

Judge Keating Married To Californian Yesterday

Mrs. Frances Matthews Dinwiddie, Berkeley, Calif., and County Judge Rodney Keating of Ashland were married yesterday, November 2, in the bride's home. The ceremony was read at three o'clock by Dr. Stanley E. Hunter, former pastor of St. John's Presbyterian church in Berkeley, with only members of the families attending.

The bride wore an ash of roses lace over taffeta gown, with a matching bandeau of velvet and short veil. Her corsage was of orchids.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel H. Matthews, in San Francisco. Judge Keating and his bride made their wedding trip to Southern California and will be at home after November 20 at the Keating home in Valleyview, near Ashland.

Attending the ceremony and reception were the bride's mother, Mrs. Putnam Matthews, Berkeley, her son, John P. Dinwiddie, who attends school at Verde Valley, Ariz., and daughter, Mrs. George P. Linthicum, Berkeley, and Judge Keating's three children, Timothy, Mari- anne and Lucy.

Judge Keating, a well known Jackson county orchardist, served as a lieutenant-commander in the United States Navy during World War II and holds the rank of commander in the USNR. He recently relinquished command of the Naval reserve electronics unit 13-5.

Judge Keating and his bride were high school classmates.

Teenagers Take Over Telephones

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Correspondent
New York (U.P.)—Two fathers discussed the telephone customs of teenage daughters recently.

Does yours do her homework on the telephone? one father asked.

"Homework!" snorted the second father. "Mine plays the viola. She and some friend both started in the school orchestra this fall. They keep in touch with each other's practicing over the telephone."

Father No. 1 could even top that story. This conversation really did take place, and a check of a few other fathers by an eavesdropper to the first conversation showed the two men were not exaggerating.

The topper was an exasperated description of record playing, teenage telephone style. Seems this father's neighborhood is the scene of frequent telephone calls to let friends hear the latest jazz record in some teenager's collection.

"Lately they've started playing a record several times in one phone call and singing along with it," he said.

Teenagers, especially girls, are taking over family telephones for their timeless, tireless conversations in such numbers that even the telephone company has become aware of it. We now have 55,000,000 telephones in the U.S., or about one for every three people. That is twice as many as we had 10 years ago, but if one of those three people happens to be a teenage girl, the other two may find themselves unable to get through to the outside world.

"We know that many families are installing a telephone for their children," a telephone company representative said. "Now that there is plenty of equipment available, we're really going to start pushing the idea."

Annual Art Exhibit to Open Tonight at Medford Hotel

The public is cordially invited to attend the opening of the annual art exhibit sponsored by Medford branch, American association of University Women, tonight at the Medford hotel from 7 until 9 p.m. The exhibit will continue through Friday, November 4, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and is to be in the hotel basement, recently redecorated by the management for the use of group for large public events.

AAUW annually holds the exhibit in observance of National Art week.

According to Mrs. R. H. Denning, manager of the exhibit, the reception for exhibiting artists will begin promptly at seven o'clock with AAUW president, Mrs. Emerson Anderson, and officers of the board in the receiving line.

Artists attending will be given colorful miniature palettes made by the committee for guest name plates in order that the visiting public may recognize the artists and become better acquainted with the growing art group in this valley. Many of the artists are of professional stature while others are painting as a recreational outlet and for personal pleasure only.

The general public is asked to vote on the pictures they like best in two divisions, students and adults, as a courtesy to the committee and an inspiration to the artists. No monetary awards will be given but the winning pictures will be publicly displayed next week in a window of the Art Center through the courtesy of John Ahern, who has been very helpful to the committee in every way.

Last evening R. H. Denning, Emerson Anderson, Paul McDuffee, Sam Taylor, A. J. Johannson and John Warnke, husbands of AAUW art committee members, volunteered their time to put up the staging which turned the hotel basement into a real art gallery, giving ample room for the hanging of pictures. Plywood for this staging was donated by Medford Plywood and Veneer company and other lumber by both Ross and Elk Lumber companies. The use of the hotel and its facilities is given yearly to this community service project by the Medford Hotel management. Harry Watson, manager is an art enthusiast and occasionally exhibits his work.

Hal Bishop, president of Southern Oregon Society of Artists, has announced that the group will attend the exhibit in a body, meeting at seven o'clock this evening for the AAUW reception, following which they will hold a dinner meeting at 7:30 in the hotel's Rogue Room in celebration of National Art Week. As a gesture of appreciation of the SOSA for the interest in art shown by the university women of southern Oregon, members of the committee handling the art exhibit have been asked to attend the dinner as special guests.

Boston Woman Finds International League

Boston (U.P.)—Miss Edna MacDonough has made pen pals of 1,200,000 persons scattered the world over.

She is founder and executive secretary of the International Friendship League, a non-profit, non-sectarian organization which promotes pen-friendships between Young Americans and boys and girls in 93 foreign countries.

Convinced that pen friendships formed by today's youth will insure healthier relationships in world affairs when young folk become the leaders of tomorrow, Miss MacDonough started the organization 17 years ago.

Miss MacDonough had to struggle for the league's survival during the first 10 years. She still works 12 to 13 hours a day, but the financial support of the league is much stronger now thanks to grants from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Endowment Fund.

Each year the league sponsors a European tour for a group of teenage girls who stay in the homes of league members.
