Irving said similar wage increases had been agreed to by the Warm Springs Lumber Company, Warm Springs, Ore.; the Willow Lake Lumber Company and Coos Bay Lumber Company, both of Willow Ranch, Calif.; Conifer Wood Products, Murphys, Ore.; Southern Oregon Plywood Corporation, Grants Pass; and by a group of employees of Edward Hines Lumber Company, Hines, Ore.

New Snake Bridge At Ontario Denied

Ontario — U.P. — A rumor that the proposed new bridge over the Snake river between Oregon and Idaho might be built near Huntington rather than Ontario was scotched yesterday by an Oregon state highway commissioner.

Commissioner Charles Reynolds, La Grande, said that both Idaho and Oregon road authorities had agreed that the new bridge should be built about 3/4 of a mile upstream from the present U. S. highway 30 bridge at Ontario.

Reynolds said Oregon was building a new $3,000,000 primary road from Huntington south to Ontario and that there was no likelihood the bridge site would be moved north to the Old Ferry-Huntington area.

Some Senators Said Concerned Over Terms of Ford Stock Sale

Washington — U.P. — Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney said today that some senators are deeply concerned over terms of the forthcoming offer by Ford Motor Co. to sell 10,200,000 shares of its stock to the public.

The Wyoming Democrat noted that the Ford family will retain firm control over the company although the public will have 60 per cent of the voting power. The family will have the other 40 per cent.

"Members of the Senate of both parties to whom I have spoken... have expressed deep concern, and I have no doubt whatever that the issue will be brought before the banking committee," O'Mahoney said in an interview.

A committee spokesman declined to comment other than to say staff members are looking over the Ford stock prospectus which was filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission last week. The committee held lengthy hearings early this year in an investigation of the stock market.

O'Mahoney is chairman of a Senate Monopoly subcommittee which recently held extensive hearings to gauge the impact of General Motors Corp. on the nation's economy.

He said the Ford stock prospectus "illustrates, just as the General Motors hearings did, that in our giant corporations the public—although owning a majority of the voting power—is without substantial control over the policies of the company."

Senator Plans Legislation To help correct this situation, O'Mahoney said, he plans to introduce legislation to abolish all forms of non-voting stock and to require appointment of at least one director of every large corporation to represent stockholders owning less than 100 shares each.

Under reported plans, all of the publicly-owned Ford shares would be in such blocks. The Ford Foundation will retain 67.6 per cent of the Ford Motor Co. stock, but it all will be non-voting. The public will have 20.3 per cent and the Ford family interests 12.1 per cent.

Background on Ford Stock—The Ford Motor Co. is the last of the nation's giant privately-owned corporations. But next month the majority of Ford's voting stock will be offered for sale.

The Ford family has controlled the vast automobile empire since 1907—four years after the company was founded. Henry Ford bought out his partners one by one.

But now the Ford Foundation, the billion-dollar philanthropic organization created by the Fords, wants to diversify its stock holdings. That means

Man, Retiring at 66, To Get College Degree

Schenectady, N. Y. — U.P. — Retiring at 66? Not John A. (Jack) Thirkeldsen.

When co-workers gave him a farewell dinner, marking the end of his 22 years with the U. S. Navy inspection service at General Electric Co. here, they learned that "retirement" was just a figure of speech to Thirkeldsen.

Next June, he will line up with members of the class of 1956 at Siena College and receive a B.S. degree in economics as the oldest graduate in the college's 17-year history. He's been going to college at night and during the summer since his wife died several years ago and plans to enter the insurance and real estate business in California or Florida.
