

$2,100 Contributed In Corvallis for Applegate Family

Corvallis — (U.P.) — More than $2100 has been raised in Corvallis through contributions for the assistance of the family of James Applegate, 39-year-old Benton county seaman who was slain in a scuffle with a jail escapee.

The James Applegate Memorial fund was started when it was learned that the seaman had financial burdens due to a back injury that kept him from work for more than a year.

Contributions were being accepted by the Corvallis Gazette-Times.

Funeral services for Applegate were held Friday with scores of possemen from his own as well as other counties attending.

Authorities here said it appeared that the case against Martin Reyes, charged with the murder of Applegate, would go to a county grand jury before it is scheduled to go before district court for preliminary hearing Nov. 9.

Bandon — (U.P.) — The cranberry harvest is in full swing in the Bandon and north Curry area, according to shippers and will last for several more weeks.

The crop is estimated to be the second largest taken from the area, while the quality of berries is reportedly superior to crops of recent years.

JACKSONVILLE Mrs. Smith Back From Trip

Jacksonville—Mrs. Hannah C. Smith returned to Jacksonville last week after a month's vacation trip. After a short stop in Portland, Mrs. Smith went on to visit her former home town of Grand Island, Neb., where she formerly lived for 30 years. While there she visited her daughter and family, Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Cunningham and son, as well as old friends. Also included in her vacation trip was a visit in St. Louis, Mo., with her son Jack and his wife, the former Joyce Henspeter, Jacksonville Smith is radar man at the St. Louis weather bureau.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Rambo, Plush, Ore., were visitors last week at the Warren Hazens' home. While here Rambo underwent surgery at a local hospital.

Visitors at the Hazens' last Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. William Rast, Seattle, Rast is Mrs. Hazens' niece.

Mrs. Robert Hill, proprietor of the Jacksonville clothing store, past week purchased the store's site at the corner of Fourth and California sts. which she has been leasing. The property was purchased from Ed Pease of Morro Bay, Calif.

C. L. McKimney of Mack's Second Hand store, Jacksonville, returned last week from a two months extended pleasure trip through Canada. He visited old friends and relatives at Chilliwack, where he was formerly in business for seven years. With two companions he took a 20 day hunting trip into the northern part of British Columbia and he and both of his friends bagged a moose, a mountain goat and a bear, each, and saw many ducks, geese and grouse along the way. He also had caught a sock-eye salmon in the Fraser river and took a pack horse trip into the high Rockies. McKimney stated he traveled 3,400 miles by car while in Canada and visited two National Parks which are also game reserves, Banff and Jasper parks, and visited the Museum at Banff.

According to McKimney the whole trip was an unforgettable adventure, but he was glad to be back in southern Oregon and out of the cold, wet and disagreeable weather he experienced throughout most of the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell McIntyre are building a new three bedroom home at the corner of Fir and Fifth sts.

Mrs. Mike Bray, the former Wilma McIntyre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe McIntyre, writes from Texas this week that they have a new baby boy.

Jacksonville school news notes last week included the high school juniors sponsoring a food sale Saturday to raise funds for the spring banquet. First report cards of this school term were given out Friday. Plans for the Nov. 4 high school

Herter, Humphrey Get Ellsworth's Support If Ike Not Candidate

Two relatively little known political figures were listed by Congressman Harris Ellsworth (R-Ore.) Friday as men he would like to see as presidential candidates if President Eisenhower decides not to seek reelection next year.

Ellsworth said Secretary of Treasury George Humphrey and Massachusetts' Gov. Christian Herter both are able administrators and capable of handling the president's responsibility. He pointed out, however, that neither is well-known nationally.

No Decision Yet

Ellsworth stressed that President Eisenhower "has yet to make a decision," and if he indicates he will seek reelection, the congressman said, "that's fine." There are several possibilities for the presidency, he said, but named only Humphrey and Governor Herter.

Ellsworth spoke at a meeting of the Jackson County Young Republican club at the Medford hotel Friday noon.

The congressman said he would like to see the method of vice-presidential selection changed. The president's running mate, he pointed out, is virtually appointed under present procedure, but Ellsworth said he believes the vice-presidential candidate should be nominated by convention delegates' votes.

Cites Division

Ellsworth said, in reference to world tensions and on preventing another world war, that in the future world divisions will be between "Christianity and Communism." He pointed out that 90 per cent of the world's population has as its spiritual belief a central core of religion almost identical to that in this country.

He said their is "no common denominator" in government, economics and social aspects between nations, but there is a common denominator in religion.

Future generations, he said, will be faced with bringing world peace through the only common denominator, and that young people today will serve as an influence on future generations.

Ellsworth reviewed the last session of Congress and what might be expected in the next session. He pointed out the last session was not productive because of a Republican administration and Democratic congress.

He mentioned the minimum wage law, stating it was about the only thing accomplished in the last session. He pointed out the original bill called for a minimum wage of 90 cents, but the "opposition" agreed only on $1 minimum wage. Ellsworth said the 90-cent minimum wage was high enough to give a substantial increase.

The highway bill, he said, was not passed because the public works committee wrote the tax bill, resulting in too many loopholes. He predicted that the highway bill would be adopted in the next session.

Among other items which probably will come up at the next session, Ellsworth said, are carnival are progressing on schedule, with the selling of tickets by the four queen candidates speeding up as time draws close for the "deciding day" for which one will be reigning queen of the carnival.

This Monday immunization shots for small pox and diptheria (either booster or first shots) will be available to grade and high school students under the direction Jackson county health department.

Three AWOL GIs Recaptured After Escape from Jail

Corvallis — (U.P.) — Three soldiers, being held as AWOL from Ft. Lawton, Wash., escaped from the Linn county jail at Albany about 10 p.m. Friday, but were captured a few hours later by a Corvallis police officer.

The soldiers were arrested about 6:15 a.m. Saturday by Officer Roger C. Anderson Sr., two miles east of Corvallis in Linn county. Anderson said he fired a shot in the air to stop the escapees from fleeing across a field.

The trio were spotted by Sammy Coons, a railroad man, who knew the soldiers were on the loose because his train had been searched a short time earlier. Coons notified Anderson who had been stationed at the Willamette river bridge to watch for the escapees.

They took off after the soldiers and saw them hiking down the highway. As soon as the soldiers saw the officer they started to flee across a field, but Anderson said his shot stopped them dead.

They were identified as James Charles Taylor, 18, and his brother, David Ira Taylor, 17, of Albany and James Edwin Kelso, 18, of Missoula, Mont.

They were turned over to Linn County Sheriff George Miller.

RR Parents are Urged To Confer on Failures

Rogue River — Parents of Rogue River school children who receive a failing grade are urged by school officials to confer with teachers to determine how students may achieve better grades. John Harr, superintendent, has announced.

Grade cards were distributed to pupils last week. Harr also urged parents to check their children's citizenship grade, which is derived by each teachers'

GG Shipment Reason Told by Health Board

Portland — (U.P.) — The State Board of Health, in answer to numerous queries, Saturday told why it sent gamma globulin to polio stricken Malheur county rather than the much-publicized Salk polio vaccine.

The board said gamma globulin is a part of human blood that contains disease-fighting antibodies, which confer immunity quickly.

Gamma globulin, if given after exposure to a virus disease, may prevent the disease or modify its severity.

The board said these were the reasons for shipping gamma globulin to Malheur county, which has reported five cases of polio in the past week, and one polio fatality. However, it said Salk vaccinations should follow as soon as possible.

Yaquina Bay Hearing Slated for Nov. 29

Washington — (U.P.) — A hearing on proposals for modification of the existing Yaquina bay and harbor navigation project will be held here Nov. 29 by the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors.

Review recommendations by the North Pacific Division Engineers oppose four suggestions for deepening the bay channel on grounds the benefits would not justify the cost of the project.

The Engineers did recommend, however, extension of the existing 22-foot turning basin about 900 feet upstream at a cost of $120,000.

public housing, some type of aid for school room construction, and an attempt to balance the national budget.

Opposes Housing

Ellsworth said he is opposed to public housing on the basis that it is not fair and equitable. He pointed out that under the plan, people who cannot afford housing would purchase houses for about 10 per cent of the actual cost. Construction would be financed by taxpayers' money.

He said federal aid to schools should be in the form of assistance only, and "not to support the schools." The government should lend communities credit to construct schools.

The congressman predicted an attempt to balance the budget and a reduction of taxes. He stressed the point that such an attempt should be made only if it does not "hurt the budget situation."

Power Discussed

In referring to public power, Ellsworth said any group of citizens or corporations may apply to the power commission for a license to construct a dam and sell power. He said "the government should not be in business" if it is not absolutely necessary.

The purpose of government, he said, is to keep order and to do "collectively what can not be done as individuals." He said if private corporations are able to furnish hydroelectric power, then corporations should do so.

Crater High FFA Members Report On Midwest Trip

Three Central Point members of the Future Farmers of America returned recently from a national FFA convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Donn Johnson, state FFA president and former member of the Crater High school chapter, Norman Barnes, president of the Crater FFA chapter, and Paul Lofland, secretary of the chapter, were accompanied on the trip by Leonard Kunzman, adviser.

Dan Danham, Lakeview, 1954 state FFA president, was elected to the national FFA presidency at the convention.

The Central Point group traveled to Kansas City by train from Portland. During their stay there they attended FFA meetings, an FFA amateur hour, a public speaking contest, and an entertainment program presented by the Firestone company.

On tours, they visited the Armour meat packing plant and stock yards; a Ford car manufacturing company, and the plant of the Butler manufacturing company. The group also drove through farmland north of Kansas City and visited the Truman home at Independence.

In Omaha, the boys visited the offices of the Strategic Air Command, the Union Pacific shops, and Boy's Town. Traveling west, they visited the Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake and took sight seeing buses to the world's largest open pit copper mine at Bingham City, Utah.

U.S. National Plans North Bend Branch

Portland — (U.P.) — E. C. Sammons, president of the United States National Bank of Portland, announced Saturday that the institution had filed an application for a branch bank at North Bend. He said the application was on file with the federal comptroller of currency.

Sammons said U.S. National's application for its own branch was filed after Reidar Bugge, president of Coos Bay National Bank, refused to accept the purchase offer of the Portland bank.
