

Church Women To Contribute Peace Parcels

Church women of the city will contribute "parcels for peace" again this year as a part of the observance of World Community day. The program, sponsored by Medford Council of Church Women, will be held at St. Mark's Episcopal church Friday, November 4, beginning at 10 a.m. with Mrs. J. Claude Sparks, council president, presiding.

Women are asked to take their parcels to the church and this year's contributions are to be clothing for refugees. It is stated that clothing for men and boys is especially needed this year, and that there is a continuing need for children's clothing.

Election of officers will take place during the morning session, and at noon and the host church will serve a hot beverage to go with the box lunches which each woman attending has been asked to take.

At 1 p.m. Mrs. J. Thomas Dixon will install the new officers, with Mrs. Grover C. Corum giving devotions. A program on "Give us this Day our Daily Bread" will be presented by Mrs. Wilbur Arnold, with Mrs. Ernest Conrad at the organ. Mrs. Lyle Schoppert will sing.

Teachers Made Recommendation On Salary Scale

A minimum salary of not less than $3700 for beginning teachers with a bachelors degree for the school year 1956-57 was called for in a resolution unanimously adopted by delegates to the ninth annual fall conference of the Oregon Education association Department of Classroom Teachers. The conference was held in Portland last Friday and Saturday, October 28 and 29.

Another portion of this resolution placed the group on record as favoring that salary schedules enable teachers to double their beginning salary within a period of fifteen years. The resolution explained that such action is necessary to assist teachers in attaining community status somewhat commensurate with services provided.

Mrs. Maxine Smith, Medford, is president of the classroom teachers, and conducted the conference. Other Jackson county teachers who attended were John Stewart, Phoenix; Mrs. Helen Bekker, Eagle Point; Lawrence Rehfield and Giles Green, Ashland; Mrs. Georgiana Beier, Ronald Quackenbush and Miss Anna Laura Monts, Medford; Max Killingsworth and Robert Todd, Ashland.

The Department of Classroom Teachers has approximately 525,000 members nationally and 11,000 in Oregon. It is a department of the National Education association and the Oregon Education association, national and state affiliated teachers' professional organizations.

Featured speaker at the Friday evening program at the Lincoln High school auditorium was State Senator Mark O. Hatfield who spoke on "The Role of Classroom Teacher as a Key to Successful Education."

Miss Margaret Perry of Monmouth told of her experiences as the 1955 McCall's magazine national "teacher of the year" in a Saturday luncheon talk to the group at the Heathman Hotel. Also appearing at a Saturday general session was Miss Martha Shull, Portland, NEA vice-president, who spoke on the "White House Conference."

Miss Elizabeth Yank, national president of the Department of Classroom Teachers, gave the major address at the informal conference banquet at the Multnomah Hotel on Saturday night. Her topic was "Our Public Schools Are Our Democratic Heritage."

Altrusa Club Announces Second Grant

Medford Altrusa club has announced that for the second time the club will offer a $250 vocational grant to some older woman of Jackson county who finds she must re-enter the employment field and needs re-training to do so.

Mrs. Maude Coddling, president announced that the local club reached this decision at a recent meeting held October 27 at the home of Mrs. Walter Young, after considering the success of the same project carried on by the club for the first time last year. With the grant offered in 1954-55, the club was able to retrain one woman for teaching and provide a business refresher course to another.

In addition to the grant from local funds, Mrs. Coddling added that another woman applicant recommended by the club, Mrs. Lena Castle of Ashland, is now studying at Oregon Technical Institute, Klamath Falls, to complete a course in practical nursing under a National Altrusa grant given by the founders' fund, also supported by the local club.

Any women who finds she must earn her living after several years absence from the business and professional world may need training and new skills to overcome the age barriers to employment found in the labor market, the club points out. She may not have sufficient funds to pay for this training just when she needs it most. This woman might be eligible for the Altrusa vocational training grant and is urged by the club members to enter an application either with Mrs. Coddling, president, 1015 Queen avenue or Mrs. Fred Rankin, 18 Richmond avenue, telephone 2-8448. Mrs. Rankin is vocational chairman.

Applications will be considered confidential and should be complete before December 1 when they will be acted upon by a committee of executive and professional women chosen from the Altrusa membership.

At the same meeting, Altrusa accepted the budget submitted by Mrs. Frances Grant, finance chairman and treasurer, which provided for contributions to the national founders' fund and the grants-in-aid project which is now offering scholarships to Asiatic women studying in the United States as well as to Latin American students.

Mrs. Virginia Sherwood, public chairman, arranged the program given the guest speaker, Mrs. Dunbar Carpenter, former president of the Southern Oregon Child Guidance Clinic association. Mrs. Carpenter reviewed the accomplishments of the clinic, plans for its future development and also explained its purpose.

Hostesses for the evening were Miss Myra Otterdale and Mrs. Coddling.
