Corn's Protein Content Increased by Nitrogen
Lincoln, Neb.—(U.P.)—A University of Nebraska soil specialist said protein content of corn is increased by the use of nitrogen fertilizer.

Tests in five Nebraska counties, according to the specialist, M. D. Weldon, showed 7.8 per cent crude protein in the corn without fertilizer, but 9.6 with fertilizer carrying 80 pounds of nitrogen. Weldon said that as a rule crops of high protein content have a higher feed value than those of lower content. He said the use of nitrogen fertilizer not only increases the yield but also the feeding value of the crop.

Rockaway Man Held On Murder Charge In Neighbor's Death

Tillamook—(U.P.)—A 30-year-old Rockaway man was in Tillamook county jail today charged with the first degree murder of his long time neighbor, 55-year-old Clyde Robert Lewis.

Lewis was shot and killed at his Rockaway home about 7:55 a.m., yesterday apparently without provocation. Charged with the slaying was Huber Frederick Camell.

According to Tillamook county District Attorney, John W. Hathaway, Camell walked to within six feet of Lewis and took deliberate aim while Lewis was stooped over on his front porch oiling some equipment.

Hathaway said Camell shot Lewis through the top of the head and then when Lewis fell and rolled over, walked closer and shot him through the right eye with his .22-calibre rifle from about 18 inches away.

There were no witnesses to the shooting although Lewis' sister, Mildred De Gnath of Brockway, Ore., saw Camell

On The Side

How much of a factor has your wife been in your success? For what your life-companion has done for you give her credit on every possible occasion. One of the most touching tributes paid to the wife of a successful man is the memorial table on the Brooklyn Bridge in honor of Emily Warren Roebling. It reads: "Dedicated to the memory of Emily Warren Roebling (1843-1903). With faith and courage she helped her stricken husband, Col. Washington A. Roebling, C.E. (1837-1926), to complete the construction of this bridge from the plans of his father, John A. Roebling, C.E. (1806-1869), who gave his life to this bridge. Back of every great work we can find the self-sacrificing devotion of a woman."

Arrested at Home
Camell was arrested in the bedroom of his home next door to Lewis' residence. Police said a .22 rifle, patches and cleaning equipment were plainly visible.

When asked if he had done the shooting, Camell said yes without hesitation. He further told police he had planned for two years to kill Lewis and said he knew Monday night that if everything was right he would shoot him Tuesday morning.

The two men had known each other for 16 or 17 years. Camell had not been steadily employed for the past several years. Lewis worked at the Stebinger Lumber Company at Porter Creek.

Asking
Queries from clients: Q. What about the claim that no great composer of classical music has been a cigar smoker? A. Why, sir, that is ridiculous. Brahms smoked cigars. So did Franz Liszt. And to get nearer to the present, so did George Gershwin. Q. There have been two Presidents named Adams. Others bearing the same name have been a great actress, the inventor of chewing gum, a brilliant columnist, a champion jockey and a celebrated novelist. But has there ever been a star baseball player named Adams? A. I'll say there has. None other than Charles "Babe" Adams, a star pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates for 20 years.

Sidelights
Mary B. Malkern has been employed continuously with the George A. Fuller company of Boston for 56 years. If that isn't the New England steady job record for women, what is? . . . Am informed that many physicians with patients suffering from a heart condition advise them not to watch boxing bouts on television. Too exciting, say the medics.

Closing Hour
Legal closing for Los Angeles bars is 2 a.m. Now the bar owners there want the closing hour for selling alcoholic liquors fixed at 3 a.m. As to this situation, I am in agreement with Clarence "Toots" Shor, New York cafe maestro, who in agreeing that 2 a.m. was late enough to keep a barroom open, observed, "A man who can't get drunk by 2 a.m. just ain't tryin'."

Those Twins
As to the tale about the twins named Peter and Repeater. Here is the way a Brooklynite says he heard it some years ago. An Irishman becoming the father of twins, as so many sons of Old Erin do, decided to name them Peter and Repeater. Then his wife again gave birth to twins, two girls. So he named them Kate and Duplicate. Then once more his mate gave birth to twins. The Irishman, now feeling there were enough twins in the family, named the late arrivals Max and Climax.

Marine Wins $32,000 Question on TV Show

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Correspondent

New York —(U.P.)—Capt. Richard Sherrill McCutchen, a Marine who commutes between the Halls of Montezuma and maza-ma, threw out a hint today that he might be the first contestant to go for broke on TV's "The $64,000 Question."

McCutchen, who twice flunked his Boy Scout cooking test, moved up to the $32,000 level on the CBS-TV giveaway show Tuesday night by answering a five-part query dealing with food and cooking. The lanky, crew-cut career officer will get a chance next week to double his stake or quit.

It was learned by this reporter that McCutchen stated on his application to the show that he "wanted the first $64,000 to be won by a Marine."

Questioned after the show, McCutchen smiled confidently and said: "It wouldn't be fair to the producers of the show for me to tell you whether I'll go on. But let me put it this way—I know and I'm not saying."

McCutchen, assigned to naval ROTC at the University of Ohio in Columbus, will be permitted to bring an expert to the show as his aide if he decides to go for the full amount next Tuesday. One report had it that he might name his father, John McCutchen, a retired naval captain who also is an expert in the cooking field.

The question that thrust McCutchen to the $32,000 plateau dealt with desserts. He was asked to name the origin and describe "bombe" (Franco; a mold or melon lined with two kinds of ice cream), zabaglione (Italy; egg yolk, sugar and wine), olykoek (Dutch or early American; a doughnut or cruller with raisins in the center), flummery (Wales or early American; a custard pudding with fruit, and pheffer-nuss (German; a highly spiced cake.)

If the 28-year-old Marine does decide to shoot the works on the next telecast, he will be the first to do so. Two other contestants, opera expert Gino Prato of New York and Bible expert Catherine Kreitzer of Camp Hill, Pa., both reached the $32,000 level and quit.

One other contestant on the program, Mrs. Myrtle Power of Buford, Ga., reached the $8,000 mark in the baseball category. Mrs. Power, a widow and housekeeper for a family in Roslyn Heights, N.Y., said she had been following the sport since 1895.

Woman Feline Fancier Left Holding the Cats
Milwaukee — (U.P.)—Mrs. Archie Stray (as in cat) says there is such a thing as pushing a good thing too far.
Mrs. Stray, president of the Midwest Feline Fanciers' club, keeps cats for persons going on their vacations.
She took in six pedigreed Persians belonging to a stranger last April 30. The person had not returned at last report and Mrs. Stray had six homeless cats and 19 homeless kittens on her hands.
