New York Court Establishes New Reconciliation Calendar

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Correspondent
New York — (U.P.)—Divorce-seeking couples here soon will find their names listed on a reconciliation calendar as the first court step in handling their cases.

The reconciliation meeting will occur before any changes have been made by either husband or wife in the divorce action. Many divorces could be prevented at this stage, authorities behind the new family part of the state Supreme Court feel, but after the divorce machinery gets moving it usually is too late.

Justice Samuel M. Gold, 57-year-old Supreme Court judge who was chosen to preside over the new family court, says that too many divorce courts handle the cases "just as if they were actions for breach of contract. A judge leaves a stockholders suit and starts trying a matrimonial case."

Family Cases Only
Now all cases involving divorces, separations and child custody will go to the family part of the court and the judge sitting on the bench will handle no other cases during the time he is assigned to the family court.

"The most a person can do before meeting for a reconciliation session is to consult a lawyer and serve a summons," Judge Gold explained.

The white-haired judge discussed the role the court can play in cutting down the number of divorces in the recesses between the day's court hearings. He listened patiently while one angry couple fought over who was to bring up their two children after their legal separation.

Cold States Exchanged
The second couple whose case was scheduled for a hearing stared coldly at one another while the first witness told of the husband come home intoxicated "maybe once or twice a week."

"It is too late to help them," the judge said later. "There is too much bitterness there."

Many times an estranged couple only needs to sit down with a third person who is sympathetic but not connected in any way with their lives and tell him their troubles, Judge Gold said. While he listens, the two people talk out their grievances and agree to try again.

The "cooling off period" that the reconciliation calendar will establish can get couples back together before the shame of other people knowing the details of their troubles becomes a further stumbling block to their happiness, the judge added.

Junior Club to Hold Meeting on Saturday

Wife of Pastor Speaks for Guild

Mrs. D. Kirkland West, who traveled in Jordan and Palestine this summer, spoke for a meeting of Westminster guild of First Presbyterian church Monday evening. Mrs. West also showed colored slides taken by herself and Dr. West, pastor of the church, in the two countries.

Mrs. West prefaced her talk by giving a brief history of the Zionist movement and the establishment of Israel as an independent republic in 1948. She spoke of the partition of the land between the Israelis and the Arabs, and of the conflicts which have resulted, stating that there is much to be said for both sides.

The speaker talked particularly of the progress made by the Jewish people in resettling Palestine, of the extensive plantings of trees and crops and said that the results of their hard work is evident everywhere.

Mrs. West said that the Arabs were "patriotic and honorable and had been betrayed" but on the other hand, many sympathized with the Jews because of their long persecution and their struggles to achieve security for their race.

A dinner served by Mercy circle of the church preceded the program and business meeting. Mrs. Frances Collens, president, conducted the meeting.

Klamath Editor To Speak Here

The power and farm problems of southern Oregon will be discussed at the October meeting of Jackson County Republican Women to be held Monday, October 10, at the Jackson hotel. Speaker will be Frank Jenkins, Klamath Falls, editor and publisher of the Herald and News, daily newspaper of that city.

It is stated that Mr. Jenkins talk will be non-political, and that he will discuss the power and farm situation from the standpoint of a business man.

Mrs. Stephen G. Nye, president of the women's group, invites both men and women to hear Mr. Jenkins. Reservations may be made by calling the hotel, telephone 2-6231, and luncheon will be served at 12 o'clock with the talk following.

SOC Teacher Receives Copy of New Handbook

Ashland—Miss Irene Hollenbeck, Southern Oregon college science instructor, has received a copy of the newly-published "Handbook for Teaching Conservation and Resource-use" which she helped prepare as a member of the National Association of Biology Teachers.

Miss Hollenbeck, who recently accepted the position of regional chairman of Region IX—California, Washington, and Oregon—served on the committee that selected the material for the 450-page book and helped prepare it for publication.

It was pointed out by Miss Hollenbeck that the publication was prepared by 200 teachers from 30 states and shows how they have incorporated conservation and resource-use teaching into the schools.

Mistletoe Camp Announces Meeting

Seat Safety Belts Save Women's Lives

Portland —(U.P.)— Seat safety belts installed only a few days ago were credited today with saving two Yakima, Wash., women from serious injury or possible death when their station wagon crashed into a southeast Portland grocery store after an accident yesterday.

Bessie P. Marsh, 76, and Helma Anderson, 60, were unmarked although their station wagon came to rest inside the market with the grill inside a refrigerator full of smashed soda pop and beer bottles. Police credited the safety belts which were installed less than a week ago.

The accident involved the station wagon, a pickup truck and another car. There were no injuries. Damage to the store was estimated at $2,500.

EISENHOWER'S VISITORS
Abilene, Kan. — (U.P.)— More than a quarter of a million visitors have registered at the boyhood home of President Eisenhower. In the eight years since it was opened to the public, visitors to the white frame house have come from every state and 102 foreign countries.

Tea Announced By Presbyterians

Mrs. Harry Brandt of West Point, Miss., will be honored at a tea planned for Friday, October 7, by women of First Presbyterian church. The tea is set for 3 o'clock and Presbyterian women from Jacksonville, Central Point, Phoenix, Ashland and Grants Pass, as well as Medford, are invited to attend.

Mrs. Brandt will come to Medford after attending Presbyterian meetings in Klamath Falls and Bandon where she was a featured speaker. Mrs. Brandt's husband is with Mary Holmes Junior college, West Point, Miss., and formerly with Sheldon Jackson Junior college in Goodman, Miss. The latter school was one of those selected this year for "opportunity" gifts from local Presbyterian groups.

It is said that Mrs. Brandt is known as an exceptionally interesting speaker, and women of the Presbyterian congregations are looking forward to hearing her talk during the tea. The event will be held in the fireplace room of First Presbyterian church, Eighth and Holly streets, Medford.

Two New Members Join Gold Hill Club

Gold Hill—Gold Hill garden club met September 23 at the home of Mrs. George Smith. Two new members joined the club at this meeting. A business meeting followed a potluck luncheon at noon and a discussion on work which should be done in the garden this fall.

"Weedy friends" received gifts from their secret pals. Mrs. Smith took the members for a tour of her garden.

Next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Otto Jones Friday, October 21.
