Morse Record Poor, Wendell Wyatt Says

Hillsboro (U.P.)—State Republican Chairman Wendell Wyatt says Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) has "one of the poorest records in the United States Senate for effectiveness."

Wyatt told the Washington County Republican Central Committee Wednesday night that "recent information" showed that in 1952 Morse's name appeared on 41 bills as sponsor or co-sponsor and that one bill became law. In 1953, Wyatt said, his name appeared on 83 bills and one became law.

He said that "in the first nine years that he sat in the Senate his name appeared on 488 bills, of which 24 became law."

Salem (U.P.)—State police said today that the body of Lee Pope, 70-year-old Independence farmer, was found along the Willamette river yesterday. He was one of three persons listed as missing and presumed drowned during Christmas week floods.

Discovery of Pope's body raised the state's death toll from bad weather and floods last month to 14. Two others, Richard and Elmer Leonard, both of Hood River, still are missing.

About 90 per cent of all U. S. farm produce reaches the market by highway transport.

Coos Bay Water Users Favor Fluoridation

Coos Bay (U.P.)—A post card poll shows Coos Bay area water users in favor of fluoridation in a ratio of 1770 to 499, the Coos Bay-North Bend Water Board said today.

The board has ordered its manager, C. V. Signor, to collect cost estimates on fluoridation equipment to be considered at the February meeting. The Oregon Supreme Court this week rejected arguments that fluoridation violated constitutional guarantees and said cities had a right to treat their water with fluoride under their police power. Fluorides have been found effective in preventing tooth decay.

Traces of the earth's atmosphere have been recorded as high as 600 miles above the normal sea level.
