

Development of Child Topic For Lincoln PTA; Vote Taken

Each child must be considered as an individual, with his own special ideas, emotions and thoughts, stated Dr. Andrew Bulkeley, Medford pediatrician, at a meeting of the Lincoln Parent-Teacher association, November 8. Children should not be compared to each other, either in physical growth or mental development, he said, although each child goes through three physical growth spurts, and at least two mental or emotional development spurts. Physically a child spurts up during the first year, then between 4 to six years and then in adolescence, the speaker declared. Spurts in emotional growth occur during the years of one to four and again during adolescence, Dr. Bulkeley said.

Parents who believe their child is not progressing normally should remember that what is a normal weight or height for a neighbor's child might not be normal for theirs, because of heredity backgrounds, the doctor said. Dr. Bulkeley described ways to help the child adjust to school, and mentioned emotional experience which might make some children physically ill.

Dr. Bulkeley finished his talk by warning parents and teachers that special care should be exercised with children who have a physical disability such as heart trouble, diabetes, epileptics, or hearing and visual difficulties. Parents should inform the school if their child has any of these difficulties, but they also should be careful not to be over-protective as this could lead to hypochondriacism, he said.

Roy Gilbertson, principal, explained the function of the Medford Council of PTA, and how the budget for that organization has been raised in the past. At present three cents out of the 50-cent membership fee is paid by the local unit to the council to help make up the budget but also in the past food sales, etc. were used to add to the amount. The proposal was put to the Lincoln unit that the dues to the Medford council be raised from three cents to five cents, and this was approved by the unit. One purpose of the Medford Council is to aid in the establishment of new units in the city, two of which are being started this year at Hedrick Junior High and Jefferson schools.

Mr. Gilbertson also spoke briefly on the safety program on the playground, stating that one safety improvement is the new type seats in the swings—the wooden seats having been replaced with a seat made of webbing. While Lincoln has had school ground accidents, each case has been covered by the school accident insurance.

Enrollment in the school is 359 students. Mrs. Glenn Stewart announced the membership committee had enrolled 265 members during the month of October. Rooms from each grade competed to see which room would have the most parents enrolled. Mrs. Marlon Rice's room won for the first grade. Other winners were second grade, Mrs. Mary Norvell; third grade, Mrs. Ethel Chastain; fourth grade, Miss Anna Laura Honts; fifth grade, Mrs. Mary Coffin; sixth grade, Mrs. Hazeldean Hohensee. Miss Hont's room also won the room count for the meeting, and will have the traveling aquarium for the month.

Mrs. Kenneth Bramhall, president of Lincoln PTA, appointed Mrs. John Benson, John Weber and Mrs. John Childers to a committee to revise the unit by-laws. Mr. Weber reported on a meeting of the juvenile advisory committees stating that concern is being felt over the all-night drive-in movies that are held on so many Saturdays during the summer. He also reported that the safety committee is concerned about bicycles without lights on the roads at night.

It was announced by Girl Scout workers of the Lincoln neighborhood that Brownie leaders are needed for a second grade troop. It was also announced that Mrs. Joe Jones is the neighborhood chairman, and a meeting of Brownie and Girl Scout workers will be held in her home on Monday, November 14, at 1 p.m. Anyone interested in helping with either Brownies or Girl Scouts in the Lincoln area is also invited to attend.

Brownie Troop 77, directed by Mrs. William Johnson, presented the flag for the PTA meeting. Boyce Kellogg gave the invocation.

Hospitality was handled by Mrs. Jack Edmonds and Mrs. Joe Jones, directed by Mrs. William Johnson. Refreshments were served by parents of children in the sixth grade, directed by Mrs. Howard Pierce. Parents serving were Mrs. Robert Barnum, Mrs. Joseph Whipple, Mrs. Ernest Francis and Mrs. Ruth Hurt. Mrs. Hazeldean Hohensee and Mrs. Morris Jimenez poured.

B. Cordy, secretary and Miss Carol Harris, treasurer, who succeeds Miss Florence Aasen. Committee chairmen are Mrs. Scott Hamilton, hospitality; Gilbert Mack, publicity; Mrs. Lester Parker, ways and means; Mrs. Frances Willett, student's aide; Miss Martha Boshears, audit; Mrs. L. V. Fredrick, spiritual.

Surgeon Speaks For Nurses Here

Almost 50 nurses heard Dr. Roland Mayer, Medford surgeon, speak, on the treatment of burns at a meeting held in the Doctor's lounge at Sacred Heart hospital Tuesday evening. Dr. Mayer described both the open and closed methods of treatment and explained when each is usually used.

He emphasized the part of the nurse in the observance of the patient's symptoms, particularly in relation to shock. Dr. Mayer illustrated his talk with the use of slides showing burns of second and third degree under treatment.

Miss Gertrude Molloy reported on an address given for Oregon State nurses' association meeting in Portland in October, and it was decided to devote the January meeting to a full discussion of this talk. Miss Molloy also reported on a section chairman meeting she had attended recently in Portland and announced that Miss Genevieve Tachella, president of the state association, would visit the local group in January.

Fourteen guests were introduced by Mrs. Martha Donohue and welcomed to the group.

It was decided to hold a cooked food sale before the end of November and plans were discussed for the rummage sale to be held on December 3. The group agreed to fill a Christmas basket for a needy family at their own Christmas party in December. A social hour followed the meeting and refreshments were served by Sisters and nurses working at the Sacred Heart hospital.

Council of Blind To Meet Sunday; To Honor Couple

Jackson County chapter, Associated Council of the Blind, will hold the monthly meeting Sunday, November 13 at 2 p.m. in the Guild hall of St. Mark's church, corner of Fifth and Oakdale avenue. Anyone sincerely interested in the welfare of the blind is invited to attend.

A social hour and light refreshments will follow the business meeting. Mr. and Mrs. William Hill, charter members of the local chapter, will be honored on their 49th wedding anniversary.

The Oregon Associated Council of the Blind, and the various chapters, were organized to assist the visually handicapped and the totally blind to lead useful and productive lives. "A blind person is a normal person who is merely visually handicapped, and he has a right to live a useful and productive life," an officer of the society states. "He doesn't want pity nor charity. Many employers do not realize, and the general public perhaps does not either, that these visually handicapped people can be gainfully employed, gainful to the employer as well as themselves. The need has to be brought before the public, and that is one aim of the Jackson County chapter."
