Medford Students Enter Zeta Chapter

Corvallis — Lewis McLaren and James E. Lattie, Medford students at Oregon State college, were among 28 juniors and seniors initiated by the OSC chapter of Alpha Zeta, national agricultural honor fraternity.

Membership is based on scholarship, character, personality and potential leadership in the field of agriculture.

McLaren, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. McLaren, 1820 Crown ave., is majoring in agriculture education. Lattie, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Lattie, route 3, box 200, is majoring in agriculture economics.

'BAR' AT POLICE OFFICE

Sparta, N.J. — (U.P.) — This township will set up a "bar" at police headquarters on New Year's Eve. Police Chief P. George Geffken said motorists will be able to stop for a cup of coffee at any time during the holiday.

The Medical Roundup

ITCHINESS

There are many causes for itchiness, or pruritus. First, the physician will want to see if there is anything wrong with the skin. In some cases the skin looks normal; or perhaps it is scaly and too dry. In other cases there is some skin disease, or there may be hives. Small hives are commonly due to the eating of some food, such as strawberries; while in my experience, big hives are generally due to some emotional storm. The other day, in came a woman covered with hives each as big as a cookie. She had been trying to figure out what food was causing the eruption. I just asked, "What can't you make up your mind about?" She looked surprised and said, "Could it be that?" I said, "Yes it is due to that. What is that?" And then she told me a story of years ago having been in love with a young man. Her mother broke this up and married her to an elderly man. Recently she met the young man again; the old love flared up, and now she is unable to make up her mind what to do.

As my old friend, Dr. John Stokes, of Philadelphia, showed time and time again, the skin is an organ very much under the influence of the mind. I remember learning this 45 years ago when I saw a woman with a terribly itchy eruption on the side of her neck. When I asked a skin specialist what he thought of it, he said to the woman, "What can't you make up your mind about?" And she said, "Could it be that?" Then it turned out that this woman's husband had been caught stealing considerable sums from his company. Because he was much liked by the principal stockholder and was very useful in the business, nothing has been said and he had been put on probation. But the worry about this disgrace and uncertainty had caused the wife's skin to break out.

Interesting Story

Many a time since then, on recognizing a neurodermatitis, or skin inflammation due to nervousness, I have asked the woman what was distressing in her life, and have soon got an interesting story. In one case, the woman was suing her husband for a separation; in another she found that the man she had just married was a penniless skunk; another woman's fiance was trying to get out of marrying her, and in another case, the woman broke out badly when she was trying to make up her mind to cast off a useless husband.

Many of these persons with a neurodermatitis recovered quickly when I got them to make up their mind.

Always, of course, when a person has an itching skin the physician will get a measurement made of the blood sugar to rule out a beginning diabetes.

Many of the persons who have terrible itching of the crotch at night would not have got into trouble if they hadn't been so nervous, afraid, or undecided about something. Sometimes a psychic cause will make a pre-existing chronic skin disease much worse. For instance: I have seen persons with psoriasis (which in most cases is a mild chronic disease with few symtoms) who got a flare-up when a daughter contracted an unfortunate marriage, or a son smashed up the family car.

What this means is that whenever a person with an itching skin goes to a physician he (or she) had better speak up if there is any possible pshychic cause. It is silly to hide such a problem and say nothing about it.

I've known a few persons who had an itchy skin all their days. They itched all over. One such man, a friend of mine, became a famous skin specialist. One can easily see why he got interested in skin diseases! Many older persons get itchy skins as soon as cold weather comes. The little oil glands of the skin are not so active when a man is old. Usually the skin gets more itchy if the person bathes often, and especially if he uses much soap. The best treatment for itchy legs is, each night, to rub into the skin some cold cream or oily preparation. This replaces the oil that has been washed out.

Loss of Reading Power

One of the important danger signals of disease is the loss of the ability to read comfortably. Many a person who is slipping into a nervous breakdown or depression will admit, when questioned, that he no longer can read comfortably. At the office he cannot get the gist quickly out of a business document; he has to read it three or four times, something that he never had to do before. He can read a brief article in the newspaper but he cannot settle down to read a serious article in a monthly journal. If he tries, he finds himself reading the same paragraph over and over again, without getting much meaning out of it or without remembering what he read.

Persons who, for the first time in their life, find themselves doing this type of reading had better ease up and get a rest, or they had better see a physician. Their trouble shows that their brain is getting so tired that it cannot work well.

Dr. Alvarez regrets he hasn't the time in which to read or answer requests for information.

Ashland Students Send CARE Parcels

Ashland—Students at Ashland High school are sending 64 CARE packages to foreign countries for their annual Christmas project. Each package contains $20 worth of surplus farm products, making a total of $1,280 worth of food for needy people, those in charge stated.

Students requested that packages be sent to orphanages in Korea and Okinawa and to the leper colony in Okinawa, which is largely supported by United States Army personnel, they said.

Money for the project was given by students. Miss Sue Eudey, a senior, was chairman of the committee in charge.

Last year the school assisted nine needy families with baskets of food and clothing. The previous year clothing was sent overseas. The Hi-Y also will deliver food baskets in Ashland this year.

Another high school service recently was providing musical programs to clubs and lodges.

Talent Elementary Program Tonight

Talent — The annual Talent elementary school Christmas program will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the school gymnasium. The program will be "The Story of Christmas."

The special grade school glee club, and primary singers will participate in the program.

Classes will be let out at 1:30 p.m. Friday, and resume Tuesday, Jan. 3.

Motor vehicle registrations and travel mileage on the nations highways are due to increase more than 33 per cent by 1965, according to estimates of automotive and highway experts.
