Red Cross Trains Medford Woman For New York

San Francisco—Six newly-appointed volunteer field consultants for the Pacific area, American National Red Cross, last week received training in the area headquarters, San Francisco, in preparation for their assignments. It was announced today by Mrs. Richard L. Sloss, director of the Pacific area office of volunteers. The new appointments bring to 29 the number of volunteer field consultants in the eight western states, Mrs. Sloss said.

Volunteer field consultants serve without pay as members of the Red Cross traveling field staff and visit Red Cross chapters, military and Veteran's hospitals, and military installations in assigned territories adjacent to their homes.

In conjunction with paid Red Cross field staff they are responsible for the development of volunteer participation in Red Cross programs and activities in their territories. They are appointed because their experience in Red Cross and its many services qualifies them for field assignment to assist other chapters.

The volunteers participating in the training program this week are: Mrs. Frank Fairweather, Jackson County chapter, Medford, Ore.; Mrs. Sam Gilluly, Valley County chapter, Glasgow, Mont.; Mrs. Frank Hooks, Broadwater County chapter, Townsend, Mont.; Miss Elizabeth Mack, San Mateo chapter, Burlingame, Calif.; Mrs. Forrest Rockwood, Flathead County chapter, Kalispell, Mont. and Mrs. Richard Zug, Merced chapter, Merced, Calif.
