MINK WARNING

St. Paul —(U.P.)—Instructions to National Guard pilots at Holman field here: "All pilots note—use caution while flying over White Bear and Afton areas mink farms. Remember, the mink you kill might be your wife's new coat."

Holyoke, Mass. —(U.P.)—Harry W. Rogers, 71, for 50 years a street car motorman, boasts that he hasn't missed a Harvard-Yale football game in 56 years.

Refresher Course To Concentrate on Overall Strategy

Washington —(U.P.)—Republican state chairmen gathered today for a four-day refresher course in practical political politics. Their goal: Win with Eisenhower in '56.

Although the President remained silent on his intentions, party chiefs based the course on the assumption that he will seek a second term.

The state leaders were scheduled to be greeted by Vice President Richard M. Nixon in the late afternoon and attend a reception tonight in honor of National GOP Chairman Leonard W. Hall.

Classes Begin Wednesday

Classes at the campaign school begin Wednesday with Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz.), chairman of the GOP Senatorial Committee, and Rep. Richard Simpson (R-Pa.) chairman of the same committee in the House, acting as instructors. They will discuss campaign techniques generally, concentrating on issues and overall strategy.

Republican leaders, sure that Mr. Eisenhower will run again and win, planned to concentrate at the school on ways to recapture Congress from the Democrats and to elect more GOP governors.

The party brass took advantage of Labor Day political statements to renew their pleas that Mr. Eisenhower lead them in '56. The state chairmen presumably will echo the same sentiments when they fly to Denver after their session here to talk directly with the President.

Nixon Confident

Nixon told a news conference Monday that the people closest to the President are "more optimistic that he will run again" than at any time since he was inaugurated.

Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa.), a leader in Mr. Eisenhower's campaign in 1952, told a radio audience he is sure "Eisenhower is going to be the guy" in 1956 and added, "I don't think he can be licked."

And Sen. Frederick G. Payne (R-Me.), in a formal statement issued through his office here, said the solution of world problems "demands President Eisenhower's wise and firm leadership for another four years."

C. M. Merritt Rites Will Be Wednesday

Graveside funeral services for C. M. Merritt, 89, of Klamath Falls, who died there Saturday, will be held at Siskiyou Memorial park at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

The Central Point IOOF lodge 193 will have charge of services, with the Rev. D. E. Millard officiating.

The deceased, a former resident of Central Point, is survived by three brothers, Elmer, Los Angeles, and John and Gene, Klamath Falls; a daughter, Mrs. Edna Book, Klamath Falls, and four granddaughters.

WORRIER CAN'T ENTER INTO OTHERS' FUN

Some people are gay and cheerful most of the time, with the result that people like them and like to have them around. How can a person acquire this art?

(Q) "I have noticed that people who are popular are the ones who are gay and cheerful. I am a serious-minded person and it is hard for me to be gay. Also, I worry a lot, and this does not make me a cheerful person to be with. I do not have many friends because people think I am too serious and don't have fun. The boys are always telling me not to carry the world on my shoulders, but to relax and have some fun out of life. I would like to be popular, but I don't know how. Can you give me some suggestions?"

—L. B. S.

(A) The best suggestion I can give is the one the boys have already given you, in their jesting way. Stop being so serious about everything, and try to have fun. This, of course, does not mean that you must be careless and irresponsible, but it means that you must learn when to be serious and when not to.

When you are with people who want to have some fun, relax, laugh, and try to enter into the spirit of what is going on. Remember that relaxation is just as important as work.

To be gay, you must feel gay. This means that you must stop worrying. The person who is always worried about this, that, or the other thing is so weighed down with fear that he cannot laugh and see the fun in anything.

Think Less of Self
Another thing you must learn if you want to be more cheerful and more friendly is to think less about yourself and more about other people. The person who is "self-bound"—and most people who are serious-minded and worriers are self-bound—cannot forget himself long enough to enter into the fun that others are having. He is so concerned about what others will think of him and whether he will make a good impression that he bores others with his seriousness.

Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Nixon expressed his views on the national political situation at a press conference after a top secret national security meeting with President Eisenhower. But he emphasized he did not discuss politics with the President.

Most Republican leaders, he said, are confident the President will run again and are basing their campaign plans on that assumption.

He predicted a "horse race" for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination among Stevenson, the 1952 nominee, Harriman and Kefauver. He discounted the tendency of "professional politicians" to underestimate the "down to earth voting ability" of Kefauver.

Farm Problem Important

Nixon told reporters he "never saw the President look better" than he looked yesterday. "I feel he is in tiptop shape both physically and mentally," he added.

The vice president admitted that the GOP may be in serious political trouble in the farm belt because of falling crop prices.

But he said he is not as pessimistic about it as some people think the Republicans should be.

Nixon said the mushrooming growth of television as a blanket medium for reaching millions of voters may mean drastic changes in national campaigning methods next year.

He said that may mean more
