

More Witnesses Scheduled in Trial Of Ex-Sandy Man

Oklahoma City —(U.P.)— The state will send additional witnesses to the stand today in the trial of Otto Austin Loel, charged with the January, 1954, mutilation-murder of a California woman.

The woman's husband, Cameron H. Henderson, Compton, Calif., was the first witness to testify yesterday after a jury of seven men and five women had been sworn in.

Henderson told how his 31-year-old wife, Elizabeth Jeanne Henderson, met Loel in a Compton bar and agreed to accompany him on a cross-country share the expense trip. Henderson, saying he and his wife were "very much in love," said he agreed to the trip.

To Visit Parents

Mrs. Henderson was going to visit her parents in Newark, O. Instead, her slashed body was found under a motel bed in Oklahoma City.

Loel, 44, stared downward at the defense table during the entire proceedings, his lips pressed tightly together.

One of the FBI's 10 most wanted men before his capture in Florida last January, Loel's varied career includes narcotics smuggling, desertion from the Navy, a foundry worker and police chief of Sandy, Ore.

Chessman Loses Two Attorneys

San Quentin, Calif. — (U.P.) — Two of author-convict Caryl Chessman's attorneys withdrew from his defense yesterday.

The attorneys, Berwin Rice and Jerome Duffy, announced they will notify the courts of their decision to retire from the case. They said they had been having "trouble" with their client.

Duffy sent Chessman a bill for $10,000 in legal fees.

Chessman has another attorney, Miss Rosalie Asher of Sacramento. She declined to comment on the action by Rice and Duffy.

Last Monday, Rice and Duffy won Chessman one of his biggest legal victories. They persuaded the U. S. Supreme court to order a hearing in federal district court on Chessman's demand for a new trial.

Chessman was sentenced to death for kidnap and rape in Los Angeles county seven years ago.

Civic Music Member Drive Said Going Well

Memberships for the annual concert season of Jackson County Civic Music association are still available, it was announced today. The annual campaign opened Monday and the sale of memberships has been going well, it is stated.

An unusually large number of renewal subscriptions left fewer tickets available for this week's campaign than in past years, it was stated this morning, and those who have not secured their memberships are advised to do so at once. While the membership sale is customarily open until Saturday, it is thought available seats may be sold before that day.

The board of directors has announced one attraction, the Berliner Kammerorchester, directed by Hans von Benda, in mid-November. Options have been taken on Julian Olevsky, violinist, and the Winged Victory chorus, a group of male singers, and these will be confirmed later when the board makes its final selection of artists.

Anyone wishing information on the campaign may call headquarters, 3-3050, at the chamber of commerce office.
