"Joe Primsell."

Chicago—(U.P.)—It cost policeman Jack Muller $3 to live up to his reputation as champion ticket writer on the Chicago police force.

Sydney, Australia—(U.P.)—A crazed horse ran wild at Mascot Airport disrupting air traffic for five hours.

Incoming pilots were offered alternate landing fields, but all elected to take their chance of meeting the horse on the runways.

The horse finally wandered away during the night after airport officials were unsuccessful in trapping it.

Pueblo, Colo.—(U.P.)—It cost Rudy Cruz $40 in car repairs because Pueblo was the coldest city in the United States Monday with a temperature of 16 degrees below zero.

He lighted a small fire under his automobile engine to warm it so it would start.

The engine caught fire.

Tallahassee, Fla.—(U.P.)—Fraternity pledges Tom Hafner and Paul Snyder held a prowler at bay with a sinister-looking German gun and a champagne bottle until police arrived.

Oregon Uranium Credited by AEC

Washington—(U.P.)—The Atomic Energy commission has credited Oregon uranium with helping to maintain the nation's position as one of the world's leading producers of the atomic ore.

The commission's semi-annual report referred to the White King and Lucky Lass mines of the Lakeview area which were added to the nation's uranium producing operations during the last six months of 1955.

The report also commented on uranium explorations in the Lakeview vicinity apart from the two original mines but a spokesman said it was too early to tell whether the deposits were commercially significant.

Mining in the southeastern Oregon operations is now slack due to bad weather conditions.
