

Blunder by United States at Geneva Led To Khrushchev's Blast at Ike

Westinghouse Rejects Another Union Plea

Pittsburgh, Pa. (U.P.)—Westinghouse Electric Corp., sticking by its guns in a 74-day strike of 44,000 production workers, rejected yesterday another union plea to submit the dispute to arbitration.

The International Union of Electrical Workers, on strike at 30 company plants throughout the nation since Oct. 17, proposed in writing that two main issues in the costly walkout be submitted to a third party for settlement.

Corvallis Democrat Files for Primary

Salem — (U.P.) — A Democrat from Corvallis was listed yesterday as the first candidate to file for next May's primary election. P. M. de Laubenfels filed his candidacy with the State Elections bureau here for Democratic nomination for state representative from Benton county.

Iceland is growing vegetables in hothouses which are warmed by natural hot springs and produces fresh crops the year around. Even bananas have been grown successfully in that manner.

On The Side

The bird on you withered bough That lately mourned her mate Has found another comrade now. Such changes all await! If nature has decreed it so, With all above, and all below, Let us like them forget our woe. If I should quit your arms tonight And chance to die before 'twas light, I would advise you—and you might Love again tomorrow. —Philip Freneau

Queries from clients. Q. My claim is that film star Johnny Mack Brown played for Alabama in the Pasadena Rose Bowl game of 30 years ago. Right? A. Not quite right, sir, but close. Johnny starred in the Rose Bowl game of 1927. Just about 29 years ago. Q. My brother-in-law has his golf bag packed with 17 different types of clubs, all of which he uses in a round of golf. What do you think of a man like that? A. He is an escapist from the realities of golf. No golfer

Smiles of Russian Bear Softened Planned Strike

By LYLE C. WILSON United Press Correspondent Washington —(U.P.)—The immediate events leading up to Nikita S. Khrushchev's blast at President Eisenhower began with a United States blunder at the Geneva summit conference.

The word as President Eisenhower took off for the July meeting in Geneva was that the United States would make some powerful propaganda medicine there. It was to be done in a nice way, not offensively. But it was to be effective.

One of Mr. Eisenhower's best propaganda bets was the slave status of captive peoples behind the Iron Curtain. American citizens of Czech, Polish, Slovak and such ancestry had an ear cocked for what the President would say in Geneva in protest against the Communist slave-state system.

They listened in vain. The American determination to strike a real blow for the captive nations faded under the phony smiles of Khrushchev, Soviet Communist Party chief, and Premier Nikolai Bulganin. The odds are long that Mr. Eisenhower did not pull his punches on that issue by advice of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. But the punches were pulled, and the President was not long in regretting it.

Within a matter of days after the President's return here, the administration realized its mistake. The Russian bear already was shucking his sheep's clothing. So Mr. Eisenhower began to repair his mistake.

The repair job began Aug. 24 in his address to the American Bar Association in Philadelphia. He hit hard in three short paragraphs.

"The domination of captive countries cannot longer be justified by any claim that this is needed for purposes of security. An international political machine, operating within the borders of sovereign nations for their political and ideological subversion, cannot be explained away as a cultural movement.

Not Part of Peace "In justice to others and to ourselves, we never can accept those wrongs as a part of the peace that we desire and seek."

The President's Christmas message broadcast to the captive nations was a substantial restatement of that position. It did not make the United States position any firmer; it merely said again that this country does not and will not accept the conditions presently imposed by the Soviet Union on most of its neighbors.

Perhaps Khrushchev did not hear it the first time. He got the Christmas message all right, however, and so, no doubt, did the millions of American citizens and voters who came themselves from the captive states or were born of immigrant parents.

There will be more of the same and more after that. In the lofty phrases of the late Al Jolson: You ain't heard nothing yet.

Air Force Enlistment Quota To Be Increased

Washington — (U.P.) — The Air Force has announced that its January enlistment quota will be increased from 10,000 to 14,000.

The Air Force at the same time disclosed it will speed up its basic recruit training program. After Jan. 1 Air Force recruits will spend only six weeks at a basic training base. The remaining five weeks of basic training will be combined with technical training at an Air Force school.
