McCarthy Denies Hostile Feeling

Boston—(U.P.)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy denied today that he felt any "hostility" for President Nathan M. Pusey of Harvard University, but said he still has "no respect for the man."

McCarthy testified under cross-examination at the trial of a former Harvard psychologist charged with contempt of Congress for refusing to name his old associates in the Communist party.

Attorney Calvin P. Bartlett, counsel for Leon J. Kamin, 27, sought to show that McCarthy's Jan. 15, 1954, interrogation of Kamin in Boston was an attempt to expose Communism at Harvard to the "glare of publicity" because of the senator's "hostility" toward Pusey.

McCarthy said exposure of Communism was "always in the back of my mind" but it was not the "primary purpose" of the inquiry. He said his main purpose at the one-man hearing was to "eliminate Kamin from defense work. He was a radar technician."

Adams Asked To List Conference Members
Washington—(U.P.)—Democratic congressional investigators today requested President-elect Sherman Adams to disclose who attended White House conferences on a proposed contract to sell federal power to the Georgia Power company.

Chairman Earl Chudoff (D-Pa.), declared at a stormy session of his Government Operations subcommittee that "the people have a right to know what their representatives are doing."

He compared the handling of the Georgia power case to the Dixon-Yates contract.

Over GOP objections, Chudoff sent a telegram to Adams demanding to know how many White House conferences were held, who attended them, and when they were held.

Neuberger Renews Claim On Author of Bill

Portland—(U.P.)—Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) today repeated his claim that Kinsey M. Robinson of the Washington Water Power Co. was the real author of Rep. Sam Coon's John Day dam bill.

Both the Oregon Republican Congressman and Robinson have denied Neuberger's assertion.

Neuberger said today that the denials were "amazing," in view of a letter Robinson wrote to Gov. Arthur Langlie of Washington last March. He said a copy of the letter was in the files of a joint subcommittee of the Senate Interior and Judiciary committees studying utility operations in the Northwest.

Girl Hurt in Ferris Wheel Mishap 'Better'
Dallas, Tex.—(U.P.)—A 13-year-old Memphis, Tex., school girl, who was hurled to the ground when a seat broke near the top of a 92-foot "skywheel" ride Tuesday at the state fair midway, appeared able today to recognize members of her family.

One girl was killed and two others were injured in the accident. Attendees at Baylor hospital said Kay Leslie, the most seriously injured, still was not fully conscious from a head injury received in the fall which killed Cynthia Combest, 15-year-old high school band member from Memphis.

However, attendants said doctors did not plan any surgery.

The other injured girl was Barbara Allen, 14, who was released after hospital treatment for gashed leg.

December Draft Call Will Be 18,000 Men
Washington—(U.P.)—The Defense Department announced today 18,000 men will be drafted in December.

The Army will take 8,000, which is 2,000 fewer than its November call, and the Navy will take 10,000.

The Pentagon said all 18,000 men will be inducted between Dec. 1 and Dec. 10, and because of the Christmas holiday season, no more men will be drafted after that until Jan. 3.

Fire Drills Conducted At All Medford Schools
Members of the city fire department and School Superintendent Leonard Mayfield visited all schools in Medford Tuesday and yesterday and conducted fire drills.

Firemen reported that evacuation of buildings was accomplished in excellent time in most cases. They said that additional drills will be conducted from time to time.

Collier's Sees Adlai With 450 Convention Votes

New York—(U.P.)—Adlai E. Stevenson could enter a Democratic national convention today with a probable 450 votes of the 600 expected for a majority, Collier's magazine said today.

In an article by Theodore H. White, based on his own survey and that of Collier's editorial offices across the country, the magazine said New York's Gov. Averill Harriman, on the same basis, can be counted for "an easy 150" convention votes.

Tennessee's Senator Estes Kefauver is figured for 70 or 80 votes as of today, but a possible 350 to 400 "if he goes out and fights in the primaries."

The magazine assumed Stevenson's candidacy and assumed Harriman would be at least a tactical candidate but said it was not yet certain whether Kefauver would decide to make the primary races he must fight to enter the convention as a real contender.

In totaling up convention votes the magazine figured for Stevenson: Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota after a possible first ballot for favorite son Sen. Hubert Humphrey, Michigan probably after a first ballot vote for Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Missouri; part of the vote of New Jersey, Tennessee, Maryland, Connecticut and Massachusetts; Mississippi, Louisiana, Georgia, North Carolina and most of Alabama. It figured the Far West as "unpredictable" but noted strong support in Washington, New Mexico and Oregon for Stevenson. The magazine did not make a numerical break-down of estimated convention strength.

It figured for Harriman: New York "with the possible exception of Sen. Herbert Lehman, who is flatly for Stevenson"; part of New Jersey, Massachusetts and Maryland; the District of Columbia, Utah and Idaho.

Kefauver's possible 350 to 400 convention votes could be gathered only by primary races in the big primary states, the magazine said. New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Ohio, Nebraska, Florida, West Virginia, Oregon, Montana, Arizona and California.
