

Knowland Suggests President Announce Political Plan Soon

Washington—(U.P.)—Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland suggested today that President Eisenhower should decide against seeking reelection because of his heart attack. Knowland believes that the GOP should be given plenty of time to look over available candidates before the San Francisco convention next August.

The California senator, who is regarded as a possible contender if Mr. Eisenhower bows out, still declined to discuss whether he might seek the nomination.

"Until the President gets out of the hospital and discloses his plans," he told reporters, "I consider any discussion of individual candidacies premature."

Presidential Primaries Loom

Knowland did make clear that he thinks any retirement announcement from Mr. Eisenhower should come by late fall or early winter. The deadlines for candidates to enter presidential primaries in some of the states come early in February.

If Mr. Eisenhower should withdraw, Knowland's home state may provide much pulling and hauling because it is also the home of Vice-President Richard M. Nixon, another possible contender. Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and Chief Justice Earl Warren.

On the other side of the political fence, Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) told reporters today that Republicans "ought to be indicted for murder in the first degree" if they "force" Mr. Eisenhower to seek a second term. Douglas also showed no enthusiasm for the line being taken by some Southern Democrats who are calling for a "middle-of-the-road" platform and presidential candidate in 1956.

"If the Democratic Party ever becomes a conservative party," he said, "the voters will vote Republican overwhelmingly because they will prefer the real thing to a sham article."

Pennsylvania Governor Speaks

Another Democrat, Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania, predicted that his state's delegation to the Democratic national convention next August will be almost solid for Adlai E. Stevenson.

Leader said he has taken "no formal position" regarding any candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. But he declared that he believes Stevenson is "the right man in the right place." Stevenson has not said yet whether he is a candidate for the nomination.

At Duluth, Minn., Sunday, he refused to give a flat "yes" or "no" to a resolution urging him to enter the Minnesota presidential primary next March 20. The resolution was adopted unanimously by the state committee of the Minnesota Democratic Party.

Stevenson said that he plans to make known his intentions in Chicago.

Wheat Growers Rap Flexible Supports At Pendleton Hearing

Pendleton, Ore. — (U.P.) — Pacific Northwest wheat growers today attacked the administration's flexible farm price support plan and urged, instead, a two-price plan for wheat.

Spokesmen for Oregon and Washington growers told the Senate Agriculture committee at a hearing on farm supports here their plan would offer 100 per cent of "fair income" parity props for the portion of the crop — about half — used domestically as human food.

The rest of the crop would move into animal feed or export markets for whatever it would bring. The National Grange has endorsed this type of support for wheat, cotton and rice, three of the nation's major export crops.

Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), of the Senate committee, said, in a statement that neither flexible nor rigid supports would in themselves, solve the problem of sagging farm income.

Ellender, whose committee today launched the second week of its nationwide tour to gather grass roots before writing a new farm bill, said farmer witnesses heard so far had offered "many conflicting views."

"Selling flexible supports to wheat producers will be difficult, for we see it forcing down the price on all wheat produced," said Jack L. Smith, a Gilliam county, Ore., farmer in testimony prepared for the committee.

Benson Plan Criticized

Smith appeared in behalf of the State Wheat Growers league. Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson set 1955 wheat supports at 82.5 per cent of parity and cut them to 76 per cent for 1956.

The national wheat surplus now totals more than 1,000,000 bushels. Most of this is in government hands under the support program and Benson blames the surplus largely on the old, Democratic program of rigid supports. Benson's theory is that lower supports will lead the farmers to reduce production.

"I, as a farmer, know this is not the case," Smith said. He argued that commercial wheat growers who have practically no productive alternative crops will not voluntarily cut production when prices are cut.

If anything, Smith said, farmers will increase production to maintain their total income.

Ship Stuck in Mud In Capetown Harbor

Capetown — (U.P.) — Port authorities estimated today it would take "a couple of days" before the stranded American passenger-cargo ship William Lykes would be free from the harbor mud in which it is stuck.

The ship was being lightened by moving the cargo to lighters, but only one lighter was available at present. Port authorities said the ship was in no danger unless it is hit by northerly winds.

Rains Taper Off Over New England

By UNITED PRESS

Rains tapered off over sodden New England today, ending the threat of more disastrous floods.

Downpours last night and early today sent small streams over their banks in upstate New York. Rivers and streams rose rapidly in Connecticut, hardest hit by the recent New England floods.

But forecasters said early today that the rains had let up and the danger of serious flooding was over.

Elsewhere in the nation, wintry weather stretched across the northern Midwest and a new Pacific cold front threatened to rout mild weather in the Southwest.

Chicago had its first snow of the season and there was five inches of snow on the ground at Grantsburg, Wis.

Reds Not Planning Attack on Macao

Taipei — (U.P.) — The Chinese Communists do not intend to launch any "immediate" military attack against the Portuguese colony of Macao, a Nationalist Chinese source predicted today.

He pointed out that the Communists currently support, at least in their propaganda outlets, the "Geneva spirit," and "relaxation of world tension."

After being planted they should be placed in a light room where the temperature will be between 50 and 70. Placing them near an upstairs window is generally a very good spot and by spring the plants will be not only large enough to set out, but they will probably be already blooming.

Temperature conditions must be watched rather carefully. If the sand and peat moss are kept too wet the cuttings may rot, but enough moisture must be present to keep the leaves from wilting.

Take several cuttings from each of the different types of geraniums so that if a few of them fail to root you will have a better chance to have some of each variety survive the winter.

It has been reported that if entire plants are dug up, the roots washed off and hung up in a cool basement or attic where it doesn't freeze, they will keep until the next spring. I haven't seen this method tried locally, but it would be a very simple way if it would work.

Special steps must be taken to preserve geraniums, as they will be completely killed out in our winters. There are several means of doing this, but probably the easiest way is to root cuttings. A cutting is merely a piece of stem 4 to 6 inches long.

The stem should be cut with a sharp knife just below a joint on the lower end and above a joint at the top. The lower leaves are stripped off, but the leaves at the top should be left on to provide food for the cutting while it is producing new roots.

These cuttings should be planted in a mixture of sand and peat moss. Two-thirds sand and one-third peat moss make a good mixture. The cutting should be planted so that only the top joint and the leaves stick out. The use of a little rooting hormone would be beneficial.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Sackett Plans to Publish Tabloid Paper at Portland

Portland — (U.P.) — Sheldon F. Sackett, newspaper publisher and radio station operator, has announced he will begin publishing a daily tabloid newspaper in Portland next March 15.

Sackett said the new paper will be called "The World," and will publish morning and evening editions. It will be "unquestionably" Democratic in its editorial policy, he added.

According to present plans, Sackett will merge the paper with Radio Station KVAN at Vancouver, Wash., and with a television station which he has permission from the federal government to build at Vancouver.

Presses for the newspaper have been bought from the Seattle Times. Last Friday, Sackett said he placed an order for 25 linotype machines.

Sackett will own 51 per cent of the paper's stock while "friends" will own 24½ per cent. The rest will be owned by men working with Sackett in the new enterprise.

Sackett is also publisher of

Gloria Vanderbilt Gets Mexican Divorce

New York — (U.P.) — Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski promised to answer questions today about her secret Mexican divorce from conductor Leopold Stokowski and her reported romance with croon Frank Sinatra.

The beautiful 31-year-old heiress said she would give her answers through her attorney, Arnold Krakower. She refused yesterday, on her return by plane from Mexico, to admit she had obtained a divorce but was more voluble about Sinatra.

"No, we are not going to marry," she told reporters at New York International Airport. "Frank and I are very, very good friends. But I haven't seen him since April."

Mrs. Stokowski obtained a quickie divorce from the 74-year-old, silver haired Stokowski in Juarez, Mexico, last Saturday after 10 years of marriage and two children, Stanislaw, 5, and Christopher 3. Stokowski was in Houston, Tex., on a conducting chore at the time.

Jury Due to Get Axilrod Murder Case

Minneapolis, Minn. — (U.P.) — A jury was expected to start deliberating today whether Dr. A. Arnold Axilrod seduced a pretty dental patient and strangled her when she threatened to expose him as the father of her unborn baby.

Defense attorneys in the sensational murder trial planned to ask for a directed verdict of acquittal when the court opened. But District Judge Lester Anderson has already turned down a similar plea.

If Anderson made the same decision, the opposing lawyers were scheduled to go into their final arguments immediately. Judge Anderson's final instructions to the jury were to follow.
