

Stevenson Steps Up Pace With Attack on President's Policies

Chicago—(U.P.)—Adlai E. Stevenson stepped up the pace of his drive for the presidency today, jumping in to attack Eisenhower administration policies almost as soon as they are announced.

His latest blast was directed at President Eisenhower's farm program. The program was given to Congress Monday and Stevenson charged Tuesday night that it amounts to election year wooing of the farmers.

It was Stevenson's second direct attack on Mr. Eisenhower in three days. On Sunday, he branded the President's State of the Union message as "political" and "misleading."

The quickened tempo of Stevenson's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination also took the form of an announcement that he will go to Minnesota Tuesday to lay the groundwork for a possible primary victory.

Stevenson will file his name personally in St. Paul for the state's March 20 primary, one of five he plans to enter. The former Illinois governor will also file a slate of 57 Stevenson-placed delegates, including Minnesota Sen. Hubert Humphrey and Gov. Orville Freeman.

In his statement Tuesday night, Stevenson said "the President's farm message is recognition, at last, that the farmer needs help—at least in an election year!"

But he charged that all the administration proposals were originally offered by Democrats and added that there is "serious doubt" that they will be of immediate help to the farmers.

"The administration has had to reverse its field," Stevenson said, since "only a few months ago the Department of Agriculture was opposing the soil bank proposal which is the major element of the new program."

He charged "the administration still appears to be worrying more about the farm surplus than the farmer."

But he added he is sure Democrats in Congress will support "any parts of the program which promise real relief to our farm families."

Plans To Transfer Brazil Capital Made

Rio De Janeiro—(U.P.)—Plans to transfer Brazil's capital from Rio de Janeiro to the central highlands are well along, the Transfer Commission's president reported Tuesday night.

Marshal Jose Pessoa said that expropriation of the 400-square-mile site has been completed and a two-mile-long landing strip has been laid out. The next step is the laying out of streets and sewers.

The new city, modelled after Washington, is located on the so-called Formosa central plateau. It is one mile above sea level, assuring cool temperature throughout the year.

Air Force Launches New Type Balloon

Los Angeles—(U.P.)—The Air Force has announced that a newly designed meteorological balloon, big as a two-story house, was launched last Sunday in the continuing study of the causes of recent severe storms in the United States.

The giant plastic balloon which towers upward some 50 feet from its "tail" of meteorological instruments to its dome flies at altitudes above 30,000 feet and is no danger to commercial airline traffic which is confined to altitudes below that, the Air Force said.

The first of these new designs was set loose by the Air Force at Vernalis, Calif., 20 miles west of Modesto. The Air Force meteorological study has been dubbed "Moby Dick."

Air Force scientists hope that the information obtained may help explain, for instance, why the 1955 hurricane paths shifted off their normal courses to bring disaster to the eastern seaboard, and the causes of dust storms and gale winds that damaged Midwest crops.

Legislative Custom Gets Leap Year Twist

Trenton, N.J.—(U.P.)—The New Jersey State Legislature gave a Leap Year twist Tuesday to its custom of sending a delegation to notify the governor the Assembly is ready for business.

The speaker sent the Assembly's seven female members to "call on" Gov. Robert B. Meyner, a bachelor.

Jim Bond Films Cleared by Union

Portland—(U.P.)—The labor controversy between the Jim Bond adventure films and a theater employees' union was settled here yesterday when the union agreed to provide three attendants at the showings and allow volunteers to handle extra large crowds.

The films are being shown at Benson high school to benefit a Presbyterian church fund. The Portland Central Labor Council Monday night declared the showings unfair because all volunteer ushers, ticket takers and cashiers were used.

After the agreement to hire three union attendants, labor officials cleared Bond of the unfair charge and urged union members to attend the shows.

Grace Kelly Tries Costume for Picture

Hollywood, Calif.—(U.P.)—Grace Kelly spent today trying on her wedding dress—but for the fantasy world of the movies and not for her real-life marriage to dashing Prince Rainier III of Monaco.

The slender blonde went back to work at MGM, for what may be her next-to-last picture. Prophetically, she portrays a bride. But her friends hope she won't be too influenced by the plot of this picture.

Last December the actress portrayed a princess in "The Swan." Two days later she fell in love with a real prince from Monaco in a romance that could be taken from a rollicking opera.

Now Grace is starring in "High Society," a musical remake of a Katharine Hepburn picture, "Philadelphia Story." In the film Grace plays a rich socialite, true to real life—who jilts her fiancée at the altar 10 minutes before the wedding. Then she runs away with an old friend, portrayed by Bing Crosby (an old friend in real life).

Egyptian Constitution Faces Extensive Review

Cairo—(U.P.)—Egypt's new constitution is being extensively reviewed by military and civilian members of the government prior to its scheduled proclamation next week, it was reported today.

The document formally completing the transformation of Egypt into a republic was studied by the cabinet at a special session Tuesday night. It had previously been reviewed by Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser's Revolutionary Command council.

Commitment Sought For Child Strangler

Portland—(U.P.)—An attorney for Mrs. Naidell Filsinger said today a petition was in the hands of the probate court seeking state hospital commitment of the 32-year-old admitted strangler of her 16-month-old son.

Attorney Thomas Ryan was granted another week's postponement of a preliminary hearing after advising Municipal Judge John J. Murchison of the petition. The probate court hearing was tentatively set for today.

Mrs. Filsinger was charged with murder following the death of her son, Donald Steven, who was strangled with pajamas Dec. 30.
