Every Potential Parent Should Study Childbirth

One movie actress accepted her Oscar before the television audience a few hours before her baby was born. Another appears regularly on a television program wearing things designed for approaching childbirth. There is a heart warming tendency among young women today with as much pride as they do engagement or marriage. If they don't parade it, at least they do not try to hide their condition, as their mothers and grandmothers did.

hygiene and physiology of pregnancy and childbirth, subjects in which applicants for a license to marry should be examined. For beginners or freshmen, the following books, available at public library or from your book dealer are standard:

Gray's Anatomy contains a 35-page chapter on Embryology, the development of the embryo or fetus from conception to birth.

To Prospective Mothers instructs expectant mothers on normal pregnancy and childbirth.

Natural Childbirth. Preparing for Maternity, one of Dr. Doc Brady's Little Lectures, for which send him 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

This inclination to recognize childbirth as a normal, physiological, natural process indicates, I think, that some Americans are beginning to learn, through extracurricular study, of course, the facts of life. Such study should include the Childbirth answers questions asked by most prospective mothers.

Childbirth Without Fear develops the natural childbirth method in England.

For all I know, other equally good books dealing with the facts of life may have been published in the past five or ten years.

Anyway, the list I give today should be enough to carry any prospective parent—a prospective father who doesn't study the facts of life along with his wife is not a man, he's a mouse or maybe a rat—along to the first interview with the physician engaged to attend the confinement. And let me repeat that the prospective parents should visit the physician as soon as they have reason to believe they are to become parents, and as often thereafter, always together, as the physician may request. For in any home where there is love the baby business is a 50-50 proposition.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS
Well, Well, Here's Sairey Gamp Again
I was advised by a woman who said she had once been a nurse, that cooking in aluminum is a direct cause of cancer, especially cancer of the stomach, because of the effect of aluminum on the food. (L. J. K.)
Answer—We have used aluminum ware in our home for years and have a sign of cancer. Even if Saireygamp can take a temperature and shoot—such skill does not qualify her to advise about health.

Good for Old Fred Perley!
You ought to reprint the enclosed Guyas Williams cartoon in your column. (R. C.)
Answer—I wish we could. It shows old Fred Perley, (remember him?) standing out in a pouring rain, and other people huddled in under a roof. Fred, it seems, prefers waiting out there for the 8:05 train to going inside with all the coughing, sneezing, commuters, even though the others will think he is slightly out of his Answer—She had better continue taking the tablets as the physician directs. Surely she should not take the drug for an indefinite period without examination by the physician at reasonably frequent intervals. (J. F. Dille Co.) (Protected 1955 by John F. Dille Co.)

As We Live

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, P.H.D.

Only Time and Patience Will Reconcile Mother

When a mother sets her heart on what she considers a "good match" for her daughter, it may take time for her to be reconciled to a marriage which does not meet with her approval.

(Q) "Ever since I was a little girl, my mother has wanted me to marry a rich man. Mom has always talked about the hard struggle she and Dad had, and she wanted me to be spared what she went through in the early years of her marriage.

Dr. Hurlock "Last year I eloped with a young man who is just getting started in business. I knew my mother would object and make a scene if I told her before we were married. Since then, she hasn't had anything to do with us, though Dad is very fond of my husband. A month ago, I wrote Mom a note and told her I was pregnant. I haven't heard from her, although we live just a few miles from my parents and Dad often comes to see us. I know I wouldn't be welcome at home so I haven't been there since we were married. I would like to do something to make Mom see how happy I am, but how can I when she won't have anything to do with us?"

J.S. (A) Be patient and I am sure your mother's heart will soften when the baby arrives and your father tells her that he has seen it.

In the meantime, drop in at your home when you are sure your mother will be there alone. Don't tell her you are coming, but take her by surprise. She may be angry at first but be tactful and tell her about your plans for the baby. I am sure she will soften somewhat.

Urge her to come see you and help with preparations for the baby. It may take time before she will accept your husband, but when he begins to be successful in business, I am sure she will be proud to have him in the family.
