

German Priest Tells of Seeing Two Americans in Notorious Russian Slave Labor Camp

Berlin — (U.P.) — Church authorities said today that a German priest of the Roman Catholic church, released from Soviet captivity last week, reported the notorious Soviet slave labor camps at Vorkuta. Church spokesmen said Father Hermann Tiehen told them that one of the Americans he met in Russia had been arrested in Berlin. The other, he said, had been arrested in Bucharest, Rumania. Churchmen said they could not release the names of the Americans immediately. Father Tiehen was returned here by the Russians and released unexpectedly over last week end, after spending nearly five years in the Vorkuta labor camp. The Soviets earlier this month announced that they will release three Americans held in Soviet captivity for seven years or longer. They did not specify the exact date for their release. They were identified as Pvt. Wilfred Cumish, Pvt. Murray Fields and Frederick Charles Hopkins. It was not known immediately if any of these men were the ones Father Tiehen reported seeing in Vorkuta located above the Arctic Circle.
