Rochester, N. Y., Lodolce's home town.

Two Flatly Accused
The jury here stated flatly in its report that Icardi and Lodolce carried out the murder of Holohan, an officer of the Office of Strategic Services, with the help of two other members of the cloak-and-dagger mission, Caltiero Tozzini and Giuseppe Manin.

It charged that Icardi "unlawfully, willfully and knowingly" lied on eight occasions to the House committee which investigated Holohan's mysterious disappearance and death.

Icardi told the House investigators under oath that Holohan was killed by an enemy band that attacked the OSS mission.

His testimony was false, the jury said, inasmuch as Holohan died on the night of Dec. 6, 1944, from poison placed in his soup by Icardi and Lodolce and "from the effect of bullets which penetrated his body upon being fired from a gun held by Lodolce."

One of the jury's counts al-
