New Year's Eve Dance Planned At Country Club

A large committee of Rogie Vail Country club members are in charge of the annual New Year's eve formal dance to be held at the club Saturday, December 31.

This year's dance will have a nautical theme, with "boarding time" set at 9 p.m. and "launching ceremonies" for 1956 planned for midnight.

Greeting guests at the door will be Mr. and Mrs. L. C. McLaughlin, and the club directors, headed by Dr. and Mrs. L. Paul Walker, will make up the welcoming committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Selby, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Buvick, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Conrad, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Olson are in charge of party favors and costumes for club attendants and Mr. and Mrs. Durrell Miller are planning the traditional "balloon festival" for midnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Milne and Allen Hunt make up the decorations committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dickey and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Barnes made up the invitations committee.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Henry and Dr. and Mrs. Scott Heisterington are on the general social committee of the club, and general chairmen for this event are Mr. and Mrs. Milne and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Barrell.

Group Gives Party At Nursing Home

Southern Oregon Dental Assistants' society members gave a party for patients in the Mill-edge Nursing home Christmas eve. The group sang carols and presented patients with gifts. They also served refreshments.

Guests Leave

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rosacker of Portland left for their home Monday after spending Christmas here with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shangle, 1240 Woodland avenue. Other guests for Christmas dinner were Mr. Shangle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Vern Shangle, and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Mueller, Port Townsend.

Sister Here

Central Point — Mrs. Doris Budrow of Los Angeles is spending part of the holiday season with her sister, Mrs. Gladys Beebe, Central Point. Mrs. Budrow, who formerly lived in the valley, is with Pan-American Airways in Los Angeles and recently was in South America on company business.

Family Leaves

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Penny and two sons, Donald and Johnny, left this morning for their home in Lancaster, Calif., after spending Christmas here with Mrs. Penny's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Luy, 116 Newtown street.

As We Live

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PH.D.

People Will Respect You For Speaking Out
While they may not necessarily agree with what a person has to say, most people respect the person who has the courage of his convictions and is willing to express his opinions.

(Q) "I am 26 years old and have a problem which is handicapping me in business and in everything I do. I am afraid to express an opinion until I am sure that it will agree with what other people think. I guess I am what you would call a 'Yes-man.'"

Dr. Herlock: "In my work, I hesitate to say anything until I am sure it is what the boss or the other men think and it is the same with people I meet socially. The result is that I say very little and get embarrassed whenever anyone asks me point-blank what I think about something."

"The trouble, I believe, goes back to my childhood when my father used to get mad or make fun of me if I said anything that didn't agree exactly with what he thought. I learned to keep my thoughts to myself as the only way to keep peace in the family. Now I find I can't express my thoughts, even if I want to. How can I get over this?"—R. B.

(A) The only way to get over the fear of expressing your opinions is to convince yourself that very few people are like your father. In other words, you will meet very few people in business or social life who will get angry or ridicule you if your opinion on a certain subject differs from theirs.

On the other hand, most people will lose respect for you because of your fear of expressing yourself; no one can truly respect a "Yes-man." Most people, you will discover, are tolerant of the opinions of others and will respect a person who has the courage to express opinions that might not agree with those of the people to whom he is talking.

As you have been held back by fear of ridicule or of making trouble for so long, you cannot expect to change overnight. However, if you sincerely want to get out of the "Yes-man" class, you must force yourself to speak up at least occasionally. When you discover that people react differently to this than your father did, that should give you the courage to speak up more and more often.

The one thing to avoid, however, is creating the impression that you are not sure of your own beliefs. That will create an unfavorable impression and counteract what otherwise would have made a good impression on your hearers.

Royal Neighbors Of Central Point Install Officers

Central Point — Officers for the coming year were installed at a meeting of Central Point camp, Royal Neighbors of America, held at the home of Mrs. Clayton J. Walker, 129 North Oakdale avenue, Medford. Mrs. Walker is district deputy for the lodge.

Mrs. Walker served as installing officer and was assisted by Mrs. Carl Pearson, Medford, ceremonial marshal; Mrs. Alice Berry, Boise, Ida., assistant marshal; Mrs. Irvin Patton, inner sentinel; Mrs. Raymond Allen, chancellor. They were presented corsages and given the grand honors of the society.

Taking office were Mrs. Frank Ward, oracle; Mrs. J. Sanford Richardson, vice-oracle; Mrs. Emma Collins, past oracle; Mrs. Victor Bursell, chancellor; Mrs. August Sukow, recorder; Mrs. Lettie Gregory, receiver; Mrs. D. R. Allred, marshal; Mrs. Adena Benson, inner sentinel; Mrs. Geneva Workman, Mrs. Lula Mae Dye, managers; Mrs. R. E. Nealon, musician; Mrs. M. D. Penoyer, flag bearer.

Mrs. Collins, past oracle, was presented a past oracle's pin for her "faithful service" to the camp and Mrs. Walker presented Mrs. Collins a gift from members of the camp to show "their appreciation for her cooperation" while she was serving as oracle.

Mrs. Walker's home was decorated appropriately for the Christmas season, and gifts were placed around the Christmas tree.

Dessert was served by Mesdames Sukow, Penoyer, Hendrickson and Workman.

Couple Spends Holidays in City

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fann, Corvallis, are spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Denzer, 16 Western avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Fann, 1040 Maple Park drive. Mr. Fann is enrolled in fish and game management courses at Oregon State college, and the couple will return to Corvallis January 2.

Make-up Consultant Says No Woman is Really Ugly

By WILLIAM EWALD United Press Correspondent

New York—(U.P.)—Next to diamonds, a girl's best friend is probably a fellow like Richard Willis. Particularly, with Leap Year around the corner.

Willis, a 15-year veteran of the radio and TV wars, is the kind of conjurer who can make your Aunt Tessie look like Gina Whatever-her-name is. Well, almost.

"Actually," says Willis, "There's no such thing as an ugly woman. They're all essentially nice-appearing. And the American woman has more flair than any other woman in the world."

Willis, presently employed at WRCA-TV here, runs the sort of video shindig which caters to gals with personal redecorating problems. A former make-up consultant for four movie studios, Willis estimates he has advised some 500,000 chicks and hens over the years.

From Bow Legs To Speech

He has tackled such problems as bow legs, knock knees, bumpy knuckles, buck teeth, knobby elbows and loving cup ears. He has handed out free advice on make-up and jewelry, dress, diet and even diction.

"The two biggest problems as far as most women are concerned," pointed out Willis, "are weight and hair. Many women are inclined to be heavy. I don't call them fat—fat is something they have in them."

"Hair style is always a problem, too. The average woman is always looking for a new style without realizing that what may look attractive on another woman may not be good for her."

Although Willis tabbed American women "the best dressed in the world," he unhesitatingly labeled their little sisters, the teen-agers, as his principal problem.

"I recently visited some schools and all I could see were blemishes of ugly clothes. Teenage girls have the hysterical approach to dress. They're copy cats—all of them seem to wear dungarees and loafers."

Other Breakdowns

Breaking down the other brackets of women who come to him for advice, Willis saw things this way:

"Girls in the bracket just over 21 usually dress for men—that's because they're looking for one. Their problem is buying the number of clothes they need on a limited budget. All I can suggest is buying three good basic changes for each season."

"The young married woman faces a different problem. She has to dress to please both her husband and the neighborhood, also on a small budget. Three basic seasonal outfits should be the rule here, too. Also a black coat rather than a colored one."

The woman in the 40-plus bracket, said Willis, should be the best-dressed. But sadly enough, he has found this isn't always so. "Her problem is overweight and the fact that her grown children want her to dress like a grandmother."

Grandma Needs To Be Drab

But even the grandmother bracket shouldn't necessarily dress in rocking-chair style. "When you get to elderly women, the problem is one of comfort in dress and looking well, too. There's no need for any woman, no matter how old, to look drab."

As for the men, Willis, through personal observation has found many of them pretty ragged. "Their shirts are pretty sad and their shoes, unshined and beat.

are pretty sad."

But strangely enough, in all of Willis' career, only one man has come to him for consultation.

"He was a young lawyer whose mother was a fan of mine.

I advised him on the type of clothes to buy, the kind of accessories to wear and the proper haircut to get. I even helped correct his dandruff condition."

DR. DAMMASCH STRICH

Portland — (U.P.) — Dr. F. H. Dammasch, 76, veteran state representative from Multnomah county, was reported in serious condition in a local hospital today after suffering a heart attack followed by a cerebral hemorrhage.
