The Medical Roundup

by Walter Alvarez, Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

WHEN A PERSON HAS ONLY ONE EYE

In a recent release from the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, the author pointed out what is so true, and this is that anyone who has lost one eye should always protect the other eye with a strong lens in front of it.

the child interested while he is going to sleep.

Many years ago, when my sons had to have their tonsils out, the anesthetist—a wonderfully kind woman—was so touched because, as she said, she had never dealt with such unafraid children.

According to the Society for the Prevention of Blindness, 1,200,000 Americans are relying on only one eye for their vision.

One day, I tripped on a torn carpet and went—left eye first—into the sharp corner of a table.

they woke, the operation would be all finished.

I went up to the operating-room with them, and as the anesthetist and the surgeon were getting ready, I kept explaining what the different bits of apparatus were for.

A strange result of all this that I had not counted on, was the fact that next day, when I went to bring the boys home, one of them refused to go.

It is good news that the Scottish Rite Masons have just given a grant of $100,000 for research on schizophrenia, which is the commonest form of psychosis or insanity, and one of the commonest diseases there is.

on schizophrenia, which is the commonest form of psychosis or insanity, and one of the commonest diseases there is. Each year some 50,000 persons begin to show signs of this disease, and today there are more than 350,000 of them in mental hospitals scattered throughout the country.

Compensation and Epileptics

Ben H. Gray, national director of the National Epilepsy League, tells me that a nationwide effort is now being made to amend the workmen's compensation acts so that employers will not be heavily penalized if they take on an epileptic who is likely occasionally to fall and hurt himself.

the epileptic who wants to work is going to find doors shut in his face. It is hard to understand why legislators cannot quickly see the great need for protecting kind employers. Such a law could immediately save each state hundreds of thousands of dollars now spent in supporting in idleness many potentially good workers.
