Democrats' School Aid Bill Stalled

Washington—(U.P.)—The drive to bring the Democratic $1,600,000,000 school aid bill to the House floor was stalled at least temporarily today.

The House Rules committee began working over the bill Tuesday. And so far, the committee showed no signs of letting it go.

However, House leaders hoped the bill can be brought to the floor for a vote next week.

The bill calls for federal grants of $400,000,000 a year to states for school construction during the next four years. The administration wants to give the states $1,250,000,000 over a five year period. The Republicans have pledged to fight for the administration plan.

Any school aid plan is certain to run into a segregation fight on the House floor. Proposed amendments would bar federal funds to segregated schools.

Undergraduate Doctors Said Lacking

Chicago—(U.P.)—There are more newly graduated doctors still in training than there are students in undergraduate medical schools, the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association reports.

The council said the situation is unique among the professions. The council's 1954-55 annual report showed 29,560 young physician graduates serving as interns or residents in 1,364 hospitals. That's more than the number of students in undergraduate medical schools, the council said, and indicates "the magnitude of the growth over the past 10 years."

The pay for interns in hospitals connected with medical schools ran $87 a month compared with $84 the previous year, the council said. In hospitals not affiliated with schools, the monthly pay is $136 a month, $1.00 more than the previous year.

However, the council said, the pay seems to have no effect on the prospective intern's choice of a hospital for training.

Mice Parachuted Toward Nude Singer

Portsmouth, England—(U.P.)—Peaches Page the nude had mouse trouble again Tuesday night.

Miss Page, who bills herself as "The Delicious Singing Nude," ran into trouble in London last week when a mouse ran across her foot and she streaked for the wings in defiance of British law.

British law says an actress may appear nude on the stage if she does not move.

Tuesday night several men dressed as clergymen parachuted two white mice onto the stage from a box overlooking the delicious nude.

The management dropped the curtain before Miss Page could break the law again. And also before the "clergymen"—discovered to be sailors in disguise—could pepper her with the pea-shooters they had brought with them.

Displeasure Told Over Ford Grants

Portland—(U.P.)—Chancellor John R. Richards of the state system of higher education yesterday expressed mild displeasure with the Ford Foundation for its failure to include Northwest medical schools in its recent $500,000,000 grant to private colleges and hospitals.

Dr. Richards told the State Board of Higher Education meeting yesterday that public medical schools were particularly dependent upon private income.

"The unfortunate effect of the Ford Foundation formula for medical education is to deny any funds for the support of medical teaching and research in the entire Northwest, for this area has no private medical schools," he said.

Of all the hospital beds in the U.S. about 71 per cent are operated by the government—44 per cent by the states; 14 by the U.S., and 13 by city-county.
