TV Quiz Contestants Run Winning String Up To Record Figure

New York — (U.P.) — Four contestants took an $80,512 bite out of a TV giveaway show last night, the biggest haul in video history.

The biggest chunk on CBS' "The $64,000 Question" went to Steven Frohlich of Princeton, N.J., who quit after running his string to $32,000 in the category, "American History."

Another contestant, psychologist Joyce Brothers of New York, reached the $32,000 level by answering a multiple part query in the category, "Boxing." Mrs. Brothers, 28, can bow out with her stake next week if she chooses or try to double it if she goes on and loses, she'll wind up with a consolation automobile.

A third guest, coal miner Stanley Skeens of Danville, Va., piled up a $16,000 deposit. He'll be offered the same course as Mrs. Brothers next Tuesday. Skeens' specialty is the Bible.

The fourth winner was Roscoe Wright of Jamaica, N. Y., who won $512. Wright, a postal employee, reached that plateau by answering four questions on poetry.

Second Eisenhower Appeal Not Likely To Alter Decision

United Nations, N. Y. — (U.P.) — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek is determined to block the admission of Outer Mongolia to the United Nations and will use the Nationalists' Security Council veto if necessary, Taipei dispatches said today.

U. N. diplomats expressed hope that a second appeal by President Eisenhower to Chiang would bring a reversal of the Nationalist decision to veto but the Taipei dispatches said there were "no indications" Chiang would relent.

A Nationalist government source expressed hope a "proper attitude by the Western powers" on the admission of Outer Mongolia would make a veto unnecessary. But the Nationalists were reported adamant.

The Taipei position was that Outer Mongolia was carved out of China proper and that it is not a sovereign state. This was similar to the U. S. view although recent reports said the United States had relented to permit the entry of 17 other nations.

United Press Correspondent William Miller reported from Taipei that the U. S. embassy had made repeated representations to the Nationalists through the foreign office during the past two weeks and that Ambassador Karl Rankin and Charge d'Affaires William Cochran had conferred with Foreign Minister George Yeh.

Chinese sources said two appeals from Mr. Eisenhower had been forwarded to the generalissimo—one in the form of a letter and the other as a vocal plea made through Rankin. Both failed to sway Chiang, the sources said.

Tingfu F. Tsiang, Chinese ambassador at the United Nations, said through a spokesman Tuesday China would use the veto "if necessary" to block Outer Mongolia's membership on the ground that this would be the first step toward recognition of Communist China.

This threatened to wreck the 18 country membership deal — five Communist and 13 Western-backed nations — since Russia accepted the proposition on an "all-or-nothing" basis.

The feeling within the U. S. delegation was that China's announcement tended to destroy whatever bargaining power the Americans had with the Russians on the membership issue. An American source said the United States would not "ask anyone to vote against Outer Mongolia" and that it will not "ask anyone to abstain."

Some Western diplomatic sources talked of the Chinese veto intention as a step toward "suicide" for the Nationalists in the United Nations, but sources close to the Formosa delegation held that the decision was one of high national principle, and one involving the possible admission of Red China itself.

Patterson Works For Albany Plant

Washington — (U.P.) — Gov. Paul Patterson today sought the reason for government indifference to the zirconium plant at Albany, Ore., and conferred with federal officials here in an attempt to have the plant expanded and reopened.

Patterson said he hoped to find out why the plant was closed by the government in the face of its zirconium procurement program and why it prohibited suppliers of zirconium to use the Albany plant.

Zirconium is a by-product of atomic processing and was developed at the Albany laboratory of the U. S. Bureau of Mines.

If reopened, Patterson told federal officials, the Albany plant would employ 200 to 300 persons and would save the government money. The now idle plant could be repaired and put into functioning order at a cost of about $250,000, he said. A similar plant would cost three million to four million dollars if bought new.

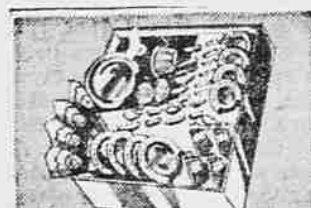

Oregon Republicans At Chicago Meeting

Portland — (U.P.) — Three Oregon Republican leaders were in Chicago today for a meeting of the Republican national committee. They are Wendell Wyatt, state GOP chairman; Jess Gard, GOP national committeeman, and Mrs. Olive Cornett, Republican national committeewoman.

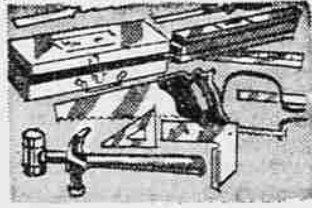

Major item of business at the meeting is to prepare for the Republican national convention next August in San Francisco.
