

Parliamentarian of Oregon Auxiliary Attends Meeting

Mrs. Dan Dwyer, Medford, parliamentarian for the Oregon Lions Club auxiliary, was in Portland Wednesday to attend a meeting of the executive board at the Aero club. The president, Mrs. Kenneth E. Rodgers, Portland, met with members of the board for a no-host luncheon preceding the business meeting.

Scheduling of district workshops at which state officers will appear to assist local presidents and committee chairmen in planning their work was one of the chief items on the agenda. Mrs. F. L. Thompson Jr., Sutherlin, vice-president for District E, will have charge of the arrangements for the workshop in which the two Medford auxiliaries will participate.

Mrs. Rodgers stated that a charter will be presented to the 72nd club in the state on October 20, when the Woodland Park club, Portland, holds its charter night dinner. Clubs at Waldport and Gardiner-Reedsport were added to the state roster during the last week in September.

The Honorable Walter H. Judd, congressman from Minnesota, will speak in Medford Monday, October 10, at Rogue Valley Country club as a guest of Rogue River Valley Knife and Fork club. Dr. Judd, a practicing surgeon and medical missionary in South China from 1925 to 1931, and superintendent of hospitals in North China for the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Mission from 1934-38, is considered one of the most brilliant speakers in the United States.

Gaetano Savini Announces 'Columnar Look' For Men

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY United Press Correspondent

New York — (U.P.) — If there is a man at your house who laughed when you tried to squeeze into one of those Paris shapes like the A-line or the H-line, tell him about "the columnar look."

It's all his. From Italy, the home of fattening food and filled-out movie queens, comes the news that men should strive for a slimmed-down look in their clothes.

Gaetano Savini, one of Italy's leading designers of men's clothing, previewed "the columnar look" here recently and prepared to start off across the nation to spread the word. Some two dozen stores in as many American cities already have agreed to sell Savini-designed clothes.

Keeps Women in Mind

Savini is a cheerful, uncolumnar shaped man who used to work in a ladies' ready-to-wear store. He says men really do like to please women with their wardrobes, so he always keeps women in mind when he is creating a male style.

The Italian-imported styles respect every man's right to look like a he-man and to be conservative, not conspicuous.

There was one bright red wool sports jacket with a matching visor cap and a different-looking top coat that came just to the knees — but most of the other Italian innovations were subtle enough to satisfy the most reluctant male shopper.

To accent the slim column shape trousers are cuffless and tapered — not the skinny-legged look of the Edwardian dandy, suit coats are slightly shorter and loosely fitted, with natural shoulders and narrow lapels and hat brims are narrow.

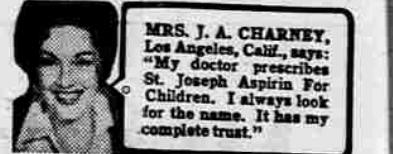

Savini often has side vents on suit coats, and he varies from one, two and three-button single-breasted coats. One black worsted suit which he suggests as proper for a man "after five in town" has a one-button jacket.

For executives who are tired of the same old double-breasted coat, he has made a grey shadow-striped suit with a four-button double-breasted coat instead of six buttons.

Cheese should not be stored in a home freezer, but should be kept at a temperature of around 40 degrees to make it keep and also taste better.

There wasn't a pink or lavender shirt in the entire fashion show, in case the men think this is significant.

MRS. J. A. CHARNEY, Los Angeles, Calif., says: "My doctor prescribes St. Joseph Aspirin for children. I always look for the name. It has my complete trust."
