

Rogue Angling Proposals Revealed in More Detail

Proposed changes in angling regulations for the Rogue watershed (Zone 4) have been outlined in more detail for the information of sportsmen in this area.

The Oregon Game Commission set the proposed regulations for 1956 at a meeting last week end in Portland. Final adoption will be considered, also in Portland, on January 27.

The Game Commission set the proposed angling regulations for 1956 at their meeting in Portland last Friday, January 13. The proposed changes pertaining to the Rogue Watershed (Zone 4) are described as follows.

The season for trout in the Rogue basin will be April 23 to October 7. Lakes and reservoirs within National Forest boundaries will open on May 25. Willow Creek reservoir will be added to the list of exceptions to this delayed opening and will open on April 23 along with the streams of the Rogue.

Steelhead Seasons
The season for trout not less than 12 inches (steelhead and cutthroats) will be from October 8 to November 30 on the Rogue below Shady Cove and October 8 to February 28 on the Rogue below Mule creek as well as the Illinois below Pomroy dam.

The winter season for steelhead on the Rogue below the mouth of the Applegate will be from January 15 to February 15. During 1956, this season will close on January 31 and will not re-open until after the new regulations are filed with the secretary of state, probably about February 10. Just as soon as the new regulations are filed, the public will be notified immediately and the winter season for steelhead on the Rogue will continue until February 15.

The Applegate winter steelhead season is proposed for the period January 15 to February 28. There will be no change in the closing date in 1956, but the opening date will be January 15 in 1957.

An earlier opening of August

15 was proposed for the silver salmon season on the Rogue. This was recommended to make it legal for anglers to keep silvers in the jaws at Gold Beach in late August.

The bag limit for trout not less than 12 inches on the Rogue, Applegate and Illinois rivers during the fall and winter seasons was reduced to two fish per day but not more than four in any seven consecutive days.

Tentative plans call for Diamond lake to be open from May 26 to October 7. The lake was treated in 1954 to eliminate trash fish and was closed last season. It has been restocked with kamloops rainbow trout.

Proposed season at Lake of the Woods this year is July 1 to October 7. The lake was treated last September to remove trash and spray rained fish. It will not be stocked until early this spring but legal size trout will be planted.

April 28 is proposed opening date for anglers at Fish lake.

Saturday Library Hours Are Changed

Adult and junior departments of the Medford public library will close at 5:30 p.m. Saturdays starting Jan. 21.

The change in hours is necessary in order to provide sufficient desk attendants for day-time hours, during which demands for service have become increasingly heavy. Library attendance Saturday evenings is less than at most other times of the week.

There was an increase in library circulation for December, 1955, over December, 1954, of more than 15 per cent, with corresponding increases in book reserves, reference requests, and other services. A total of 187 new borrowers were registered in the adult department, indicating a continued increase in business to be expected in the future.

Funds do not permit employment of additional staff members to meet increased demands making a reduction of hours the most feasible solution. Although new members have been added on a part-time basis, the total man-hours available remain the same as last year.

Marquand Novels Are Presented To Library

A set of the novels of John P. Marquand was presented to Medford Public Library recently in memory of Mrs. Henry F. Feller.

The set, which was presented by Mr. Feller's wife and daughter, Mrs. Henry F. Feller and Mrs. Don Hickey, includes "B. F.'s Daughter," "H. M. Pulham, Esquire," "The Late George Apley," "So Little Time," and "Wickford Point." The set will be placed on circulation later this week.

Ketch Novia Del Leads Yacht Race

San Diego, Calif. (U.P.)—The 89-foot ketch Novia Del Mar, owned by John P. Scripps of the San Diego Yacht club, today led 23 other boats in the 1,431-mile San Diego-to-Acapulco, Mex., handicap yacht race.

The Coast Guard cutter, Perseus, escorting the racing yachts, sent word last night that the Novia Del Mar, scratch boat in the race, had taken about a 10-mile lead over a group of boats some 135 miles south of here. The race began here Sunday.

The Nam Sang, a 66-foot ketch owned by Louis Stratham, was reported second in the race.

The cutter's report indicated the 38-foot sloop Nymph, owned by Bruce Smith of the San Diego Yacht club, had fallen far back after leading the group earlier yesterday.

The Novia Del Mar led a group which included the Mistress, Eventide, Diamond Head, Moana, Vaeringer II, Como, Carousel, Altamar, Kialua, Nalu II, Marilen, Legend, Sealark, Escapade, Elisita, Milagro and Astrea.

According to the Coast Guard, some of the boats do not report in to keep their position secret from other boats.
