

Return of 90 Per Cent Parity On Farm Supports 'Necessary'

Washington—(U.P.)—Sen. Milton R. Young (R-N.D.) today warned his Republican colleagues "we are going to have to restore 90 per cent of parity farm supports. It's a political and economic necessity."

Another demand for a return to fixed price supports was voiced by Sen. Earle C. Clements (D-Ky.), the Senator Democratic whip. Farmers "would like to have back" that rigid price guarantee which was dropped by the Eisenhower administration, Clements said yesterday.

As criticisms of the administration's farm record increased, Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson called together his top level National Agricultural Advisory Commission here today to consider new plans to bolster sagging farm prices and income. The commission is headed by Dean William I. Myers of the Cornell University College of Agriculture.

Closed Meetings
The meeting was closed and the commission planned no news conference or public report of its recommendations to Benson, Agriculture Department officials indicated.

It was safe to predict, however, the commission would not recommend a return to rigid supports on wheat, cotton, rice, corn and peanuts at 90 per cent of "fair earning power" parity level. The same group advised Benson to drop the rigid system in 1954 and approved the administration program of flexible supports.

The flexible prop system, approved by Congress in 1954, took

Court Opinion Favors Railroad

Portland—(U.P.)—A Federal Court opinion on file here today gives the Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroad the right to collect from the government full commercial freight rates on heavy equipment accepted by the line for delivery to the Soviet Union.

From 1942 to 1945 the line hauled hydroelectric power plants, generators, and diesel engines on its own and affiliated lines for trans-shipment to Russia.

Although the government then paid the full commercial freight rate for the service, it later attempted to recover 50 per cent of the payments by deducting that amount from bills submitted by the railroad for other freight hauled subsequent to 1945.

The railroad filed 13 suits to recover $130,000 in payments withheld by the government.

A decision returned by Judge James Alger Fee said the fact that the federal government, for its own purposes, chose to bolster the economy of the Soviet Union is no reason for burdening a private domestic carrier with a surcharge. He said the government's case failed to show that any of the material had actually been put to war use by the Soviets.

sound," promised last week that after consulting the commission he would offer congress "something additional" to check the farm decline.

Crop Land Rental

Agriculture Department spokesmen have indicated the commission would discuss, among other plans, proposals to rent crop land from farmers in an effort to reduce surplus production.

The rental plan "is something we should have done long ago," Young said. He indicated he would press for a program of this type along with a return to rigid supports.

"This is the time farmers need high supports most," he said, because their income has been cut by a combination of sliding prices and acreage cutbacks under federal control programs.

Young termed "a bit silly" Benson's repeated claims that current farm surplus troubles are largely due to the rigid support program, in effect for a decade. The main reasons for surpluses are "the postwar situation and our foreign policy of refusing to sell farm products to Russia and her satellites," the senator maintained.

Clements said President Eisenhower stated during the 1952 campaign that farmers should get "full parity, not merely 90 per cent of parity."

Most farmers "would like to have back that Democratic per cent which he belittled," the Kentuckian said.

Some States End DST Next Sunday

Chicago—(U.P.)—An estimated 28,880,000 Americans will collect a five-month-old debt Sunday, the hour of sleep they lost when many parts of the country adopted day-light saving time last April.

A national survey by Elgin Observatory indicated that most cities and towns in 11 states will return to standard time at 12:01 a.m. Sept. 25.

Another 41,575,000 persons in 12 other states must wait until the last Sunday in October to catch up on the hour's sleep they lost in April.

Daylight time ends Sept. 25 in most cities in California, the District of Columbia, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Virginia and West Virginia.

Daylight time will end Oct. 30 at most cities in Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont.

The change over will bring the confusion that regularly results from turning the clock back.

As We Live

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, P.H.D.

Mother's Moods Determine Atmosphere At Home

When a person is tired and nervously tense, she is likely to be grumpy and hard to live with. This is especially serious when it involves the wife and mother. Here is how one woman met this problem.

(Q) "A letter from what you called a 'sarcastic mother' interested me because she sounded so much like I did a couple of months ago. Then I discovered some things about myself. First, that I wasn't being fair to myself or to my family. So, I had a check-up and found my blood was very low. Now I am taking iron and feel much better."

"Next, I faced the fact that I held the key to the kind of disposition each member of my family would have. If I went around ranting and raving, two to one the children would go quarrelsome all day and my husband would have little to say to me. Last, I realized that nobody was pushing me but myself. My husband wasn't a perfectionist. He didn't expect a spotless house. He'd rather have things undone than see me sit and cry because I was so tired. So, I slowed down and now I'm fit to live with."

"Now I do things as they come. When I run out of steam, I make sure the children are around, stretch out on the divan for 10 or 15 minutes and rest. I may do this two or three times a day and what a difference it makes. When I explained to the children that this rest helped Mama from being so grumpy, they learned not to make so many demands then. I hope you can pass this on to any mother who finds herself being grumpy to her family." Mrs. A. B.

(A) This woman has learned the secret of efficiency and, at the same time, discovered that one's disposition is affected by one's physical condition. Any man or woman who finds himself or herself being disagreeable will do well to follow the suggestions given in this letter.

One of the most important points is that the whole family was affected, either favorably or unfavorably, by her mood. When there are young children who spend most of their waking time with the mother her moods are the determining factors of the atmosphere of the home.
