

Quotes From the News

By UNITED PRESS

Oklahoma City, Okla.—New York Gov. Averell Harriman telling convention of the Young Democratic Clubs of America there is no such thing as peaceful co-existence with Russia: "That is a Russian proposal and it would be a mistake for us to swallow it."

Sydney, Australia—Group Capt. John "Cats Eyes" Cunningham to crowds who greeted him when he set a new transport speed record in a British Jet Comet III: "It looks as if we've ironed out all the difficulties."

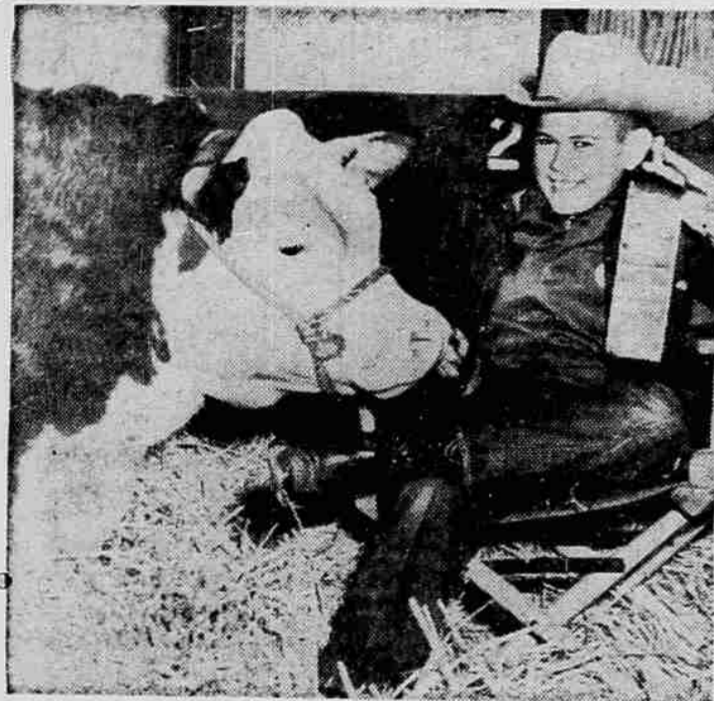

Stockton, Calif.—Robert Brissenden, acting administrator of San Joaquin General hospital, on 36-year-old Mrs. Abbie Lelah Howland, who entered her fifth year of "living death" in a record coma: "She is one of our healthiest patients."

Washington—Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) advocating destruction of farm surpluses if such a move would increase farm incomes: "If we have to destroy some of them, well then destroy some of them."

Bergen-Op-Zoom, Netherlands—Bertha Hertogh, 18-year-old Dutch girl, whose marriage to a Moslem five years ago touched off fatal rioting in Malaya, announcing she will soon wed a Dutch cabinetmaker: "The only thing we want is to start a family and live like two normal people."

New York—Mrs. Barbara Joesloff, an interior designer, on the result of making the modern wife a superwoman: "We have made women ashamed to confess their own lack of ability. We've made them feel they lack good taste if they don't create a charming home."

Pittsburgh—Quarterback Otto Graham, announcing he will quit pro football at the end of the season, after the Cleveland Browns clinched their sixth straight division championship: "Yes, I'm through, but this is the right way to wind it up."

BLUE RIBBON BUNNY—Lilie Lewter, 10, of Lubbock, Tex., wears a proud smile as he holds up blue ribbon won by his Hereford steer, Bunny, at the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago.

Over 300 young men have been killed in professional boxing rings since 1900. Others, not killed, have suffered a living death from being made punch drunk or blind or both. Bill McGeehan referred to professional boxing as "the manly art of modified murder." An apt description. Also to be noted is that persons having a heart condition are often ordered by physicians not to view boxing on television. The spectacle of each of the combatants trying to beat his opponent to a bloody pulp or to knock him senseless is claimed to be too hard on the heart of the spectator.

Asking
Queries from the clients: Q.—Please quote the Maiden's Prayer? A.—You will have to be more specific. There are a number of so-called "Maiden's Prayers." Do you mean the one which goes: "O Lord, bring him back, safe, sound and single"? Q.—What were the odds offered against Truman in the presidential election of 1948? A.—Odds varied. However, Harry was certainly quite a longshot. I know one fellow who had a bet of $200 on Truman at odds of 20 to one. That was Louis Calhern, the actor.

Horse and Women
Plump women who consume large amounts of food are usually frustrated. That is, they are starving for love. Same is said to be true of females who use excessively long cigarette holders and those who are constantly making disparaging remarks about men in general.

Ever Thus
That there are too many people on Government payrolls continues to be the subject of bitter complaints from highly indignant taxpayers. That is one of the oldest continuous complaints in United States history. In 1816, Thomas Jefferson said: "I think, myself, that we have more machinery of government than is necessary, too many parasites living on the labor of the industrious."

sence is to love like wind to fire, it blows out the little ones and kindles the great." Donna neglected to give credit to the originator of the thought. It was La Rochefoucauld, and the correct quotation is as follows: "Absence diminishes moderate passions and increases great ones, as the wind extinguishes tapers and adds fury to fire."

Husband Hunting
According to the most recent report on husband hunting there are more bachelors than bachelorettes in every State in the Union. However, the bachelorettes are experiencing keen competition in the husband hunting field from young widows and divorcees. That's because there are more widows than divorcees in every State. Also there are more divorcees than divorced men in every State but Montana and Nevada. Both widows and divorcees seem to have a marked preference for bachelors, that is, men who have never been married. This makes things very tough for the bachelorettes.

Up the Ladder
Difficulties personally experienced are frequently the inspiration of profitable business enterprises. Mrs. Henry Schlundt of Evansville, Ind., shopping for baby clothes, grew weary of having to go to so many different shops to complete her infant's outfitting. She thought how convenient it would be if all the necessities for a baby could be purchased in one shop. So, she established a "Baby Shop" in her home. It was a hit from the start. From the Schlundt home the baby shop was moved to a downtown store. That was 40 years ago. Now that little business started in the Schlundt home occupies five floors in a building in downtown Evansville.

Get It Right
There are some things the majority of people never get right. For example, in what play did Ethel Barrymore voice the immortal line: "That's all there is, there isn't any more"? It was in a play called "Sunday" in which Ethel played a girl who had been adopted by three cowboys. Then there is George M. Cohan's birth date. Nine out of ten people will still tell you George was born on the Fourth of July. He was born on the third of July, 1878. Also, there is the topper of all misquoted lines, that one about "the gilded lily." Shakespeare wrote "paint the lily, gold refined gold." Another widespread belief is that 1900 was a leap year. It wasn't.
