Red Blanket Co. Manager Testifies At NLRB Hearing

Willard C. Matson, Ashland, manager of the Red Blanket Lumber company of Eagle Point, was testifying before an examiner for the National Labor Relations board as hearings on unfair labor practices continued today in the federal court room in the post office building.

Charges of unfair labor practices were filed by Local International Woodworkers of America, CIO, against the Red Blanket Lumber company of Eagle Point and Prospect. Hearings started here last week.

The charges also were filed against the Pine Industrial Relations committee of Klamath Falls and four Central Oregon firms.

The charges arose out of a strike at Red Blanket during June, 1954, and involve complaints that the company refused to reinstate employees to their former or equivalent jobs when the strike ended in October, 1954. The complaint also charges that the employer, in refusing to give certain data concerning payrolls and production to the Union, violated the National Labor Relations act.

The Pine Industrial Relations committee of Klamath Falls represents lumber firms in labor negotiations. Martin S. Bennett, San Francisco, is NLRB hearing examiner.

Prowler Questioned In Woodward Slaying

New York — (U.P.) — Police arrested today a suspected prowler who they believe may indirectly have caused beautiful socialite Mrs. William Woodward Jr., to kill her millionaire husband in a mistaken identity slaying.

The suspect, Paul Wirth, 22, a homeless German refugee, was picked up outside a Huntington, Long Island, diner in possession of a stolen automobile. He admitted he had broken into a number of places in the exclusive North Shore Long Island area where the Woodwards maintained a 30-acre estate, Nassau County police said.

Police were especially interested to learn if he was in the area at 2 a.m. Sunday when Mrs. Woodward, awakened from her sleep by what she thought was a prowler, went to her bedroom door and fired a shotgun blast that killed her 35-year-old husband.

Union County Escapee Captured; One Sought

La Grande — (U.P.) — One of two accused car thieves who saved out of the Union county jail Sunday morning was back in custody today. The other escapee was still at large.

Sheriff Jess Breshnar said 43-year-old John Homer was arrested at a downtown cab stand yesterday, still carrying the hacksaw blade used to cut through the bars and heavy metal screen covering the cell window.

Still sought by county and state police was 39-year-old James Jennings.

The spokesman said an Egyptian military force penetrated Israeli territory in the Nirim sector Monday and opened machinegun fire on Israeli positions from an Egyptian post. He said an Israeli force put the Egyptians to flight without suffering casualties.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Israel had complained to the Israeli-Egyptian Mixed Armistice Commission about the Nirim attacks.

Public hearings on annexation of California Pacific Utilities property on Groveland ave. and on two lots on Murray ave. at Columbus ave., will be held at a meeting of the Medford city council at 7:30 p.m. today.

The lots on Murray ave. are owned by Benton Smith and Odell Larson. The hearing of California Pacific Utilities property was continued from last meeting because legal papers were not complete.

Also on the agenda tonight are ordinances adopting plans and specifications for sewer construction on South Ivy st., from Holmes ave. to Garfield st., calling for a hearing on water main installation in the Laurelhurst addition, granting California Oregon Power company an easement for a power line through Roxy Ann park, and an emergency fund appropriation for installation of a traffic light at the intersection of Stewart and South Riverside aves.

Judge Says SP Can't Be Told To Run Train

Salem — (U.P.) — Circuit Judge Val Sloper ruled yesterday that the state public utilities commissioner does not have authority to force Southern Pacific railway to resume passenger service to Ashland without first holding public hearings.

Judge Sloper made a similar decision regarding Portland Traction Company service to suburban points. This decision has been appealed to the State Supreme Court and yesterday's ruling also may be appealed.

Public Utilities Commissioner Charles Heltzel had sought to force SP to continue the passenger run to southern Oregon.

Public hearings are being held on the traction company dispute and hearings are expected to be announced soon in the SP case, with part of the latter expected to be held in southern Oregon.

New Government Challenged by Walkout Threat

Peron Stripped of Military Rank, Honor

Buenos Aires, Argentina — (U.P.) — Discharged Peronista labor leaders called a general strike for midnight tonight in open challenge to the new government which heaped further disgrace on their fallen idol by stripping ousted President Juan D. Peron of his military rank and honors.

The nationwide walkout was called by officials of the General Confederation of Labor who accused the government of President Eduardo Lonardi of reneging on its promises. The OGT, which claims a membership of 6,000,000, was a mainstay of deposed dictator Peron's power and offered during the last days of his regime to mobilize a civil militia for his defense.

It was the second time in three days that the OGT challenged the government. The Lonardi government met the first defiance by dismissing the officials of the 2,400 member unions and ordering election of new union officers within 60 months.

Threatened Strike Friday

The OGT Friday threatened a general strike in an effort to regain control of unions taken over by anti-Peronist leaders.

The government crackdown spiked—at least for the moment—the threatened walkout. But the newspaper El Lider, only Peronista organ remaining in Argentina, warned then that it may lead to "civil war."

A OGT announcement Monday night said that union secretaries had agreed to call a strike of indefinite duration because it was charged "no government official fulfilled his word or respected any agreement" with the organization.

An executive decree stripped Peron of his general's rank for conduct unbecoming an officer in his public and private life.

Peron was roundly criticized for his relations with his teenage mistress, 16-year-old Nelly Rivas, in a report by a military court of honor which examined Peron's conduct as an officer.

The court made up of five generals, found Peron guilty of misconduct, and recommended he be prohibited from wearing an Argentine army uniform.

In its 136-page report, the court charged Peron with sowing hatred in Argentina and inciting violence and murder. It said the former dictator attacked the Catholic faith and encouraged the burning of churches. Other charges included disloyalty to the army and constitution.

Two Rehabilitation Job Bids Received

Two bids were received by the Bureau of Reclamation here today for rehabilitation work on Medford and Rogue River Valley Irrigation districts.

Copenhagen and company of Portland submitted a bid of $132,642.52 on earthwork, pipe lines and structures and main canal structures for the project, located east of Medford.

Lord Brothers Contractors of Portland submitted two bids. One was $147,231 and the alternate bid of $147,607. The alternate bid is for a different type pipe. Copenhagen's bid was for the alternate type pipe.

Engineer's estimates for the project, and the alternate plan, were $99,233 and $103,656, respectively.

The project calls for construction of a reinforced-concrete bench flume, construction of two concrete pipe siphons, and modification of other concrete structures.

Bids will be forwarded to the Denver, Colo., office of the bureau of reclamation.

Klamath Man Lost In Aspen Lake Area

Klamath Falls — (U.P.) — Searchers were combing the Aspen Lake area 15 miles west of here today for William Proctice, 67, of Klamath Falls, who has been missing since about 3 p.m. yesterday.

Friends said Proctice had gone into the area to gather firewood. He returned with one load to his home and then departed for more and failed to return.

State police entered the search today and the Klamath Air Search and Rescue Unit planned to fly over the area, weather permitting.

Denver — (U.P.) — The Denver White House has announced that President Carlos Castillo Armas of Guatemala will visit President Eisenhower here at Fitzsimons Army hospital Nov. 9.

Salem — (U.P.) — Gov. Paul Peterson has appointed Joe Alton of Drewsey as a member of the Harney County Public Welfare Commission.

SUCCESS OF BIG FOUR APPEARS TO HINGE ON RUSSIAN PROPOSALS

Geneva — (U.P.) — Success of failure of the Big Four conference of foreign ministers appeared today to hinge on new proposals for the reunification of Germany promised Wednesday by the Soviets' Vyacheslav M. Molotov.

The conference was in recess today while Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flew to Madrid for lunch with Generalissimo Francisco Franco and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay returned to Paris for consultations with his government.

Israeli Premier Moshe Sharett left today for Israel after pleading dramatically with Molotov "with all the strength in his power" to stop the flow of Communist arms to Israel's Arab enemies. The Middle Eastern crisis has largely overshadowed other issues at Geneva.

The Big Four conference appeared thoroughly deadlocked at the moment.

These were the major developments in the conference at Monday's tumultuous session during which Dulles as chairman was forced repeatedly to rap for order:

1. Molotov promised to present further Soviet proposals for the reunification of Germany on Wednesday. All his other proposals appeared to have been based on continued division of Germany.

2. The United States, leading the way in a drive to break down Iron Curtain barriers, announced it was lifting passport restrictions on American travel to Iron Curtain countries in Europe.

3. The Soviets came up with a new European security pact calling for a narrower treaty based on the indefinite partition of Germany. This called for a security pact among 15 nations including the United States; the West said it would study the proposal but would never consent to the permanent division of Germany.

4. The Soviets proposed and the West immediately rejected that the heads of the East and West German governments be invited to sit down at the Geneva conference table.

5. Sharett pleaded with Molotov to use all the strength in his power to stop the flow of Communist arms to Egypt. Molotov promised nothing.

6. The Big Three, meeting earlier on the Middle East crisis, agreed to furnish limited supplies of defensive weapons to Israel but turned down Israel's pleas for new security guarantees.

Germany Key Question

It was obvious the conference was approaching a showdown over the key question of reunifying Germany and establishing a European security treaty.

Thus far all Soviet proposals would do away with NATO and the Western European Union—key to the Western defense plan. This the West refuses to do.

Soviet minimum requirements on ending the arms race in the Middle East also appeared to be based on an unacceptable condition — dissolution of the West's Baghdad Pact linking Britain, Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Pakistan in a defense belt running across the Soviet's southern borders.

UMC Contributions Reach 80 Per Cent

Contributions to the United Medford Crusade have climbed to 80 per cent of the $109,000 goal, it was reported at a weekly division leaders' luncheon yesterday.

Collections during the week brought the total to $84,558.70, compared to $75,000 at the same point in the campaign last year.

For the fourth straight week the Lion Hearted division, composed of public employees with Elliott Becken as chairman, was high, with 93 per cent of its $7,500 goal collected. The Lancelet division, with Ray Johnson as chairman, was low with 78 per cent of an $8,816 goal.

M. M. Huggins, over-all campaign chairman, yesterday announced a contest between the three low-ranking divisions, Lancelet, Vallant and King Arthur. If any of the three goes over its goal before the next meeting, the division leader will be flown to Berkeley for the Oregon State college-University of California game Nov. 12. The trip will be paid for by Huggins personally, he said.

Electric Potential Studied in Alaska

Fairbanks, Alaska — (U.P.) — Preliminary water gauging studies have been started along the Yukon river by the U. S. Reclamation Bureau so that hydroelectric potentials in the interior will be better known.

Wilbur A. Dexeimer, U. S. commissioner of reclamation, recently made an aerial inspection tour of the region and reported a great amount of electricity could be produced at Rampart, 100 miles northwest of here.

But, he explained, there is no market for this power; hence, no immediate need for a dam.

Dexeimer said power generated at Rampart, which lies downstream from Fort Yukon, could be transmitted to Sevard and other coastal points. He said modern methods of transmitting power developed in the Scandinavian countries made it possible to send electrical energy to points 500 miles from the generating sites.

He also praised the Devil's canyon project on the Susitna river as the "most logical source of cheap electrical energy for the railbelt region of Alaska."

The Susitna lies near the Alaska Railroad route.

Dale Carnegie, Teacher-Author, Dies in New York

New York — (U.P.) — Dale Carnegie, 66, teacher and author of the best seller "How to Win Friends and Influence People," died today at his home here after a month's illness.

A public speaking instructor, Carnegie published his famous book in 1936 and almost immediately it became a best-seller. Subsequently, he established classes, in public relations in major U.S. cities, using Carnegie-trained men as instructors.

The son of a farmer, Carnegie was born in 1888 in Maryville, Mo. Later the family moved to Warrensburg, Mo., where Carnegie graduated from State Teachers College.

He began his career as a public speaking teacher in 1912 when he was 24, launching classes in a New York City YMCA. He charged each pupil a nominal fee but in two years the classes became so popular that Carnegie was earning $500 a week.

After his book appeared his lecture tours attracted large crowds at cities throughout the nation.

Lowell Thomas' Manager

In 1916, news commentator Lowell Thomas, then an English instructor at Princeton University, conferred with Carnegie about a speech Thomas was to deliver before the Smithsonian Institution. The acquaintance grew and Carnegie later became Thomas' business manager.

When his book, "How to Win Friends and Influence People," appeared in November, 1936, it went into 17 editions within a few months and has been a constant seller since.

Carnegie was divorced from his first wife in 1931 after 10 years of marriage. He married again Nov. 5, 1944, to Mrs. Henry Price of Tulsa, Okla.

Mistrial Declared In Sherry Fong Case

Portland — (U.P.) — A mistrial was declared today in the retrial of Sherry Fong on a first degree murder charge in connection with the 1954 death of 16-year-old Diane Hank.

Circuit Judge Alfred P. Dobson dismissed the jury that was to hear the retrial. No new date was set. The jury had been sworn in last week but was sent home until today because of another case Judge Dobson had to hear.

In a statement to the jury, the judge said: "Counsel for the state and for the defendant, in their efforts to procure a jury composed of 12 men and women who were not burdened with any previously formed opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant, Sherry Fong . . . made reference to matters which, whether so intended or not, were designed to engender prejudice in the minds of some if not all members of this jury."
