Father of Injured Youngster Expresses Gratitude for Aid

BY ALLEN REED
Mail Tribune Staff Writer
"I wish I could remember the names of all the people that have helped us since we've been in Medford so I could thank all of them," Joe Haynes said Friday. Haynes is the father of 11-year-old Joe Willis Haynes who was seriously injured when struck by a car on Highway 99 near the Gold Hill overpass, Oct. 19.

Willie was helping push the Haynes car which had stalled, when he was struck by another vehicle. He suffered head injuries and underwent surgery at Sacred Heart hospital. He was unconscious for nearly a week. People "Very Nice"
"The people here have been very good to us," Haynes said. "There was a little trouble at first but after people saw our condition they were very nice." The Haynes family had some difficulty finding a place to stay in Medford after Willie was injured. They are Negroes. Haynes, who is employed now at the YMCA, said that he wished he could thank all of the people that have helped them since they have been in Medford and especially the nurses and doctors at the hospitals who have helped care for Willie. "Willie is doing fine," Haynes said. "He gets up now and moves around. His eyesight's going to be all right. He gets dizzy when he stays up too long, and has to go back to bed, but he's going to be all right."

Churches, Clubs Helped
Haynes said he would like to thank the Crater Lions club, First Baptist Church, Methodist Church, and the Seventh-day Adventist Church for the help they have given.

"So many people have helped us I can't remember all of their names," Haynes said. "but I'd like to thank those I do know." They were Russell Haysell, Courtesy Chevrolet; Mrs. Henry Padgham, 2707 Springbrook rd.; and Mrs. H. J. Devaney, 1012 East Jackson st.

Haynes said he would also like to thank the woman who owns the house where they are staying. The Haynes family was on its way to Corcoran, Calif. when Willie was hurt. They had come from Independence, Ore., where they had worked in the bean harvest. They will go on to Corcoran as soon as the boy is well enough to travel, Haynes said, where they will work in the cotton harvest. The Haynes family has lived in Corcoran since 1951. "Good People"

"There's good people wherever you go," Haynes said. "Some times a couple of bad ones make it bad for everyone. People get to talking about what the bad one says or does and pretty soon it seems worse than it was. There's bad people and good people in any race."

Haynes said in their search for a place to live they went to a place beyond Four Corners where a woman had a house she was willing to rent but couldn't because it had furniture stored in it. The woman called an auto court where there were two vacancies. Haynes said, but the man in charge told her he couldn't rent the cabins to Negroes because his boss wouldn't like it.

The woman then called radio station KBOY which broadcast a story of the family's plight. It was through the broadcast that they obtained a house to live in and many offers of help from individuals.

YOUNGSTER RECOVERING — Joe Willie Haynes, 11, who was critically injured in an automobile accident last month, is doing nicely at Sacred Heart hospital, where he underwent brain surgery shortly after the accident, and lay unconscious for almost a week. His brush with death attracted much sympathetic attention in Medford, and he and his family have been the recipients of considerable help from kind-hearted Medfordites. Some of the gifts the youngster has received are shown in his lap in the picture above, taken as he was being wheeled down a hospital corridor by Nurse's Aide Mrs. Marian Ruth Fletcher, 2495 West Main st.—(Brainerd photo)

Dulles Leaves Geneva For Conference With Tito in Yugoslavia

Geneva, Switzerland—(U.P.)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flew to Vienna Saturday en route to confer with Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia on defense of the strategic Mediterranean area.

The other Big Four ministers also were taking advantage of a three-day recess in the deadlocked conferences to mend some political and diplomatic fences. Molotov to Moscow

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov flew back to Moscow, apparently seeking new instructions from the Kremlin. There were hints that he may come up with a new Soviet proposal on Germany when the conference resumes Tuesday.

British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan returned to London and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay flew back to Paris for week end consultations with his government.

The ministers took a three-day "holiday" after the West put the Soviet Union "on the spot" by proposing that free and secret all-German elections be held next year. It was a Western attempt to smoke out the Soviet position on German unity. The proposal received a cold reception from Molotov.

Dulles and his party flew in the private plane of Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Dulles planned to attend the gala reopening of the Vienna State Opera tonight.

Today, Dulles will fly on to meet Tito at Brioni, an island resort on the Adriatic Coast of

UMC Home Crusade Nears Completion

Women volunteer workers in the Home Crusade division of the United Medford Crusade will wind up their efforts today, and tomorrow evening.

Under the direction of Mrs. E. A. Littrell and Mrs. Scott Davis, the volunteers are calling at Medford residences to accept donations to the Crusade. They hope that in families which have already given a major donation at the husband's place of work, the woman of the house will also participate, even if only in a small way.

Main objective of the home division is to give those who have not given elsewhere an opportunity to make a gift to the crusade.

Monday between 7 and 8 p.m. the workers will conduct their "porchlight" drive, when they will call on homes which signify a desire to give by leaving on the porch light.

'Cloud-Seeding' Operation Set for Toketee Watershed

North American Weather Consultants of Oregon, a firm engaged in weather modification activities, will again conduct a "cloud-seeding" operation for the California Oregon Power company this winter.

In a notice of intention prepared for publication as required by state law, the firm, with headquarters in Goleta, Calif., stated it will use silver iodide ground generators to increase the snowpack in the watershed area for Copco's Toketee power complex.

Campaign Heated As Talent District Election Nears

The campaign in the election for a new director of the Talent Irrigation District became heated last week. The election is Tuesday.

Two candidates are on the ballot for the directorship. They are Joe H. Meyer, the incumbent, and David H. Holmes.

The voting will be at the Talent Irrigation district office at Talent from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Nov. 8. The directorship is for a three-year term beginning Jan. 1, 1956.

Meyer Incumbent
Meyer is completing his first term. He is a truck farmer, raising tomatoes, onions, cantaloups and other garden produce.

Holmes, president of Harry and David's Bear Creek orchards also is engaged in dairying and stock raising.

Supporters of both men have been active on behalf of their candidates during the week. A "Committee for David H. Holmes for Director of Talent Irrigation District" has been formed, with Henry G. Enders as chairman. A letter over their signatures has been distributed, and a copy, submitted to the Mail Tribune as a letter to the editor, appears in the Communications column of today's paper.

Issues Statement
Meanwhile, R. M. Kent, secretary-manager of the district, who disclaims campaigning for either candidate, issued a statement Saturday in which he sets forth his position with regard to a recent proposed contract between himself and the TID, and with regard to one aspect of the campaign. A story about his statement appears on Page 6.

Supreme Court May Act on Challenges To Discrimination

Appeals Court Ruling On Monday's Docket

Washington — (U.P.)—The Supreme court, confronted with the first repercussions from its historic 1954 school segregation decision, may act Monday on sweeping new challenges to racial bars in the South.

Two groups of Negroes and a Chinese-American have urged the high tribunal to outline segregated public parks and swimming pools and state laws forbidding inter-racial marriages.

They say that if segregation is unconstitutional in schools, where attendance is compulsory, the principle must be extended to facilities and institutions that involve voluntary choice.

The U. S. Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., used this reasoning last March when it held that Maryland and Baltimore authorities must open public parks and pools to all regardless of race.

In its appeal to the Supreme Court, Maryland argued that the effect of the ruling is to widen the scope of the school decision to include all activities financed by public funds.

"Feeling and emotion in the state of Maryland, and doubtless in other Southern states, run higher in intermixing of races in bathing facilities than possibly any other field in human relations except miscegenation," the State said.

At its Monday business session, the Supreme Court is slated to decide whether to uphold the Appeals Court or review the case and hand down a decision later this term.

Another important segregation case due for early action was brought by Ham Say Naim, a Chinese-American of Norfolk, Va. He appealed from State Court decisions holding his marriage with Ruby Elaine Naim illegal under a state law forbidding marriage of Caucasians and non-Caucasians.

U.S. Charges Israel, Egypt Violated Truce

Syrian Forces Down Israeli Plane; New Fighting on Border

Both Sides Place Blame on Opponents

Jerusalem — (U.P.)—Syrian forces were reported Saturday to have shot down an Israeli plane. Ground fighting shifted to the Gaza strip border area where Egyptian and Israeli forces dueling for 45 minutes.

A report received in Cairo from Beirut, Lebanon, said the Israeli plane crashed in flames inside Lebanese territory two miles from the Syrian border. One of the crew members was reported saved.

First Shot Down
This would be the first Israeli plane shot down by the Arab forces, Israel claimed last Sept. 1 that two of her jets shot down two Egyptian jets inside Israeli territory, but the Egyptian war minister said the planes had crashed.

There was disagreement on who started Saturday's clash on the border of the Egyptian-held Gaza strip.

An Israeli military spokesman said the Egyptians attacked a mobile Israeli patrol moving along the armistice line and the patrol returned the machine gun fire.

Blames Israelis
An Egyptian military spokesman in Cairo said nine Israeli armored cars wheeled up to the border opposite Khan Yunis and poured shells into Egyptian positions.

Egyptian forces returned the fire with an intense barrage "forcing the Israelis to flee deep into their territory," the spokesman said. United Nations truce observers rushed to the scene.

No casualty reports were issued.

Medford Firm Gets Contract To Build Two New District 6C Elementary Schools

Central Point — Frank Fairweather Construction company of Medford has been awarded a contract to construct two new elementary school buildings in School District 6C. Fairweather's bid of $319,385 was lowest of three combined bids.

Bids were opened Friday night at Central Point. A four room building will be constructed at Gold Hill and a 12-room building will be built at Central Point. Both buildings will be finished by Aug. 1, 1956, according to the contract.

Previously, bids were received for construction of the buildings, but were higher than available funds. Architect Robert J. Kenney of Medford revised plans and specifications to bring costs within available funds.

The buildings will be built of concrete block and heating will be by unit ventilators on a low pressure steam system. Both buildings have been planned so all classrooms will have north lighting, and each will be constructed to facilitate future expansion.

The Gold Hill building will be erected at the east edge of the city on old Highway 99 across from the Ideal Cement plant. The Central Point structure will be built at the east edge

Mendes-France Wins Socialists Control

Paris — (U.P.)—Ex-Premier Pierre Mendes-France won control of the radical Socialist party Saturday by an overwhelming vote that lent him new strength in his backstage struggle against Premier Edgar Faure.

Mendes was elected first vice-president of the party at its annual convention here, making him in effect its principal leader and giving him the power to veto its choice of candidates in the coming elections.

The party's nominal President Edouard Herriot, is a half-crippled octogenarian who takes little active part in radical affairs.

Ruling Declares Jury Trial Not Required in Drunk Driving Cases

An Oregon city is not required to grant a jury trial in a case where drunken driving is charged, it was ruled here last week.

Warren Lesseg, a Medford attorney who has served from time to time as municipal judge pro tem, gave this ruling in a written opinion in a case over which he presided earlier this year. Outcome of the case has been delayed pending his opinion, which covered three questions raised at the earlier hearing.

Questions Listed:
The questions were:
1. Does the defendant have the right of a trial by jury, which is denied by the city charter?
2. Was Lesseg himself entitled to act as judge pro tem under appointment of the mayor?
3. Is the defendant entitled to have the complaint dismissed upon the ground that it was not properly verified?

Briefly, Lesseg's opinion on the first was no; on the second and third it was yes.

As a result of the third answer the action filed against Robert Rector, 225 Valley View dr., will be dismissed.

Right of Appeal
On the question of the jury trial, Lesseg's reasoning was that, since the defendant had the right of appeal to the circuit court, where he can ask a jury trial, he is not necessarily entitled to one in municipal court under the theory that the offense of driving while intoxicated is a proper subject of municipal regulation.

Judge Lesseg pointed out, however, that authorities are not in agreement on the subject, and said, "The court feels that the matter of jury trial may well be given serious consideration, since the growth of the community is great and in view of the additional fact that the defendants often are put to great expense, and hardship is wrought, by requiring the defendant to take an appeal in order to obtain a trial by jury."

On the second question, Judge Lesseg simply cited provisions of the city charter and other authorities, and came to the conclusion that he was acting

Sports Bulletins

Phoenix—Coquille high had the nod over Phoenix as the two schools fought to a 20 to 20 deadlock in their District 6 A-2 championship conflict here last night. Phoenix scored twice in the fourth quarter to knot the game. Delmar Brood's extra point kick with less than two minutes to play was ruled barely wide to the right. The Red Devils netted 318 yards to 251 for Phoenix and their first down edge was 13 to seven.

Malin high captured the District 5B football crown by defeating St. Mary's of Medford 27 to 12 here last night. The Mustangs led 14 to 0 at the quarter but only 14 to 12 at halftime. Third quarter standing was 21 to 12.

Urges 'Cease-Fire' To End Bloodshed In Middle East

Sharply-Worded Notes Handed to Ambassadors

Washington — (U.P.)—The United States charged both Israel and Egypt with Armistice violations Saturday, and urged them to agree to an immediate cease-fire to end "bloodshed and loss of life" in their thus-far pocket war.

In sharply-worded notes handed the ambassadors of both nations, the State Department expressed its "deep concern" at the bloodiest and most serious clashes in the Mideast in seven years.

Issues Complaint
In blaming both countries for the fighting, the State Department also complained about reports that United Nations Armistice observers "have been prevented from carrying out their assigned functions."

In the interest of peace, the department urged both sides to accept the U.N. cease-fire plan calling for the withdrawal of all forces from the demilitarized zone in the El Ajia desert and the clear marking of the now poorly-defined borders.

It also appealed to Israel and Egypt to give the U.N. truce observers "full liberty to perform their peaceful functions" and help preserve order along the disrupted frontiers.

The Ambassadors expressed a desire for peace, blamed the other side for the fighting, and indicated a willingness to consider the U.N. plan. But neither made any immediate commitments.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said the fighting in the Mideast—and potentially "dangerous" trouble in the Far East—call for a complete review of U. S. policies in both areas.

Supports U. N. Plan
The United States told the two Ambassadors it "deplores resort to force" and "strongly supports" the U. N. cease-fire plan "to ease the present situation."

Assistant Secretary of State George V. Allen, America's top Mideast trouble-shooter, summoned the two Ambassadors to the State Department to receive the U. S. appeal.

The action came against a somber backdrop of mounting Western fears that the Arab-Israeli fighting may blow up into a full-scale war and concern over Russia's recent moves to extend its influence into the strategic Mideast.
