Waterborne Lumber Shipments Increase

Portland — (U.P.) —Waterborne lumber shipments out of Oregon during August were more than three times over the amount shipped in August of last year, according to Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau.

Total Oregon footage this August was 121,660,295, compared to 37,866,581 in August of 1954. The total included 102,283,633 to domestic markets and 19,376,662 to foreign markets.

The gain put Oregon's total for the month ahead of its biggest Pacific Coast competitor, British Columbia, which shipped 111,893,884 board feet.

Childbirth Is Not an Illness

In "Natural Childbirth" the author, Helen Heardman, mother of three children, the first when she was 37, says labor is physiological and unobstructed and the mother reaches the climax of the actual birth fully conscious, confident and joyous. She also says that it is not often that anesthesia or analgesia will be required, but it must be available and offered, though never forced; that is, the mother herself decides whether she wants it.

The movie star Coleen Gray, who had her baby at home the natural way, said:

"The anesthetic . . . you can administer yourself if you wish. Knowing that you can have the anesthetic at any time you want it—you don't want it! At least I didn't. But the fact that it is available is assurance against being tense. You can relax."

In "Childbirth Without Fear" the author, Grantly Dick Read, M.A., M.D., said:

"Most doctors today would scorn the idea that labor can be a pleasurable experience."

Yet, as Dr. Read himself has demonstrated not only the mothers but also the babies are happier at home than they are in a hospital.

You poor creatures who regard childbirth as a kind of illness best treated in a hospital will hardly understand the observation of the physician who attended one of these home deliveries (most of his patients still have their babies in the hospital):

"The mother is in an atmosphere where she feels safe" (at home, where, of course, she is safer than she would be in a hospital). "She feels that she is the boss of the situation herself, not helpless in the strangeness of a hospital."

Mothers whose babies are born at home, said the doctor, require less anesthetic than those who have hospital deliveries. This is understandable—the poor creatures who regard childbirth as a dreadful ordeal clutch at anything that will dull consciousness or black it out, whereas, those who regard childbirth as a "beautiful experience," "the greatest physical and emotional event of our lives" or "a religious experience" usually "feel no need for" anesthetics.

After all, I must confess I have never had a baby, so I can merely report what mothers say about it. But I feel sorry for the husband—I merely said man—who permits any so-and-so rules, regulations, customs or make-believe decency or modesty to prevent or excuse him from sharing in the miracle of childbirth with his wife in their home. Hearing the baby's first cry and seeing the baby cuddled in mother's arms is the greatest emotional experience a man can have, I can tell you. It strengthens the marital bond and deters against divorce, which, God knows, is horribly frequent in Yankeeland.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

So It Proved Atrocious?

If you decorate outstanding candidates, Doctor, I believe I qualify for a Poor Geek badge or button. Although I had read your warning many times, somehow it didn't take—I submitted to a hemorrhoid operation by . . . now I know what atrocity means . . . never suffered so much in my life . . . (F. B. M.)

Answer — The medieval clamp and cautery operation for piles is only slightly less atrocious, I think, than tonsillectomy, because victims of the hemorrhoid operation can reject it if they wish, whereas victims of tonsillectomy have no choice. For the pamphlet YOU NEED NOT HAVE PILES send stamped, self-addressed envelope, and no clipping, please. For pamphlet TONSILS ARE NOT ALL BAD, ditto. For BOTH pamphlets, inclose 10 cents in addition.

Condition of Nails

My fingernails are getting thinner and they break so easily . . . (Mrs. H. W. A.)

Answer—A familiar indication of malnutrition. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask in writing for pamphlet YOUNG FOLKS AND OLD FOLKS.

Two Scheduled For Extradition

Gerald Arthur Nolan, 24, U.S. Air Force, was returned Wednesday from Soledad, Calif., by Sheriff's Deputy Paul Bettiol.

Nolan was extradited on a charge of parole violation.

Sheriff's Deputy Donald E. Dixon left Wednesday to return Fred Edward Stewart from Payette, Ida., on an extradition charge of burglary, not in a dwelling.
