

Nightclub Singer, Wife in Seclusion

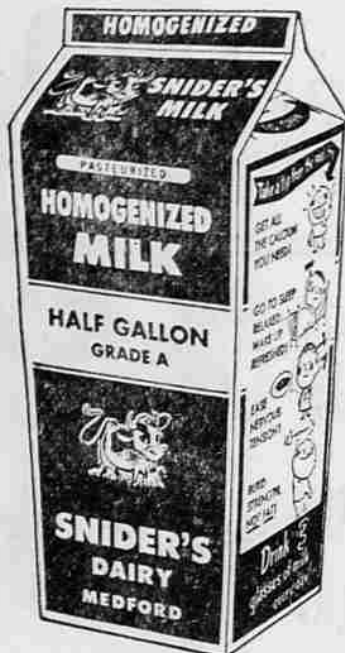

Hollywood—(U.P.)—Nightclub singer Billy Daniels, 41, and his blonde wife, Parry Cameron, formerly of Montreal, have gone into seclusion following their marriage in Juarez, Mexico.

Miss Cameron, 22-year-old governess of Daniels' three children by a previous marriage, and the singer made a quick flight Tuesday to El Paso. They went across the border, were quickly married, and returned by plane here.

Daniels, a Negro stylist, is probably best noted for his rendition of "Old Black Magic."

Warren Will Not Seek Presidency

Washington—(U.P.)—Chief Justice Earl Warren assured a longtime friend this week that under no circumstances would he leave the U.S. Supreme court to resume political life.

The visitor was Dan L. Beebe, editor and publisher of the Oroville, Calif., Mercury-Register.

Mr. Warren emphatically stated last spring his intention to remain on the bench. That statement was made when polls showed him in front among Republican choices if President Eisenhower were not a second term candidate.

Mr. Warren says now that his attitude is unchanged by reason of Mr. Eisenhower's illness and the probability that the Republicans must seek elsewhere. His decision, he tells friends, is absolute and final.

But Mr. Warren concedes that it may be necessary for him to make another public statement to that effect.

Shippers Discuss Car Shortage With Morse

Grants Pass—(U.P.)—Thirteen local lumber and plywood shippers have talked over with Sen. Wayne Morse their losses due to a boxcar shortage.

Shippers said area mills were receiving only about 20 to 30 per cent of the cars they needed. The senator outlined a three-step attack on the car shortage problem. First, he said, railroads should be induced to produce more freight cars by a tax moratorium or perhaps a direct subsidy.

Second, the Oregon Democrat said pressure should be applied on the ICC to build up its corps of enforcement officials to rigidly enforce existing regulations.

Third, ICC powers should be strengthened by Congress, he said.

Morse said he was working with the Senate Agriculture Committee to eliminate a Commodity Credit Corporation contract provision calling for all grain shipments to be made by rail.

US Health Service Issues Report on Cutter Vaccines

Washington—(U.P.)—The U. S. Public Health Service has announced in a final report that live polio virus was found in all six suspect lots of Cutter vaccine which caused more than 150 polio cases last spring.

Other Lot Unlikely

It also revealed some Type two and two and three virus was found in a seventh lot but that this "probably did not cause" any polio cases.

In a detailed report issued Aug. 25, the service officially blamed the six lots for the mysterious polio outbreak but said live virus had been isolated in only three lots up to that time.

Tests Now Complete

The announcement said laboratory tests of the vaccine have now been completed. These confirm, the service said, that live virus was present in all six of the suspect lots.

In every case, the lots had live Type one virus which produces the deadliest forms of polio. One lot also had some Type two virus and two had some Type three.

The report said the tests just completed "bring to an end" the official investigation of the Cutter incident.
