Role of Parents May Be Overstressed

Buffalo, N.Y. — (U.P.) — The role of parents may well be over-stressed in research into the emotional problems of children, a prominent child psychiatrist said here.
Dr. Ralph D. Rabinovitch of Ann Arbor, Mich., noted that children bring many biological factors and varying levels of growth and activity into their family situation "which can help explain the causes of emotional disturbances." Dr. Rabinovitch is chief of children's services for the neuropsychiatric institute at the University of Michigan.
He urged more "detailed and more careful studies and new methods of understanding the children themselves."
"Continued attention should be given to study of the brain-injured child, childhood schizophrenia, reading problems, and residential treatment of severely disturbed children," Dr. Rab-inovitch said. "The research road is long and slow but we hope steady... There is growing public support for such research which surely will bear fruit. But we, as psychiatrists, must not promise too much too fast. Patience will bring its rewards."

Participation by U. S. In Baghdad Pact Eyed

Baghdad, Iraq. — (U.P.) — A Pakistani spokesman said today he believes that the United States should join the Baghdad pact, which is erecting a defensive wall between Russia and the strategic Middle East.
Said Hassan, chairman of the pact's Economic committee, expressed hope America will accept formal membership in the British-sponsored alliance, to which it already has pledged its full support.

JACKSONVILLE New Residents Operate Cafe

By MRS. C. S. HOSKINS
JACKSONVILLE — New residents in Jacksonville, and the new owners and operators of the former Lulu's cafe, now to be known as "Mom's Hideaway," as of Jan. 1 are Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Wilkinson, originally of Portland.

The Wilkinsons are residing in the Rachel Peterson residence at Fifth and California sts. They have an invalid son James at home and a grandson, Larry Wilkinson, who is enrolled in the eighth grade at Jacksonville school. Another son, Kenneth, is the owner and operator of "Dad's Hideaway" in Medford. The Wilkinsons plan to open the cafe at 7 a.m., serving breakfasts, hot meals, and short orders throughout the day. The bar will be run as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. George Van Galder and two daughters, Mary Lou and Darlene, of Central Point, were last Monday evening dinner guests at the Quintin Jordan residence, Jacksonville.

Mrs. Anna Rumley left last Friday for Oakdale, Calif., where she was called to the home of her sister, Mrs. Marge McCollough, whose husband is seriously ill.

Mrs. Ted Hewlett is convalescing at home after a few days' stay in the hospital last week. Col. Leroy Clay, with the Airborne honor guard at Ft. Campbell, Kentucky, was home for a two weeks leave over the recent holiday season. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Clay and a graduate of Jacksonville school in 1933. Also home to visit at that time was his brother Donald Clay, a junior at Oregon State college at Corvallis.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Fick of Roseburg paid a short Christmas visit to Mrs. Fick's parents, the Clay Howards; and Fick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fick, all of Jacksonville.

Miss Doris Wall was a recent visitor at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wall. Miss Wall is attending Bethany Bible college in Santa Cruz, Calif.

Stanley Chester, stationed at the San Diego Navy base, and his brother, Elroy Chester, from the Naval base in Astoria, Ore., both spent the holidays with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Earl Chester in Jacksonville.

Tommy Wall, recently home after 18 months in Korea with the Army, visited in Medford and Jacksonville over the recent holidays. He is the son of E. E. Wall and graduated from Jacksonville High school in 1953.

Recent guests at the Earl Wall residence were the Rev. and Mrs. Jack Bransford of Bay City, Ore. The Bransfords are former residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Rhoten and son James, Eugene, visited over New Years at the home of Mrs. Floyd Pence and Mrs. Ed Rhoten.

Hobbyists Assemble Stanley Steamer

San Leandro, Calif. — (U.P.) — Robert Brown, a welder, and Dewey Beebe, a friend, recently put together from cast-off parts an honest-to-goodness Stanley Steamer that turns its speedometer at 25 miles per hour.

The two hobbyists began their labor of love by collecting materials for miles around. A few boiler parts and some old motorcycle wheels provided the nucleus, and these were applied to an 1893 vintage Stanley Steamer engine bought by Brown many years ago.

They built a frame and a 400-pound box-like body for the antique engine, fused these with the engine and came up with a sight to behold. The car has a wheel base of 66 inches and is entirely safe from splitting its steam-driven seams.

Robert saw to this by installing a precaution valve that sounds off when the boiler feeding steam to the motor heats up beyond 300 pounds of pressure per square inch.

On top of all this the car is possibly the easiest to drive ever conceived. Because it is entirely without gears, all one has to do is light the fire and push down the throttle.

Brown owns another Stanley rig that they expect to have hitting 80 m.p.m. in another year.

Parrot Won't Tell Contents of Mail

Miami, Fla. — (U.P.) — "The mail must go through" may be the motto of the postal department, but there are nine letters from Tegucigalpa, Honduras which aren't going through — not unless someone can persuade a parrot to give an oral report on their contents.

The parrot shared a compartment with a sack of mail on a flight from Tegucigalpa to New Orleans. When the compartment was opened at the end of the journey, most of the letters were in the sack.

Nine of them, however, were in the parrot.

As We Live

Also New Years day visitors at the Pence home were Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Cleveland and son Ricky of Ore. Tech. Klamath Falls, Ore. Visiting Mrs. Pence last Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Mansfield (Doc) and daughter Bertha, Grants Pass.

Guests at the Minus Pence home in Jacksonville were their two sons, Frank and Noel, and his fiancée, Miss Ann Dackek, all of Eureka, Calif. On New Years day they also visited the J. R. Hamakers in Jacksonville.

Recently returning here from a trip over the holidays were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Clemmer and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hunsley. They visited in Wendell, Ida., at the home of Clemmer's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Swarner. On the return trip home the Clemmers and Hunsleys stopped in Boise, Ida., and visited Miss Pearl Swarner at the St. Alphonse hospital where she is a student nurse.

The first of a planned program of Coffee Klatches sponsored by the Jacksonville Royal Neighbor lodge to raise funds for the March of Dimes campaign was held Tuesday, Jan. 10, at the home of Mrs. George Wendt, who was assisted by Mrs. Quintin Jordan. A sum of $11 was taken in. Each week during the March of Dimes drive a Coffee Klatch will be held at a different Royal Neighbor's home.

Only Phone Boy's Mother After An Introduction

A boy's mother can have a great influence over him as far as his attitude toward girls is concerned.

(Q) "Last summer I met a swell guy and dated him twice before he was drafted. He has been away since early September and I have only seen him once when he was home on leave. I have called his mother twice lately to find out when he would be home again and she told me she would tell him I had called. I don't know whether she did or not because I haven't heard from him since the last date I had with him. Would it be all right for me to drop in and see his mother, and find out when she expects him to be home again?"—W.D.

(A) It most certainly would not be all right for you to drop in to call on the mother of a young man you know so casually. You should not have called her either but that is now water over the dam.

Had this young man taken you to his home to meet his mother, you could then have called her to ask when she expected her son to come home.

But you are a total stranger to her and you have doubtless given her the impression that you are "chasing" her son. Any mother dislikes this and is likely to get an unfavorable impression of the girl who engages in such tactics.

It is very possible that she has told her son, in a letter, of your calls and implied that she felt you were "chasing" him. It is also very possible that your friend was embarrassed or annoyed about your calling his mother and giving her an opportunity to criticize you. That may be why you have not heard from him since your last date.

You will be wise to sit tight and do nothing further until you hear from him. And, in the future, be careful about telephoning the mothers of young men you know.
