MISS QUININE, THE DOC'S RECEPTIONIST, IS VERY STRICT ABOUT PATIENTS' KEEPING APPOINTMENTS ON TIME...

HELD UP IN TRAFFIC, INDEED, MRS. KUMQUAT! WHERE HAVE I HEARD THAT BEFORE? WELL, NO MATTER! YOU'RE EIGHT AND A HALF MINUTES LATE, SO YOU'LL JUST HAVE TO TAKE YOUR TURN—DOCTOR'S TIME AND MINE IS VERY VALUABLE!

BUT SHE SASHAYS INTO HER HAIR-DRESSER'S A HALF-HOUR LATE AND JUST LAUGHS IT OFF...

DID I KEEP YOU WAITING, DEARIE? WELL—HA-HA—WAIT TILL I TELL YOU WHAT HAPPENED TO THE BUS DRIVER—HA-HA—BUT FIRST—WHERE'S THE TELEPHONE? I HAVE TO MAKE A COUPLE OF CALLS...

Oil Well Flames Threaten Town

Hawkins, Tex.—(U.P.)—A raging gas fire shooting flames 100 feet into the air and roaring like a "dozen tornadoes" threatened to destroy this small East Texas oil town today.

Helpless residents could only await the arrival of four veteran oil well fire fighters from Houston.

The experienced fighters probably will try to blow the well out with nitroglycerin, but there was no assurance they would succeed.

The flames shooting into the air set fire to the main business district a block away. Residents living near the well loaded their furniture in moving vans and left for neighboring towns until the danger is past.

The well blew out about 1 p.m. yesterday as a crew of the Gibson Drilling Co., of Kilgore worked to seal off the gas and make the well an oil producer again. The public school nearby was immediately evacuated, and gas was shut off in houses in the area.

The gas caught fire at 4:55 p.m., apparently from friction caused by sand and rock particles being blown out of the well. Witnesses said the rushing, rumbling noise, varying in intensity, sounded like a dozen tornadoes.
