Republican Campaign Plans Must Revolve on Assumption Ike To Run, Halleck Says

Kansas City—(U.P.)—All GOP campaign plans must be made on the assumption that President Eisenhower will be candidate next year, Rep. Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind.) told top Missouri and Kansas Republicans at a $100-a-plate fund raising dinner Thursday night.

Halleck, speaking under the auspices of the Republican National Committee, said, "No one can say anything except on the assumption that the President will be a candidate. I personally, however, was not convinced he was going to run even before his illness."

His speech was billed as the first major pronouncement by a leading Republican for the GOP National Committee since the President suffered a heart attack nearly two weeks ago.

If Mr. Eisenhower is not a candidate, Halleck said, "a person willing to carry on the Eisenhower program will have to be nominated."

Halleck picked as outstanding two of seven major issues on which he said the campaign would be fought.

"Peace—lasting peace—and the booming economic climate are the chief accomplishments of the Republican administration. These are the issues," Halleck said.

He listed other issues as tax cuts provided by the Republican-controlled 83rd Congress, economy in government, a "sound, new" farm program, a "successful" foreign policy and a halt to inflation.

He minimized the farm problem as an issue, but admitted its seriousness to the country.
