

Parents of Murdered Chicago Boys Stunned; Feel They Have Nothing Left To Live For

Chicago — (U.P.) — What do parents do when the news comes that their young boys have been murdered?

They cry, of course. And they remember. And they sit in their chairs, staring at the walls, wondering how it could have happened, wondering what they have left to live for.

All these things, and more, were going on today in two modest brick bungalow homes on the northwest side of Chicago.

Last Sunday two brothers, John, 13, and Anton Jr., 11, left the Anton Schuessler home. Their friend, Robert, 18, said goodbye to his parents at the Malcolm Peterson home.

About six hours later all three boys were murdered. Their naked bodies were found Tuesday, dumped in a forest preserve ditch five miles from their homes. They had been strangled.

News From Radio
The parents heard the news over the radio and from newspaper reporters.

Hours later, the mothers sat numbly in their chairs. The fathers paced about, trying at the same time to soothe their wives and voice their own bitterness.

Shady Cove-Trail

Shady Cove Grange met in regular session Oct. 12. Master Reed McKay presiding. Willie McLain, state juvenile matron; Master Myrtle Wertz, Eagle Point; and Master Roy Cameron, Live Oak Grange, were special guests.

Bert Clark, agriculture chairman, reported the farmers had a tough summer and now is a good time to fill lockers as beef prices are low and there is plenty to be had.

Cecil Kee cautioned all home owners to be sure and check flues for any faults and get them free from soot, as most home fires are caused from clogged or faulty flues.

Master McKay announced the Shady Cove Booster Night has been changed to Saturday, Nov. 12.

Master Ralph Mickle and 31 Grange members of Bellview Grange brought the lecture hour to Shady Cove, which was very much enjoyed.

Other Granges that were represented were: Eagle Point, Gold Hill, Live Oak, Phoenix and Roxy Ann. Cookies, sandwiches and coffee were served following the meeting.

Next regular Grange meeting will be a potluck dinner at 7 p.m., Oct. 26. Officers are asked to be present for practice.

Mrs. Travis Littlefield was hostess to the Shady Cove Home Economics club Oct. 4. Members planned a dinner for the 4-H, to be given in the near future.

A potluck dinner was served at noon. Reed McKay and Travis Littlefield were guests. The afternoon was taken over by Mrs. Littlefield, who demonstrated textile painting.

Next HEC regular meeting will be at Mrs. Barnie Lewen's in Medford, Nov. 8. New officers will be elected for the coming year.

There was Mrs. Schuessler, 37, moaning "My life... my arms... my legs... now gone." Standing to shriek "I want my boys! I want my—"

Police Seek Clothes, Purchaser of Tape In Murder of Boys

Chicago — (U.P.) — Chicago and Cook county police worked on the following clues and leads today in the search for the stranger of three young boys:

1. Somewhere in the city they hope to find the boys' clothes, which were ripped from their bodies. When last seen, Robert Peterson, 13, was wearing a black jacket with a Chicago White Sox emblem, dark trousers, and black shoes. John Schuessler wore a blue Chicago Cubs' jacket and his brother, Anton, a black Cubs jacket. The brothers both wore blue jeans and brown shoes.

2. A search is underway for adhesive tape which was used to bind the victims' eyes and mouths and which was torn away before the bodies were abandoned. Police are making a check of drugstores in hopes of getting a lead on the tapes' purchaser.

Deviates Rounded Up
3. A massive roundup of known sex deviates was in progress. It concentrated on bowling alley employees, since the boys were last seen in an alley. The victims were not sexually molested, but Coroner Walter J. McCarron believes the killer is a "sex maniac."

4. Another police detail is checking on the activities of teen-aged gangs in the area. Sheriff Joseph Lohman believes the slaying could not be the work of one person and that the boys fell in with a gang of young hoodlums. "Something may have gone wrong to frighten the youthful gangsters and they killed all three to make sure they would not give evidence," he says.

5. Police experts examined muddy tire tracks found in the parking lot near the spot where

Her 41-year-old husband returns from the morgue, pulling on a cigarette. He falls on his knees before his wife, sobbing "Mother, what kind of a land do we live in?"

The Petersons' home is only a few blocks away. They come home from the morgue to find their three smaller children, aged 3 to 7, crying hysterically. They try to be brave for their sake.

Over and over again, there is the same refrain in both homes—"They were such good boys."

And the murdered boys' neighbors and teachers agree. They were, indeed, good boys.

One thing was sure—there was nothing of the juvenile delinquent in any of the boys. They played close to home and their parents generally knew what they were doing. Until Sunday.

Last Hours Probed
6. An exhaustive investigation into the boys' last hours was made. The boys were last seen at a bowling alley five miles from their home and it was possible that the killer gave them a ride in his car. The parents said the boys never hitchhiked, but it was pointed out that they might have run out of money for car fare and that it was raining Sunday night.

7. A man identified as an unemployed school teacher was picked up for questioning after an anonymous telephone call, but denied any connection with the crime. Police also searched for a middle-aged man who gave two teen-aged boys a ride in his car after meeting them in a bowling alley Sunday night.

SOC Wesley House Planning Hay Ride
Ashland — All persons interested in Wesley foundation activities are invited to attend a hayride Friday, Oct. 21. Cars will leave Wesley house, 568 Roca st., at 6:30 p.m. to the starting point of the ride. A wiener roast will be held.

His subject will be, "Thou Shalt Love Thyself." Dinner will be served at 6 p.m., and his talk will begin at 7 p.m.

Pyle Replaces Nixon As Portland Speaker
Portland — (U.P.) — Howard Pyle, former governor of Arizona and now a member of the White House staff, will replace Vice-President Richard Nixon as main speaker at the Nov. 4 meeting of the Republican Western States Conference, GOP National Committeeman Jess Gard said today.

Nixon's office in Washington, D.C., said Saturday the vice-president would be unable to appear as originally scheduled.

WINS AWARD
Grace Gail, Gold Hill, received a first award for her 850-pound shorthorn fat steer in 4-H club entries, at the Pacific International Livestock show at Portland.

Retired School Teacher Leaves Instructions

Cambridge, Mass. — (U.P.) — The will of Ross Vardon, a retired school teacher, who died Sept. 29 at the age of 85, was probated yesterday. It contained instructions that the following epitaph appear on his tombstone:

"No school session today. Teacher gone home."

INVESTIGATOR TRANSFERRED
Portland — (U.P.) — David Strubb, U. S. immigration service investigator here since April of 1954, is being transferred to Rotterdam, Holland, to help administer the refugee relief program. He plans to sail for Europe Dec. 2.

Washington — (U.P.) — Speculation increased today that former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will be boomed by his supporters for the 1956 Republican presidential nomination.

Chairman L. Judson Morhouse of the New York Republican Party intensified the speculation last night with a statement that any one of several men "in or out" of government could lead the party to victory if President Eisenhower does not run again.

Morhouse, speaking at a $50 a plate GOP dinner at Schenectady, N.Y., did not identify the potential candidates. But Dewey, now engaged in private law practice, and Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, are the most frequently mentioned possibilities for the nomination among men outside federal or state government.

Morhouse, as New York Republican leader, would figure prominently in decisions by that state's important delegation to the GOP convention on whom to support for the nomination. Dewey could be a favorite son candidate.

Harriman Attacked
In his speech Morhouse attacked New York's present governor, Averell Harriman, a Democrat and also regarded as a presidential hopeful, for his part in the "Truman Administration's decisions that led to the Korean war and the disgraceful dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur."

At a news conference in New York, N.Y., meanwhile, California Republican Gov. Goodwin J. Knight said Republicans can win in 1956 with or without President Eisenhower. But, he said, the job would be easier with Mr. Eisenhower heading the ticket.

Knight said he would file for Mr. Eisenhower in California's presidential preference primary if the President himself does not. In California, the candidate winning the primary receives the support of the state delegation to the GOP convention.

Knight said the GOP candidate should be a "moderate" similar to Mr. Eisenhower if the President himself does not make the race. He declined to comment on whether two Californians mentioned for the Republican nomination, Vice-President Richard M. Nixon and Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland, fitted the "moderate" label.

In other political developments: Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) confirmed he has been asked to enter the Nebraska state presidential primaries. But he said he "has no plans whatsoever" for doing so.
