

Oregon League Recommends Program Item

Portland—Mrs. Justin Smith, was one of the state board members of the League of Women Voters of Oregon who met in an all day session in Portland Saturday at the Mallory hotel to discuss national and state program planning. Present current agenda items on the national league program are "Support of U. S. Trade Policies that will help solve national and international economic problems" and "Development of understanding of the relationship between individual liberty and the public interest."

The Oregon board of directors voted to move the trade item to "continuing responsibilities" which is a term used in the league for platforms, and to maintain the item on individual liberties with some rewording which would be dependent upon the progress made in the Freedom Agenda Program between now and the national convention of the league to be held in Chicago in April.

Recommended as a new program item by the state board Saturday was "federal policies affecting the conservation of national resources."

Mrs. J. Richard Nokes, Portland, chairman of the state study item, "measures to revise and strengthen the constitution of Oregon," announced the plans of her committee for the year. Study for this item will be concentrated on provisions of the constitution dealing with county government. County officers elected by constitutional provision will be interviewed in an attempt to determine whether public election or appointment is more desirable for these offices.

A measure submitted to the people by the legislature will be voted upon at the next general election removing the county surveyor and county coronor from direct election and the league plans to complete its study of the election versus appointment prior to this election. A survey will be made to find out how much time is now spent in the state legislature enacting special county legislation. Members of Mrs. Nokes' committee are Mrs. Wallace Baldinger, Eugene; Mrs. David J. Lewis, Portland; Miss Eleanor Stevens, Salem; and Mrs. Smith, Medford.

PTA Council To Meet on Thursday

Medford Council of Parents and Teachers will hold its first meeting of the school year Thursday, September 29, at 1:15 p.m. in the YMCA auditorium. Mrs. Roland Holmes, council president, will preside.

The council governing body is a representative group from the city schools and outlying units having membership in the council. The council consists of the officers and the chairmen of standing committees, the president and vice-president of each local unit in membership; two delegates from each unit, elected or authorized by the unit at its annual meeting for a term of one year; the immediate past president of the council; and ex officio members the superintendents of schools (or their representatives) and the principals (or principals representatives) of schools having units in council membership.

According to Mrs. Holmes, the council is an organization of mutual aid and united action. "It serves as the medium through which the local units of this council can together attach problems beyond the scope of a single PTA working alone," she stated. The council provides the power of united planning and effort to solve community-wide problems affecting children and youth.

Any interested person is welcome to attend.

the local leagues which meet in neighborhood groups and discuss any items proposed by members for the current agenda of the League of Women Voters of the United States. After a consensus is reached in neighborhood unit meetings on program items they would like to see placed on the national program, the local league board considers all of the items proposed by the various groups. The local board of directors then selects those items it considers to be of nation-wide interest and forward its recommendations to the national office of the League of Women Voters in Washington, D. C., where they are then considered and voted upon by the board of directors of the national league. Final determination of the national program of the league will be made at the national convention in Chicago.
