Pickin' Pears News and Notes From Camp White

By SID HOLLINGSWORTH

The Veterans of Foreign Wars posts and auxiliaries in Oregon and northern California, with their contributions that helped Camp White veterans celebrate Labor Day in a new way, will be able to receive a glowing report from the 25 or more representatives who were here to make their Field day a success.

The turnout for the affair, and the participation of a large section of the home membership in the all day program of events, despite the heat and the humidity, was all the more remarkable because of the spontaneous interest shown in each of the sports and games arranged for them.

Special Services technicians and VFW auxiliary ladies headed by Lelia Birch, hospital chairman, who thought up the idea of a Field day, have been working for several months to make a success of the first venture of its kind to be held at Camp White.

Despite some misgivings concerning the state of apathy of the men as the preliminaries were being run off, the fine spirit of sportsmanship and the large number of veterans taking part, established a precedent for an annual Field day on this special holiday.

The outside heat made it necessary to hold the afternoon program in the auditorium, and so many showed up for these events that the number was limited to 10 entries in each of the last few contests.

Much of the credit for the way the show was run off without a hitch is due to the planning and the direction provided by Frank Glonning, chief of Special Services and his corps of assistants—Al Birman, Bud Ash, Jim Rea and Art Mick. They were all over the place getting the games organized and rounding up the results. In no case was there a dispute over the outcome.

The proceedings were started at 9:30 a.m. with remarks by Manager E. K. Ricker and the officials for the day, including the VFW representatives, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Birch, Helen Lusk, Maxine Aldridge, Ron Dickens, Jerry and Mary Wyman and Lorraine Kell.

The entire area around the theater radiated a carnival atmosphere with horseshoes, shuffleboard, miniature golf, basketball throw, ring toss, croquet, bowling and other lawn games in progress. The pool hall, the card room and the green room were busy with those games.

The afternoon was given over to feature events including races for fat men, thin men, backward walking, ping pong toss, balloon blowing, shoe kick, pie eating, cigar smoking and other novel contests. The tallest, the shortest, the curliest haired and the balddest members were singled out and awarded prizes. There was even a prize for Casey Jones who, with Card No. 8, is the member who has lived here the longest.

The Camp White orchestra provided the musical interludes and at the end of the day, ice cream was served to all and sundry. Second and third prizes of cigarettes and canteen books were awarded on the spot after the games, also the prizes for specialty performances. The top
