

BOUND FOR EXILE when sailing permit is received from new Argentine government, Juan D. Peron has been living on this gunboat in Buenos Aires harbor. He is said to be going to Spain. (International)

Peron Granted Asylum In Spain; May Begin Exile Flight Today

Buenos Aires — (U.P.) — Ousted President Juan D. Peron has been granted asylum in Spain and may begin his flight into exile today, a source close to the new president said.

The informant said negotiations for a safe conduct pass for the deposed dictator have been concluded. He said Peron will be picked up by a seaplane from the Paraguayan gunboat in Buenos Aires harbor and flown to Paraguay. Then he will go to Spain.

Peron will leave behind what has been described as an "Arabian Nights" treasure trove amassed during his 10 years dictatorship of Argentina. A partial police inventory of the loot recovered thus far listed almost $30,000,000 in gold coins and U.S. and Argentine currency alone.

Peron fled to refuge aboard the gunboat Paraguay, in Buenos Aires for repairs, when the regime toppled 11 days ago. He remained aboard the 25-year-old crippled gunboat under the watchful eyes of the Argentine navy and air force during negotiations for his exile.

President Eduardo Lonardi, leader of the revolution which ended Peron's "iron man" domination, promised to respect the Latin American policy of the right of political asylum. But he vowed also to make certain that Peron would not be able to conspire to regain his political power and prestige from the safety of exile.

A source close to the presidency said that Spain's willingness to accept Peron was expressed by Spanish Charge d'Affaires Manuel Viturra in a meeting with Juan Chavez, Paraguayan ambassador to Buenos Aires.

Police Wednesday night arrested Alejandro Leloir, leader of the Peronista Party. Leloir succeeded Peron as party head after the latter resigned on the heels of the abortive June 16 revolt.

Death Rate on Highways Ahead Of Last Year

Chicago — (U.P.) — The death rate on the nation's highways is running more than 1,000 deaths ahead of last year and the most dangerous months are still to come, the National Safety Council said today.

The council reported that 23,470 persons have been killed in traffic accidents from the beginning of the year until the end of August. This is a five per cent jump of 1,040 deaths over the 22,430 recorded in the first eight months of 1952.

Dangerous Months Ahead
Council President Ned H. Dearborn warned that the most dangerous months for drivers are still ahead.

The highway death rate usually spurts in the last quarter of the year, when early darkness and rainy or snowy weather increase driving hazards, he said.

In August, when 3,600 persons were killed, the death rate jumped 10 per cent over August, 1952, to make it the sixth consecutive month to go over the previous year's record.

Deaths jumped four per cent from January to July, the council said.

The Bright Side
Also on the bright side, 19 of the 47 reporting states had fewer deaths last month than in August, 1952, and 13 states had better eight-month records.

Leading the states with good eight-month records was Idaho, where 21 per cent fewer traffic deaths occurred this year. Traffic deaths dropped 18 per cent in Arizona, seven per cent in North Dakota, and five per cent in Minnesota and Nebraska.
